

Harry Palmer of Omaha Out for U. S. Senate

Well Known Omaha Attorney Files as Primary Candidate on the Republican Ticket.

Harry O. Palmer, Omaha attorney, undaunted by his former defeat for chief justice, has stepped into a higher bracket. He has filed as a republican candidate for United States senator. In 1930 Palmer and Charles A. Goss were the two high men in the non-political primary and were pitted against each other at the general election, Goss winning.

Palmer's campaign was of the whirlwind variety and attracted much attention and gave his opponent considerable uneasiness. He was able to promulgate platforms and issues of his own that kept them guessing. He has had a varied experience in business, professional and educational occupations. He is a bachelor, born in 1886 at Louisville, Neb. His father, Emil P. Palmer, was born in Sweden. He is a graduate of Wesleyan university and of Harvard law college. In his college days he specialized in modern languages and was instructor in German and French. With his brother he operated a farm in Cass county. He once served as chairman of the Douglas county republican committee. He has had journalistic experience in Lincoln, Omaha and Boston.

Wabash News

The Wabash schools, after being closed during the bad weather, were reopened last week.

Ralph Richards was shelling and delivering corn to the Wabash elevator the latter part of the week.

Warren T. Richards visited in Lincoln a couple of days during the past week, looking after some business matters and visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Otte.

R. L. Stanley, merchant-farmer, had a shipment of 37 head of hogs on the South Omaha market one day last week, which brought him a return of $1,000. He has been feeding considerable stock.

Ira Helms, who has been farming south of Wabash, recently purchased a farm in Kansas and will move to that state to reside. He held a sale of his surplus farming equipment last week that was well attended.

Cold in Ohio

William T. Langhorst, who is now visiting at the home of a grandson, at Springfield, Ohio, writes saying it was very cold there. He also states he has been having a very good time there, but expects to return to Wabash a little later.

Bread a Scarce Article

During the period of blocked roads, the bread wagons were unable to get to Wabash and for a time the Missouri Pacific was also blocked, cutting off the bread supply. This caused many housewives to go back to the well nigh lost art of home baking, or to the frying of pancakes, while the stores were out of bread. But everyone managed to get along and nobody starved.

Fuel Shortage was Severe

During the recent cold weather and impassable roads, the fuel shortage in Wabash became very acute. With no regular dealer and people dependent largely on the supply of Iowa coal trucked in by John Wood, it became impossible to get coal here and those who did not have wood to tide them over found themselves right up against it. Mr. Wood fought and shoveled his way to Manly, where a limited supply of fuel was available, and was able to get some there to tide the people over until the highways could be cleared and hauling operations resumed from the mines.

Has Received Many Compliments

Miss Myrtle Wood, the rural mail carrier out of Wabash, who equipped herself with snow shoes and secured a number of boys to assist her in getting the mail delivered to her patrons, has received many press notices as well as letters from all sections of the country, particularly in the east, where the story of her work was published. Some of these have come from as far east as the New England states, where they know what hard winters are.

Overlooked Need for Flapjacks

One of the prominent citizens of Wabash, having a nice flock of hens and being of a frugal mind, to avoid letting the price of eggs decline with a large stock on hand, took all he had to the store, confident the hens would supply enough more for use at home. On his return, however, he found the hens were through producing eggs for that day, and faced the necessity of scurrying up some for pancakes and breakfast the following morning. So he returned to the store where he had sold his eggs and purchased enough to meet his needs. He cautioned the clerk not to tell us, but somehow the secret leaked out, as secrets generally do. We are sure, the next time, he will hold back a sufficient number for emergencies.

SPRING JUST AROUND THE CORNER, WARNS HATCHERY

Sure signs always of spring are the offerings of strong, vigorous chicks; high quality chick starting feeds; and fine brooding equipment that appear in the Journal advertising columns at this season of the year. Particular attention is called to the Brink Hatchery's display ad in today's paper, with others to follow. For the past month they have been offering the chicken raisers of this vicinity a special inducement to order chicks at least three weeks in advance, by giving free feed with such orders, and announce they will continue doing so for some little time to come. This special offer is made to get their incubators filled now when demand is not so great as it will be later in the season.

Inflated or ordinary dollars—either kind will still buy most if expended in your home community, where a part is retained to help meet the tax burden and other community obligations.

Cream of the West Bakery Sold to Peter Carr

H. E. Wentworth Disposes of Fine Modern Bakery He Has Operated for Past Nine Years.

From Saturday's Daily:

This morning the final details of the sale of the Cream of the West Bakery in this city to Peter Carr, of Beatrice, was completed and Mr. Carr will take over the active management of the business on Monday.

Mr. H. E. Wentworth, owner of the bakery for the past nine years, is disposing of the business so that he may enjoy a much needed rest as he has spent long hours each day in the bakery. Mr. Wentworth and son, Paul, who has assisted him in the bakery, are planning to leave Tuesday and will enjoy a recreation period for a year at least, later expecting to again engage in this line of business.

The Cream of the West is one of the most up to date and efficient plants of its kind in any of the small cities and has done a very fine business. Mr. Wentworth, the retiring owner, states that he has been well pleased with the support given him by the Plattsmouth people.

