

Local Trucker Has Experience with Pickets

Has Car Ditched Near LaPlatte and Driver Is Handled Roughly by Group of Omaha Pickets.

Joe Weber, local trucker, who successfully ran the blockade of Omaha truck pickets Monday morning, had a rough experience late Monday afternoon when he again tried the picket line and failed to get through. In the morning Joe had eluded efforts to stop his car and with a revolver had checked pursuers who sought to force his truck into the ditch and made his way on into this city with a stock of perishable merchandise.

Monday afternoon Joe again attempted to bring in a load of merchandise and this time the embattled pickets were able to stop the truck and proceeded to manhandle the driver.

The truck was forced into the ditch a short distance north of the Platte river bridge and after some argument, the pickets angered by their failure of the morning to stop Weber started a rough house and in which Joe took a sharp right to the mouth in the interchange of blows.

Later Weber was turned over to a deputy state sheriff who was patrolling the highways, the pickets complaining of the gun incident of the morning. He was taken to Papillion and later released as the authorities felt that there was not sufficient cause to hold Joe and who proceeded to bring his truck that the state deputy had made the strikers place back in the highway, on to Plattsouth. The return trip was made via Louisville and was without incident.

A TRIBUTE TO THE A. F. & A. M.

An Acrostic
Nameless eons had passed on the swift wings of Time
Ere the Master in wisdom said: "Let there be Light"—
Before earth's creation with gleam most sublime
Revealed untold wonders to audition and sight—
A principle out of the massed void was born,
So potent in import to primeval man—
Keeping pace with the advent of life, light and dawn—
A bright, glorious augur—a divinely born plan.

Many cycles since then in their orbits have passed,
And have taken their course in th' empyrean dome;
Still one there is yet in the firmament vast,
Of a most precious worth to mankind and the home.
Namely: Masonry—born in obscurity's veil,
In parable reared, and in mystery shrouded;
Comes down through the ages to shed peace and wale;
Harb'ring Fraternity, boundless, unclouded,
On the altar of Brotherhood—Charity—Love.
May dissension, and envy, and spite be discarded
Ere we meet on the floor of the Grand Lodge above, and meed for our toil here below be awarded.

A Phantom in the Herd

Live stock prices may rise or fall sharply without your knowledge unless you keep in touch with buyers by telephone. The added profit you may make on a shipment of cattle, by locating the best available price by telephone, could easily amount to the price of one more animal. One farmer, for example, marketed thirty thousand pounds of cattle at what he guessed was the best price. Had he telephoned for market information he would have made $600 more. It pays, in dollars and cents, to have a farm telephone.
