Dan Stephens Says Sen. Burke is Impossible

Thinks Omaha Senator's Vote on the Conservation Bill is Difficult to Explain.

Fremont.—Dan Stephens, opposing Senator Burke for national committeeman, in a statement issued here said: "The new deal in 1934 when Burke was making his pledges had brought corn from 8 cents to 50 cents, hogs from $2 to $8, wheat from 25 cents to 75 cents and most everything else in proportion. We were 'feeling our oats' and getting up with great hope. Bankers and business men as the treasury was being picked up. A man who was not for the new deal was considered hopeless.

"So our candidate, Burke, had no trouble in getting an overwhelming majority both in the primary and general election. We had all hung over Hoover's hell so long we still had the odor of brimstone in our nostrils. So we sat back glad that God reigned and Burke was elected to help the president.

"Thru the dark year of 1933 when we were struggling for a new foothold as we climbed up out of the depth of despair, I always remembered to thank God for Roosevelt's great vision, steady heart and hand and marvelous courage and high ideals. He made good his promises for a new deal. We have it.

"When Senator Burke voted against the conservation measure, designed to replace the benefits of the 'triple A' wrecked by the courts, he had a conspicuous place. He is reported to be one of the 11 senators out of a total of 96 that voted against this salvation measure for agriculture. He was the only senator from any farm state to vote against the bill. His vote was cast with the senators from such states as Massachusetts, Connecticut, Rhode Island, Ohio, Pennsylvania and Maryland—all industrial states. Does Burke know how to vote in our interests or is he against us? I give it up, yet we can't go on with him until we know."

British Stand Points Way to European Peace

Conferences at London Hope to Open Way for Truce and Later Treaty Adjustments.

The British government today took a definite lead toward steering Europe away from war to a peace move that might cover twenty-five years.

Britain showed a sincere desire for peace by summoning diplomats to London, where the atmosphere of the island might be conducive to the peace sentiment.

There appeared every prospect that Britain would within a ten day period secure some form of temporary security. This would be followed by weary months of negotiations at Geneva as well as the various European capitals.

British plans based on getting France and Germany together, carry even a guarantee to preserve the peace in every way.

Mr. Gooding and Mr. Thrall both being veteran railroaders while Mr. Crabill is much interested in the work, as he is also constructing a locomotive of similar type.

Housing Drive Plans Progress in Washington

Advisers Propose to Shift the Emphasis to Local Control of Program.

Washington.—Federal housing agencies are astir with new preparations for a spring and summer campaign to speed revival of the long dormant building industry. Administration plans are expected to take legislative shape soon after weeks of discussion of the activities of the numerous agencies concerned with housing. Advisers on the subject are said to have split mainly over the question of how much federal aid should go into subsidized dwellings for the lowest income classes.

Suggestions for changes in the existing machinery for promoting building recovery and for a long range slum improvement program have stumped thru the central housing committee and Peter Grimm, one of the presidential advisers. Officials express confidence the president will be able to reconcile the right and left wings on a definite program, embracing changes in the housing act designed to stimulate private enterprise and federal assistance for so called slum clearance.

Hints of how administration thought was running on low cost housing plans were seen by some in the government's withdrawal in the supreme court last week of its test of federal power to condemn land in a Louisville project.

Leading housing advisers, while favoring some form of subsidy for low rental projects, propose to shift details of management, obtaining land and so on to local communities and states. That would take the government out of direct activity in housing and relieve it of the problem of land condemnation.

On the strength of latest building reports, the right wing agencies, dedicated to advancing private building and financing, have been girding for the most active spring and summer construction since they were organized in the battle against depression.

Murdock Lady is Honored by Royal Neighbors

Mrs. Lyda Lawton, Ten Years Recorder of the Murdock Camp Awarded Gold Pin.

A gold emblematic pin has been awarded to Mrs. Lyda Lawton of Murdock, Nebr., by Royal Neighbors of America, fraternal benefit society, in recognition of her record of serving 10 years as recorder of Camp No. 5597, Royal Neighbors of America, of Murdock.

Mrs. Lawton has served continuously as recorder of Camp No. 5597 since 1926. The award is one of merit and signifies faithful service in behalf of the society, which has 600,000 members.

The pin, which is slightly smaller than a quarter in size, is attractively designed. It is decorated with the emblem of the society, which is surrounded by a book and wreath, all of which is penetrated by a quill, the latter being significant of the work of the camp recorder. The inscription "Faithful Service," is above the emblem and the word "Recorder" is below the emblem.

A letter of congratulation and appreciation was sent to Mrs. Lawton by Miss Erna M. Barthel of Rock Island, Ill., supreme recorder of Royal Neighbors of America. In the letter Miss Barthel stated: "The award means more than the fact that you have served a certain number of years as camp recorder. In a larger sense it means that you have had a definite part in the progress of Royal Neighbors of America. The society has grown steadily, now ranking as one of the leading fraternal benefit societies, and camp recorders have been an important factor in this advancement. With this in mind, it is with a deep sense of gratitude that the society recognizes your services."

KNOWS SHOE REPAIRING

The Nebraska City News-Press has the following very interesting story of the repairing ability of Mrs. Jack Sherwood of that city, husband of a former well known resident here. Necessity isn't going to find Mrs. John Sherwood with "her hands tied," should that old bug-a-boo ever come her way. The Sherwood Shoe Shop will carry on should the men folks ever be compelled to shoulder a wheel elsewhere.

