Elmwood News

Charles E. Wood, who is employed at the Bothwell store, was in Lincoln last Tuesday, purchasing goods for the store and bringing them home in the truck which he took along.

Miss Shirley Kazmarek of Springfield was spending a week or more here with her little friends, enjoying a pleasant vacation. She formerly resided here and has many young friends all of whom were glad to see her.

Mrs. Bothwell Much Better

Mrs. N. D. Bothwell, who has been kept to her home and bed for several weeks on account of illness, starting with influenza and continuing for weeks, has recovered nicely and was able to return to work at the store, although much thinner in flesh on account of her long illness.

Sunshine Cooking Club Meets

The Sunshine 4-H club held their achievement day yesterday at the basement of the Methodist church, a large number of the people of Elmwood and vicinity being present. The members of the club entertained their mothers and friends and provided refreshments consisting of cookies, cakes and muffins which they had baked. Coupled with the delicious ice cream and punch which was provided, these made a most delectable luncheon.

In the awarding of the prizes, a committee passed on the excellence of the cooking, which was done by the members of the club who are all small girls, but who surely know how to cook.

In the cookie entries no difference could be found in those submitted by Betty Jean Fantell, Anna Selker and Opal Brittain, all being excellent, and they split first prize. Betty Jean Fantell was first on muffins and Frances Arnold first on cup cakes.

Second prize on cakes went to Pattie Stark and second on cookies and muffins to Pearl Quellhorst.

Former Instructor Visits Here

Miss Jessie Mahoney, a former instructor in the Elmwood schools, who has been teaching at Rock Springs, Wyoming, and who has been re-elected there the coming year, visited at the home of her parents in Chicago a part of the summer. En route back to Rock Springs, where she will begin the school year soon, she stopped in Elmwood for a few days' visit with her many friends. While here she was a guest at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles West.

Given Farewell Reception

Members of the I. O. O. F. lodge and the Rebekah assembly in which Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Race held membership arranged an evening of entertainment for this popular couple who have disposed of their business and household good and are now en route to California to make their future home. The evening's entertainment was climaxed with the serving of ice cream, cake and punch, and in departing all extended well wishes to Mr. and Mrs. Race in their new home in the west.

Sells Cass County Farm

A farm belonging to the Rager estate and located northwest of Murdock has been sold to Daniel Schlapphof, who resides on land closely adjoining this. The deal was made through Frank W. Lorenz. We understand the price was $125 an acre.

Enjoying a Fine Vacation

Mrs. Lucy Lyle, manager of the Elmwood telephone exchange, is enjoying a two weeks' vacation from her work. The first part of the time is being spent in Denver at the home of a son and family and the second week will be spent at Topeka, Kansas, where she has relatives and friends. During the time she is away the office is in charge of Miss Opal Thingan and the regular operators.

Threshing Nearly Completed

The threshing season in this vicinity is just about over. Walter G. Box and his "rig" completed the work last week, winding up the season over near Avoca, and when he had finished there, returned home and placed the machine in shelter. The machine of John Box and the outfit which has been working nearer Elmwood completed their work some time later and have been housed. In the evening a reception was given with refreshments of ice cream and cake to celebrate the close of a most successful year's threshing during which about 100,000 bushels were threshed in this vicinity and over a million for the entire county.

Has a Nice Station

Frank Hoffman is completing the rebuilding of the building formerly used by William Long, making of it a modern filling station. He is being assisted with the work by Clarence Ohm. Harry Miller has just completed the painting and decorating of the place, giving it a very neat appearance.

Identical Guessers Divide Prizes

At the Farm-All tractor demonstration near Elmwood, sponsored by the Farmers Union of Elmwood, the tractor continued plowing for five hours and one minute with 50 cents worth of tractor fuel. Leonard McLaughling's young son and Herman Fleischman each guessed the exact time and as a result of their tie guess the $3 prize money for first place was divided, $1.50 each. The second prize was also tied.

Will Hold Picnic This Week

The Fire department of Elmwood, which is one of the most active in the county are to hold a celebration Thursday of this week at which their friends of Elmwood and vicinity as well as the members of fire departments in other towns over the county will be special guests. They have a program which will provide fun for all who attend. The work on the farm which has been crowding for some time is now well along and the farmers can come and enjoy this gala day mingling with the firemen and the town folks.

