

FACES LAND TAX FIGHT

Gering, Feb. 3.—Terry Carpenter, Scottsbluff grocer and democratic candidate for the United States senate, Monday appeared in district court to show cause why 16.6 acres of land owned by him in Scottsbluff should be set outside the city's corporate limits.

Carpenter claims the land, upon which he has erected a grocery store, liquor store, oil refinery and other businesses, is used "primarily for agricultural purposes."

The city claims the property, which lies just south of the main business district, has public improvements and is subject to municipal taxes.

DIE IN GAS FILLED HOUSE

Pittsburgh.—Five members of the family of Dominic Fusco, died in their gas filled home at suburban Rankin.

A brother, Joseph Fusco, broke into the dwelling after none of the family had been seen during the day. He said he found the rooms filled with gas from a small heating stove.

Besides Dominic Fusco, the dead were his wife, Marie, and their children, Salvatore, 20, Lawrence, 16, and Altera 12. Physicians said an 18 year old daughter, Marie, may recover.

MAKES SYNTHETIC RADIUM

Berkeley, Calif.—Production of a tiny quantity of synthetic radium from bismuth bombarded with the nuclei of double weight hydrogen was announced by Dr. J. J. Livingood, University of California scientist.

POWER DISTRICT IS READY FOR SUIT

Columbus, Feb. 3.—Loup river public power district officers said Tuesday night they forwarded data to Attorney August Wagner in Washington in preparation of a petition in intervention to be filed by the district in the pending injunction suit of five Nebraska power companies.

The power companies seek to enjoin government officials from proceeding with the proposed co-ordination of Nebraska's three federally-financed hydro-electric projects. A restraining order was granted by the District of Columbia supreme court to halt the co-ordination, and a hearing will be held Feb. 7.

LEAVE FOR LONG BEACH

Mr. and Mrs. Ira Inman of Louisville, left Saturday morning for Long Beach, California. They will stop at Denver where they will be guests of friends. They are also going to stop at Salt Lake City. They will then go on to Long Beach and tour California for the winter months.

Mrs. Inman was formerly Miss Rose Kalasek of this city.

VISITS AT HOSPITAL

Mrs. J. W. Myers of Louisville, was in the city for a short time Saturday to look after some matters of business. Mrs. Myers had been at Omaha to visit with her daughter, Laura, who is at the Methodist hospital recovering from an appendectomy. The patient is reported as showing a nice gain and it is hoped she may soon be on the highway to recovery.

Nehawka

Harry Stutt, the insurance agent of Avoca was a visitor in Nehawka last Wednesday looking after some business in his line.

Melvin Sturm found the coldest weather in and about Nehawka which was 34 below zero, although a number of places registered 32 below.

Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Troop were over to Plattsmouth last Sunday night and remained until Monday morning before they could get home.

George Hansen and Vilas P. Sheldon were in Omaha and Plattsmouth a few days ago where they were called to look after some business matters.

Lawrence Kruger of Avoca was a visitor at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Kruger last Tuesday evening, returning to his home at Avoca Wednesday morning.

Louis Chappell who has been kept to his home a good deal of the time in bed with rheumatism, is now feeling some better and is able to be out again, although not feeling the best.

A. R. Dowler, representative of the Wayne Proprst Chevrolet Sales company of Nebraska City, was a visitor in Nehawka last Wednesday looking after some business and visiting his many friends.

Uncle Thomas Mason who has been kept to his home for some time past with severe attacks of rheumatism, is some better and just now is able to get down town again, with the aid of his trusty crutch.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Bucholtz of Avoca were guests for the day last Sunday at the home of the parents of Mrs. Bucholtz, Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Kruger, where they all enjoyed a very fine visit and a sumptuous dinner.

County Commissioner E. B. Chapman of Union was in Nehawka last Wednesday and was assisting in directing the opening of the road running north to the Murray highway and getting the roads in shape for delivering the mail and also getting the students to school.

James McVey who was able to return home some time since from the hospital where he was for a time on account of the injury when the tractor ran over his leg, is reported as getting along fairly well at this time and his many friends are rejoicing over the improvement, hoping that soon he will be able to be out again.

Dr. Henry W. Walters was called out last Monday evening in the country and when he attempted to return home the air was full of whirling snow and he had to wait for a time before he attempted to return home and even then says it was impossible to see where to drive. He arrived home at 1:30 in the morning.

