

UNION ITEMS.

Ben Anderson was in Nebraska City last Sunday, where he visited with his wife, who is a patient at St. Mary's hospital.

Miss Mildred Withrow, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Withrow, has been having a siege of flu, but is reported as some better now.

Miss Amelia Frederick, of Plattsmouth is here as nurse at the home of Mr. and Mrs. D. Ray Frans, caring for Mrs. Frans during her illness.

Mrs. A. L. Becker, who has not been feeling the best for some time, being confined to her home and bed, was reported as slightly improved Monday.

County Commissioner E. B. Chapman was a visitor in Plattsmouth on Tuesday, going to meet with the board at their regular February meeting this week.

Thomas Turner, who has been seriously ill at a hospital in Omaha for some time, is reported as considerably improved, although he is still having some very bad nights.

While about his work at the blacksmith shop, H. W. Griffin cut his hand with a small axe, causing it to be very sore for a time, but it is now healing nicely and will soon be entirely well.

Leslie Potts, of Avoca, was looking after some business matters in Union last Monday, stopping on his return from a trip to Omaha, where he was delivering cattle for some farmers residing near Avoca.

Miss H. W. (Grandmother) Crawford, who left the hospital recently and was staying with a daughter in Omaha for a few days before returning to her home here, was not feeling quite so well last Saturday.

Miss Nola Banning, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Banning, who is a teacher in the public schools at Nebraska City, spent the week end at the parental home here, where she enjoyed meeting many of her old friends.

Miss Mabel McGinnis, a former teacher in the Alvo schools, but who is employed as a teacher in the Union schools this year, visited friends in Alvo and Lincoln over the week end, returning to take up her teaching duties here Monday morning.

Wayne Ackley and son were in Murray last Monday, where they were getting two truck loads of corn which is being used for the feeding of cattle at the farm of Louis Mougay, they hauling good loads notwithstanding the raging snowstorm.

Mrs. Vesta Clarke, who is manager of the Union telephone exchange, left her daughter, Mrs. O. W. Finney, in charge of the switchboard, while she spent a day in Plattsmouth during the past week as a guest at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Edgar Newton, and family.

Entertained Friends Sunday
Mr. and Mrs. Homer Snodgrass entertained at their country home last Sunday, serving a very fine dinner. Guests present included Mr. and Mrs. Lee Farris and children, Mr. and Mrs. Moss McCarrroll and Harry Gobelman and wife.

To Hold Farm Sale
John (Jack) West, who resides several miles southwest of Union, is to hold a farm sale on Friday, February 14, the advertisement of which appears elsewhere in this issue of the Semi-Weekly Journal. Included in the listing for this sale are seven head of horses, fifteen head of cattle and an exceptionally good lot of farm machinery, most of it nearly new and all having had the best of care. Rex Young, of Plattsmouth, will be the auctioneer, and O. C. Hinds of Weeping Water, clerk.

Announcement of Services
The Rev. G. O. Baker announces the services which are to be held at the Woodman hall this coming Sunday, as follows: Sunday school at 10 a. m. Morning worship at 11, with evangelistic meetings at 7:45 Sunday evenings only. Everyone is invited to come and participate in these meetings.

Uses Ice in All Weather
Notwithstanding the raging blizzard and the low temperature last Monday, the Morris Grocery was filling their refrigerator with ice. It really looked like it was sure cold enough and that it should be necessary to have something to keep the cold out instead of in.

Married at Omaha Friday
Thomas Ogden, who is one of the corps of efficient instructors in the Union schools and a young man of high character, capable and popular with the students of the school and in fact everyone in the community, was united in marriage at Omaha last Friday evening at 8 o'clock to Miss Thelma Munt, they returning to Union after the ceremony and will make their home here, occupying a portion of the home of Mrs. Mary B. Allison, which will be very handy to the Union schools, where the groom is an instructor.

Prof. Bugbee and wife and several of the teachers of the local schools attended the wedding ceremony in Omaha.

Mrs. Anderson Very Poorly
Mrs. Ben Anderson, who has not been in the best of health for some time past, was taken to St. Mary's hospital in Nebraska City last Friday for observation and treatment. Her condition, while not good, is such as to cause the relatives and friends to entertain hope that she will respond rapidly to the treatment received there and permit of her returning home soon restored to her usual good health.

Wife and Baby Home
Mrs. Melvin Todd and their little son have returned home from St. Mary's hospital at Nebraska City, where they have been staying since the birth of the little one. The baby weighed but four pounds at birth and it was necessary to have it placed in incubator for a time, but it is now getting along very nicely. The mother and child arrived home Monday and their was much pleasure at the home on account of their arrival.

Former Citizen Dies
William Mueller, a former citizen of Union, who many years ago was engaged in the grain business here, but for the past number of years has been making his home at Springfield in Sarpy county, was taken ill some time ago and on last Friday passed away at his home there. The funeral was held Sunday.

Many of the people of Union and vicinity will recall when Mr. Mueller was a resident here and of the excellent business man that he was. In company with his wife, they visited here for a few hours one Sunday afternoon last summer, driving down from their home at Springfield.