Today when the "top hand" is rushed Mrs. Sherwood will pick up an awl, or what have you in shoe-fixing tools, and presto, the big number 12 or the dainty debutante slipper comes out good as new. "No it isn't a gift. It all comes from applying yourself," Mrs. Sherwood will explain. "You see during the World War, when my husband, (John Sherwood) did war duty, I kept the shop going as best I could. It wasn't easy, because it was all pretty new to me. I decided then and there I'd know how to straighten a heel or sew up a rip just in case."

She started at the bottom and worked her way to the all important part of running a shoe sewing outfit. A new sewing equipment later installed is not yet familiar to her, but she'll know about that too some day, she says.

Sketch of Life of Mrs. M. J. Crawford of Murdock

One of Oldest Residents of County Laid to Rest—Resident of Near Nehawka Since 1866.

Mrs. Melissa Jane Crawford, nee Sweat, born in Pike county, Illinois, March 25, 1842, passed into eternity Monday, March 9, 1936 at 10:30 o'clock a. m. at her home in Murdock, Nebraska. The life of 93 years, 11 months and 14 days, came to a quiet and peaceful close after some fifteen years of physical handicaps and confinements.

She grew to young womanhood in her native state and there received her early education and taught school. Mrs. Crawford married Robert B. Crawford on November 24, 1859. Two girls, Viola and Lydia, graced the early home-life of that union. Her husband was drafted for service into the Union army of the United States October 10, 1864, after six years of married life. He was killed in the battle of Franklin, Tenn., after one month of national service.

She then married James Crawford, a soldier brother of her first husband, February 6, 1866, who resided in Pilot Hill, California. In the spring of that year Mr. and Mrs. James Crawford filed on a Nebraska government claim in South Bend precinct, three miles north of the present site of Murdock.

They engaged in the homestead life with the true pioneer spirit. They contributed their part, through hard work, daring adventure and rugged determination, in the development of this section of Nebraska from the wild, unsettled frontier into a large agricultural empire.

During the years of 1868 to 1878, when her husband was favored with numerous appointive and elective offices in the new frontier life, Mrs. Crawford filled a large place in the community. When he served as justice of the peace, her home became the scene of many frontier legal entanglements and court trials by jury. Many times in the absence of her husband she skillfully declared the law for clients and performed the duties of the respective offices. After serving as a Cass county commissioner and as a member of the Nebraska state legislature, he died in 1897.

The deceased remained on the farm from 1866 to 1904, when she and a son, Robert, moved into the village of Murdock, where they have lived together until her late departure. In August, 1920 Mrs. Crawford fell and fractured her left hip. Hope for a normal recovery was in vain, for she lived the balance of her life as an invalid, largely confined to her home.

The departed leaves a family of five children: Mrs. Viola Coppel of Lincoln, Nebr.; Mrs. Lydia Radtke, Waukomis, Okla.; Mrs. Diana Bushnell, Ashland, Nebr.; Robert and James Crawford, Murdock, Nebr.; two foster sons, J. Philip Erisbane and John McCarthy of Council Bluffs, Iowa. Two children preceded the mother in death, Frankie Lee in 1886 and Mrs. Mattie Eickhoff in 1922. A sister, Mrs. Mary Rager of Keatsville, Mo., survives the departed. Likewise there are 25 grandchildren, 30 great grandchildren, many nieces and nephews and a wide circle of friends. The early pioneers and friends of her generation have all passed away.

Mrs. Crawford confessed her faith in Jesus Christ early in life and in united with the Methodist Episcopal church of the early day. She read and believed in God's word and lived happily in the spirit and power given by her Master, who promised eternal life. Her Christian faith and devotion to her Lord remained cheerfully consistent and faithful throughout the years, in spite of the shadows that crossed her life. She joined the Murdock Ebenezer Evangelical church by a certificate transfer from the Elmwood, Nebraska, Methodist Episcopal church May 23, 1920 during the pastorate of the Rev. A. H. Schwab. The transfer was effected about three months before her tragic accident and has been in force until her death. Throughout the years, she revealed a cheerful disposition; she bore her suffering as a soldier of the cross; she was a true Christian witness in the midst of affliction to the sufficiency of God; and she possessed a deep love for her home, friends, her community, the church, the American flag and her garden and flowers.

The earthly life has ceased a few days short of attaining 94 years. The eternal life has begun. Relief and rest are her possession. God has been her refuge and strength. This testimony, written by her own hand during the affliction, bears proof of her Christian steadfastness: "God is sufficient for every emergency and I have found it so in my own life. Now I fear nothing, not even death itself." The revered and oldest citizen of Murdock has been taken from our midst. As citizens, we have cherished long her cordial friendship and vital interest in our community welfare. Her life, as a highly respected citizen, has been a Christian example and blessing for many years. Today, as a silent tribute to the passing of Grandma Crawford, the business men of the village have closed their places of business for one hour, in memory of one whom they have esteemed.

The funeral services for Mrs. M. J. Crawford were conducted under the direction of the Horton funeral home of Plattsmouth, Nebr., by the Rev. Harvey A. Schwab, pastor of the Evangelical church at Murdock, Nebr. March 11, 1936, at 2:30 o'clock from the Ebenezer church. Interment took place in the Wabash cemetery, near Wabash, Nebraska.

Card of Thanks We take this means of expressing our appreciation and gratitude to the friends for the many kindnesses shown during the invalid life and departure of our mother, Mrs. M. J. Crawford. We especially thank the many friends, the Evangelical church, Sunday school and the Ladies' Aid society of Murdock, who have contributed in so many, many various ways to bring cheer and comfort during the days and years of loneliness and suffering, for the help services in preparation for, and in conducting the last rites; for the presence of many friends at the funeral; for the many floral tributes, and the many heartfelt expressions of sympathy.—The Crawford Children.