Robert H. Chapman and Thomas Mason, the rural mail carriers, sure had their hands full of work and worry trying to serve their patrons with mail. They did very well under the circumstances. However on last Wednesday with a coterie of shovellers the mail routes and the school bus route were partially opened and allowed the buses to run and carry the scholars. However there was no school on Tuesday.

W. T. Schlictemeier Better.

Mr. W. T. Schlictemeier who has been at the hospital in Omaha for some time where he has been cared for by the wife, has been showing good improvement and it was expected he would be able to return home early this week, but the severe weather, accompanied by the blizzard prevented, but he will be able to return home as soon as the weather will permit.

Pleasant View School News.

The pupils who come to our school are Frances Hart, Wendell Hart, Osa Marie Boedeker, Bobby Mayfield, John Deterding, Wilma Livingston, and Josephine Fitch.

The snow has kept quite a few home from school during the last two weeks, but most of the high school during the last two weeks. But most of the high school has been here. There are some snowdrifts higher than our heads and we have to find our way around them.

Most of the grade school hasn't been here. Jan. 29, there was only one here. She was Pauline Rough. Jan. 30, there were three here. They were: Viona, Darlene, and Wanda Shoemaker. We are hoping that very soon all of our pupils can be here.

One of our pupils, Wilma Livingston, has been in the hospital for an appendicitis operation. She hasn't come back to school yet. We are glad to hear that she is getting along well.

We are giving a demonstration using a live mouse. We are going to feed him some alcohol mixed with sugar to see how a narcotic affects a

SEEK FUND TO HOUSE GUARDS

Lincoln, Feb. 3.—Adj. Gen. H. J. Paul of the Nebraska national guard said Monday reports from Washington indicate congress will be asked for a large appropriation for armories in the various states.

Paul asserted the appropriation seemed to be the only hope of the $600,000 building program he outlined several months ago to house Nebraska units.

After receiving assurance from Washington that this plan could be carried out with works progress funds, Paul said he would D. F. Felton, state WPA administrator, unwilling or unable to provide the money.

He reported Felton believed he could not spare the money from the Nebraska WPA budget for so much building with a low ratio of labor to material.

The program included a $125,000 structure in Lincoln and $25,000 armories in about a dozen Nebraska cities.

A factor in the drive for buildings, Paul said, is the $20,000 which the state pays annually to rent drill halls for national guard companies.

SIX LAW FIRMS IN SUIT

Washington.—One Washington, one Chicago and four Nebraska law firms were listed as attorneys for the five Nebraska power companies which challenged the PWA Nebraska power program in the District of Columbia supreme court here. The Nebraska firms were those of Flansburg, Lee & Sheldahl in Lincoln, Clarence A. Davis in Holdrege, William Suhr in Grand Island and Kennedy, Howard, Delacy and Svoboda in Omaha. Ralph Svoboda represented this group in bringing the bulky petition to the capital.

The Chicago firm was Cutting, Moore and Sidley, and the Washington firm was Covington, Burling, Rublee, Acheson and Shorb. Listed on the petition as, of counsel for this firm in the case, however, were Edward B. Burling, Spencer Gordon and Howard C. Westwood. Westwood is a former Nebraska boy and a son of L. C. Westwood of Tecumseh, long an active leader in the League of Nebraska Municipalities.

SNOW LIMITS IOWA FARM WEEK CROWD

Ames, Ia., Feb. 3.—Snow-drifted roads limited the first day's attendance at the annual farm and home week at Iowa State college to 300 persons.

Discussion on emergency and hay crops, legume and grass seedings, small grain problems and seed corn supplies marked Monday afternoon's sessions. Livestock and grain judging contests also got under way. Word was received that Francis Flood, of the agricultural adjustment administration press services, will speak Tuesday instead of Chester C. Davis, farm administrator.

WOMAN IS DEAD OF BURNS

Columbus, Neb.—Mrs. Ira Thompson, 34, of Rising City, died in a hospital here Tuesday from burns she suffered as she carried a flaming oil stove from her home Sunday night.

Mrs. Thompson's mother, Mrs. Fred Landis, discovered the burning stove. She summoned Mrs. Thompson who threw a rug over the flames and carried the stove outside the house. Her clothing caught fire, and she rolled in the snow to extinguish the flames. She was burned fatally on her head, arms, and legs.

MILLERS TRY NEW MOVE

Omaha.—Six of the Nebraska milling companies who have nearly $2,000,000 tied up in AAA processing taxes in Omaha federal courts petitioned Judge Donohoe for permission to withdraw the money, leaving in escrow instead a 1 percent handling charge which the government is demanding. The millers also filed an opposition to suits of several large bakeries who contend the processing taxes belong to them. The two petitions were sent to Judge Donohoe, who is sitting in Norfolk.