Mr. Carr, the new owner, with Mrs. Carr, are here now to arrange for their future home in this community. Mr. Carr has had extensive experience in the bakery business and will at once start in on the operation of the plant. He expects to add to the equipment and place it in the very best of shape for serving the needs of the community in the bakery line.

JUNIOR HIGH MUSIC

The Junior high school is working on their music with the expectations of giving a program for the parents and patrons of the school some time during the month of April. This program will be given in conjunction with the annual school exhibit which has proven so popular for the past four years. The 7th grade girls are working on an operetta under the direction of Miss Lillian Garrett and the 8th grade girls under the same direction are preparing several group numbers. Mr. Lee Knolle has charge of the 8th grade boys and they are working on some glee club numbers to be presented in the program. The boys are now able to sing four-part music and are showing considerable interest and improvement under Mr. Knolle's direction. Mildred Knolle is playing the accompaniment.

The music in the 5th and 6th grades under the direction of Miss Miriam Tritsch and Miss Amana Hiatt are preparing some group numbers to be presented at some future time for the parents and patrons of the school.

SCHOOL HEALTH

Mrs. Justus Lillie, school nurse, who has been working through the past month and in the interest of the health of the Plattsmouth school children, reports that the general health of the pupils has been quite good. There have been no serious epidemics, in the school up to the present time, only a few minor contagious diseases.

Mrs. Lillie is making regular inspection of the pupils in school and home calls to assist the parents in keeping the children in good health. This is fundamentally necessary in order to do good school work. A child that is not feeling well is not able to function in the school room properly and is seriously handicapped in his regular duties.

Mrs. Lillie reports that the response for clothing during the cold weather was exceedingly good. A number of citizens responded to the cause and sent the school the much needed clothing to provide the children with proper clothing.

WOMAN URGED TO RUN FOR JUDGE

There is an abundance of it, sufficient to supply everyone who has the facilities for taking care of it until the hot summer days when it will be in great demand.

Mrs. Matt Thimgan was hostess to a number of her friends in Murdock Thursday of last week. A very pleasant afternoon was enjoyed and a delicious lunch was served. During the afternoon the ladies enjoyed a social visit together as well as busying themselves with quilting, as Mrs. Thimgan had a quilt on the frames which the ladies pitched in and finished for her.

William Arth, of Lincoln, who is an auditor engaged in checking the Co-Operative Credit associations over the state, was in Murdock last Friday auditing the books of the Murdock institution. ### Have Made a Fine Showing Everyone in Murdock is proud of the fine showing that has been made by the high school basketball team this year. A large number from here went to Alvo Thursday night to witness the game between these two teams, which was won by the local lads, score, 32 to 22.

Friday night they were scheduled to play Nehawka, and this promised to be a real contest as both are exceptionally strong teams. Sorry, we have been unable to get the results at the time this is written, but feel sure the Murdock boys acquitted themselves in splendid manner.

Program Opens Lenten Season

Last evening (Sunday, March 1) there was a very pleasing program given at the Murdock Evangelical church as part of the observance of the first Sunday in Lent. One of the features of the meeting was a progressive series of talks on the past, present and future of the church. L. Neitzel was the first speaker, addressing his remarks to past history of the church, in which he has been an active worker ever since he came to Murdock in 1891. He was followed by Alvin Oehlerking, a young man actively engaged in the work of the Master in carrying on the church program at the present time, whose remarks were dedicated to the present, with its golden opportunity for service. The future was spoken of by Mrs. Schwab, wife of Rev. Harvey A. Schwab, son of a former minister here, and who foresees a bright outlook for the years to come.

All of these talks were very interesting and were listened to most intently by everyone present.

Give a Man a Horse

Everyone likes a fine horse, and especially one of those spirited animals that carries itself in fine shape. Of course, the automobile has diverted much of the old interest shown in horses, but there are still some people who consider riding horseback one of the finest methods of transportation. Recently he purchased a fine horse not unlike the one which Don Quixote rode when he fought the windmills of Spain. This noble steed had never been ridden, and to get him accustomed to carrying a load he first placed a saddle on its back and then led the animal around by the bridle strap. Later he placed a light weight on the saddle, gradually increasing it until soon the horse was carrying a heavy concrete block strapped to the saddle.

Having brought the animal thus far, he expects to soon attempt to ride it. When he does, he will have Herman Schewpe and Carl Schlaphoff as referees in order that justice may be done to both the animal and the rider.

Callahan Church Notes

F. C. Weber, Pastor
All services at the usual hour on the Lord's day. Lenten season gives us the opportunity to withdraw from the noise and confusion of life, out of the realm of ego into the realm of His voice.

It is a season when Christian men and women draw apart in order that they may be in comradeship with the One by whom we are created. The Lenten call is not a call for service, the Lenten call is a call to drive the roots of our lives deeper in Him. Jesus Christ will be entombed in His church or will be enthroned in His world.

He was wounded for our transgressions; He was bruised for our iniquities; the chastisement of our peace was upon Him; and with His stripes we are healed.