Visited with Friends Here

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Peck and their son Bobbie from Chicago were visiting in Elmwood for a number of days last week, being special guests of Mrs. A. A. Wallinger and Frank Gustin and family, and as well with a number of other relatives and their many friends in this community. They, as well as their many friends here, enjoyed the visit, which extended over a number of days.

BURLINGTON HAS LAYOFF

CHICAGO, Aug. 13 (UP)—Increased operating costs based on the recent 5-cents-an-hour pay boost to members of 14 non-operating rail unions, have necessitated layoff of 300 employees of the Burlington railroad. It was announced today.

F. G. Gurley, vice-president in charge of operations, said that because the pay boost would add $3,000,000 to the company expense yearly some action had to be taken to "keep expenditures in line with revenues."

Gurley added that the 70-car bill congress is expected to pass limiting freight trains to that length will add another $1,750,000 a year to company operating expenses. The action in laying off the employees will be effective throughout the system and not confined to one locality, Gurley said.

MANLEY NEWS

Mr. and Mrs. John A. Stander were in Plattsmouth last Saturday, where they visited relatives and did some shopping.

Mr. and Mrs. John C. Rauth and Mrs. Frank J. Bergman were in Lincoln last Thursday, where they were called to look after business matters for the afternoon. They made the trip via auto.

George Rau was looking after the Harms store during the time he was attending the two day picnic at Talmage. Both Mr. and Mrs. Harms are former residents of Talmage and enjoyed very much the opportunity of going back and meeting their many old friends.

Oscar E. McDonald and wife were in Lincoln last Wednesday, where they were looking after some business. Mrs. McDonald was visiting for a number of days at the home of their daughter, Mrs. William Meyers of near Ashland and when Mr. McDonald returned from Lincoln he stopped there to pick the wife up and bring her home.

Visiting in the West

Mr. and Mrs. Herman Rauth departed last Tuesday morning for the west coast and will be gone for three weeks, visiting at Los Angeles and other cities in California, as well as making a trip up the coast into the states of Oregon and Washington, which will enable them to see a great deal of country. While they are away, the farm will be looked after by Miss Teresa Rauth, cousin of Herman, Arthur Edwards, also a cousin of Herman, and Miss Rene Christensen, a sister of Mrs. Rauth. With this great a number in charge, we are sure things will be looked after as well as if the Rauths were present, and the Rauth family can enjoy their vacation to the limit without having anything to worry about.

Attended Family Picnic Sunday

Mr. and Mrs. Theo Harms and their son, Teddy, Jr., were in Nebraska City last Sunday, where they attended a picnic and reunion of the Peters family, of which Mrs. Harms is a member. The gathering was held at Brown's park just south of Nebraska City, where the large group of relatives enjoyed a most pleasant day together and had a sumptuous dinner in the open, living over again the days when they were all together.

Spending Week in the West

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Fleischman, who have stuck pretty close to home and to the barber shop day in and day out looking after the needs of their customers and the duties of the home, concluded they would get out into the world and see how other people are doing and seeing things away from home. They tried to secure a barber to take Fred's place while they would be away, but were unsuccessful. So Fred discussed the matter with his patrons and they advised him to lock up the shop as it would only be for a week and have a good time, which they did. Starting late last Saturday they went to Denver and from there to Colorado Springs, thence over the mountains to the town of Divide, in Teller county, where Mr. and Mrs. Charles Sinnard reside. The two ladies are sisters, and they were planning a very pleasant visit there. They expected to return home the northern route, arriving here in time to resume business Saturday of this week, and while the whiskers of some of the customers may have grown unduly long, we are sure they have not been greatly inconvenienced—as necessity is the mother of invention and one can always dig up the old razor or try out one of the new modern safety kind.

Entertained Last Thursday

Mesdames H. J. Hohman and Ralph Welte were hostesses at the home of Mrs. Welte for the gathering of the Catholic ladies of the St. Patrick's parish last Thursday. A large number were present at the meeting and all enjoyed the occasion very much. Plans were made for assisting with the church work.