OMAHA BOY WINS CONTEST

Fremont, Neb.—Speaking on the subject "Italy and the Church," Robert Breum, Omaha Technical high school senior won the silver trophy Saturday in the Midland college extemporaneous speaking contest held in connection with the school's annual debate tournament. "Jesus Insists on Righteousness"

Luke, 6th Chapter.

Opposition was developing to Jesus teaching and preaching that he was compelled to lay the foundation to a new order of things; his "own" rejected him, sought to destroy him, therefore he selects twelve from the large number of his disciples, as a nucleus, upon and around which he will build a new Israel (Eph. 2:20-22). The development of this chapter shows us the broader and deeper teaching of Jesus; he demands righteousness in man, not lip service, but right living.

In the first six verses our Lord teaches his enemies that they are all wrong in the interpretation of the Sabbath law. The disciples had not broken the mosaic law, but the tradition of men. They knew not their Bible, as many others fail to know the scriptures today. Jesus proved it to them by citing King David's acts (I Sam. 21:6). A further act of Jesus is recorded in verses 6 to 11. This passage clarifies the Sabbath observance question. Far too many people are not clear in their mind about the proper conduct on Sunday. The question of Jesus in verse 9 was never answered by the scribes and Pharisees, but Jesus did, by restoring a man's hand, the means of making a living. How simple the answer: "Do good." Suffering must be alleviated, whether on the Sabbath or not. But see the reaction in verse 11.

Now Jesus retires to a mountain to be alone with the Father, and a whole night he is in communion with God—the only time mentioned—so as to make the proper selection in the organization of the church. "I would like to read this verse in churches where they are going to elect deacons and officers. Ballots and elections, and so often candidates for votes, even for bishops." (G. Campbell Morgan).

Twelve—for the twelve tribes of Israel; twelve judges; twelve foundations in the New Jerusalem; twelve gates; twelve pearls, only twelve spoken of as anointed in the Old Testament. All Gallileans but one. These were to be with Jesus to observe his life, to be indoctrinated with his truth. They were to be apostles—ambassadors for God. The word "apostles" appears in Matthew once, Mark once and Luke about 30 times.

Verses 17 to 19 record the healing of the multitudes. As Jesus expended his power in blessing others, so does every faithful worker, and that means a steady renewal of power, which comes from God. Here follows a repetition of the sermon on the mount, to the multitude in the open field, with variations. Here is the Master Teacher—verses 20 to 40—laying down the fundamental laws for his kingdom. If man would live up to them, most of our troubles would disappear and the rest never happen. The parables, verses 39 to 45, are very pointed and were aimed at his critics, who, not knowing the way, tried to lead others. This applies to teachers and preachers alike; that was one reason why Jesus took the twelve in training to teach others and perpetuate the work.

The pupil will imitate his teacher, think, speak and act like him. A severe rebuke was administered to the Pharisees and scribes about their hypocrisy, in pointing out the faults in others and forgetting their own failings. This lesson applies pre-eminently to teachers, preachers and parents who attempt to correct those under their instruction or care, when they themselves are in the greatest need of cleansing, separation and a return to righteousness in the everyday acts of their lives. The tree and its fruit are a fine object lesson—one which needs little explanation. A Godly man will live a Godly life, which is a benediction to others, while the ungodly is a curse.

A remarkable statement is made in verse 45, regarding the "heart" as a treasure chest, or casket, or receptacle in which valuables are kept. So is the soul a repository of thoughts, feelings and purposes (v. 45; Matt. 12:35). As the little stream which flows through the village green was born in the hidden fastness of some hill, so our speech has its birthplace in the hidden wealth of our heart, and takes its qualities and its color from its native place. Speech is the heart in the act and process of expression. The two foundations. (vs. 46 to 49).

The word of God continually warns men against the common sin of profession without practice. Calling Christ Lord is often a mere superficiality of life; if he is Lord, our Lord, then we must submit to him in service.

All men are builders, builders for eternity. What man builds is character. The natural man builds only one character, the regenerated man builds two, one before conversion and one after. One dug deep for the foundation, which shows foresight, patience and faith. To go deep means to go to the very fundamental things of life; there is rock to be reached—the rock of truth (I Cor. 10:4). How important a deep foundation is, is manifest in the life of the Christian. When the testing times come, he will not be moved; his anchor holds, the storm may bend him, but the roots only go deeper and afterwards he stands even firmer as a result of such deep-rooted convictions.