Joy Turned to Sorrow
The stock brought joy to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Otis Keene last Friday, in the person of twin baby girls. However, the joy was followed by sorrow when one of the little pair of daughters passed away on Saturday afternoon. Arrangements were made for the holding of the funeral Monday, but the inclement weather combined with the very delicate condition of the other little one and the fact that the mother had contracted a severe case of pneumonia, caused a postponement of the same. The surviving daughter was taken to the home of Grandmother Mrs. W. L. Stine to be cared for there. Meanwhile the mother, Mrs. Keene, remains in a very serious condition.

Mrs. D. Ray Frans Very Sick
Mr. and Mrs. D. Ray Frans and son, Jimmie, were in Murray on last Sunday, where they were guests at the home of Dr. and Mrs. G. H. Gilmore for the day and a very fine dinner. Mrs. Frans had not been feeling the best and during the day she was taken very ill with something resembling an attack of flu.

They hurried home, and upon finding the home physician, Dr. Anderson out of town, Dr. Gilmore, the brother-in-law was called. Being under the weather himself, he secured Dr. R. W. Tyson, who with Miss Amelia Frederick, of Plattsmouth, a nurse, hastened to the bedside of the patient, where everything possible was done for her comfort, although she suffered very much throughout the night. Monday morning her condition was considerably improved, although still seriously ill. The many friends of Mrs. Frans trust her illness may be of short duration.

To Attend County Spelling Contest
Betty Jane Baker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Baker, and Florence Balfour, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Balfour, both students at the Factoryville school and near neighbors, were selected at a test last Friday to become the contestants from that school in the county spelling contest to be held at Plattsmouth in the near future.

Job Finished Just in Time
The big county tractor which has been undergoing a general overhaul during the winter season, in order to have it ready for the heavy road work that always comes in the spring, had the finishing touches put on it last Saturday, and as a result was ready to go out on the highway and do its part to help clear the roads of snowdrifts which the blizzard of Monday and Tuesday night piled up.

Rock surfacing of farm to market roads as WPA projects offers as fine a method of expending relief funds as could be devised.

Prospects Brighter for 1936 Graduates

Youth Leaving College in June to Find Jobs More Numerous, Pay Better, Alumni Survey Indicates

Seniors become freshmen again

By COURTLAND SMITH
International Illustrated News
Feature Writer

ANN ARBOR, Mich.—June no longer need be a nightmare to haunt the otherwise complacent dreams of the American college senior.

From every present indication the young man or woman with a college degree can enter the business world in 1936 with the best chance in years of finding an opening somewhere, if not in the very field or profession of his choosing.

Not that executive positions have been reserved at $5,000 a year, for those who will don the cap and gown next June. It is simply that their prospects upon graduation are brighter than they have been at any time since 1930.

Students who were graduated from American colleges and universities during the past few years have not had an easy lot. Until recently conditions for which they prepared themselves, and those fortunate enough to find openings discovered the salary scale far below that of a decade ago.

Women who prepared themselves for a teaching career found better opportunities in clerical work while many men who had earned teachers' certificates discovered various kinds of unskilled labor to be their only recourse.

Depression Hits Graduates
The depression hit those graduating from the professional schools in like manner in many cases and master's and doctor's degrees brought no assurance of employment.

According to an extensive survey conducted among graduates of the University of Michigan by Professor George E. Myers, an authority on vocational education and guidance, earnings have been amazingly low among alumni who earned degrees in 1932 and 1933, probably the worst years of the depression.

Both men and women who had found teaching positions averaged $875 annually. Approximately 15 per cent reported annual earnings of $500 or less and only 5 per cent reported making more than $1,500. Engineers drew an average salary of $1,250 a year; lawyers, $1,328; dentists, $1,620. Graduates of the Literary college (general course) made only $1,120 annually since leaving college; co-eds, $1,000.

"Two years after leaving college," observes Professor Myers, "a considerable number had been unable to find work of any kind. A much larger number, especially graduates of the literary college, the College of Engineering, the College of Architecture, and the School of Education had found it necessary to engage in work quite different than they had planned. On the whole they were earning much less than similar graduates received eight or ten years ago.

"Other surveys show that five years after graduation nearly one-third of the women who were graduated with certificates eligible to teach in 1929 were earning less than $1,000 per year.

Conditions Now Better
Considering the fact that the University of Michigan, with an enrollment of approximately 9,000 students and a graduating class of some 2,500 young men and women, is a typical American institution of higher learning, it is reasonable to assume that the employment situation of its alumni during the past few years is indicative of the general trend among college graduates throughout the United States.

The depression made no distinction between the college graduate and the laboring man. There was no charm attached to a university degree that would unlock the door of unemployment.

However, graduates of last June are finding the way is easier. Gradually they are stepping into this field or that vocation although salaries are not what they were 10 years ago by any means.

Barring another collapse in the economic order of the world, those who venture forth after commencement day next June will find smooth sailing.