Laughing Around the World

An Aspect of Naturalness

By IRVIN S. COBB

A POPULAR Jewish comedian told me this one not long ago and vouched for it as an actual occurrence in which he personally had played a secondary part.

"My father," he said, "is getting to be a pretty old man now. It is nearly forty years since he came to America but in thought and in expression he still clings to old-country ways. On the business side he has been successful, but outside of his business he is so credulous and so simple that frequently he is imposed upon and has finally come to believe, I am afraid, that this world is largely populated by amateur and professional bunco steersers.

"For fully five minutes he stood silently contemplating the Falls in all their majesty and their beauty. I lingered alongside waiting for some expression from him of the effect produced by his first sight of Niagara. But he didn't say a word. So, finally I broke in.

"Well, Dad," I said, "what do you think of it?"

"Son," he answered, in tones of sincere conviction, "it couldn't be artificial."

PLATTSMOUTH DENTAL SOCIETY

CHAPTER XXV

"What are the sixth-year molars," asked Mrs. White, "and why do dentists say they are the most important teeth in the mouth?"

"That's a fair question," replied Dr. Young. "I'll try to answer it for you." Turning to Bobby, Mrs. White's son, he said, "Open up, old timer, and let your mother look at your teeth."

Dr. Young pointed out Bobby's sixth-year molars to Mrs. White. "The sixth-year molars," he explained, "come through the gums when the child is about six years of age. That is why they are called 'sixth-year molars.' The proper name for these teeth is 'first permanent molars.' They are permanent teeth, not baby teeth. In fact, they are usually the first of the permanent teeth to erupt. They come in the child's mouth back of, or behind, the baby molars. They erupt at about the same time that the child is losing his baby front teeth and replacing them with the permanent front teeth. The child has four sixth-year molars, two in the upper jaw and two in the lower jaw. Curiously enough, each sixth-year molar is also the sixth tooth back from the front center of the mouth.

With his instrument Dr. Young counted Bobby's teeth, beginning with the central incisor back to the first permanent molar. "One, two, three, four, five, six. See, the sixth tooth is the sixth-year, or first permanent molar. That is easy to remember, isn't it? The first permanent molar is called the sixth-year molar, it comes in at six years of age, and it is the sixth tooth back from the front of the mouth."

"They are called the most important teeth in the mouth for several reasons. As they are the first of the permanent teeth to erupt, the other permanent teeth, which erupt later, must come in on either side of them. If the first permanent molars are not in their right positions, the other permanent teeth will come in in the wrong position. Many dentists call these teeth the 'keystone of the dental arch.' You see, they act much like the keystone of any other arch. If the keystone is lost or if it is out of place, the whole arch is weakened, and improperly shaped.

"Not only do the first permanent molars determine, to a great extent the position of the other teeth in the same arch, or jaws, but they also hold the upper and lower jaws the right distance apart. If these teeth are neglected and have to be extracted when the child is young, the jaws come together more closely than they should. In other words, the position and health of the first permanent molars help to shape the lower part of the child's face."

Report Loss of Corn from Dry and Heat

Western Two-thirds of State Shows Considerable Damage to the New Crop.

Crops suffered further damage during the month of July. Rainfall was spotted and generally lacking in most of the western two-thirds of the state. High temperatures occurring during the 4th and 5th of July caused further damage to spring grains in northern panhandle counties. Soil moisture conditions were generally favorable for corn on the first of July but by the 14th of July, some areas were badly in need of rain. This condition continued generally throughout the balance of the month so that by August 1 corn was being and showing considerable damage in areas in the western two-thirds of the state. Since August 1, high temperatures, hot winds and lack of rainfall have continued to lower the condition of corn. Corn is now being in some eastern counties. The percentage of barren stalks in these areas is noticeably larger than usual.

Winter wheat production improved over the estimate for July 1 due principally to better than expected yields in Platte river counties which were heavily infested by black stem rust. On the other hand, there was considerably more heat damage to winter wheat in north central and central Nebraska than expected. Generally barley, oats and spring wheat have been seriously damaged by high temperatures occurring in the latter part of June and the first week in July. Crop damage from grasshoppers is generally spotted. Small grain fields and alfalfa have been injured by these pests and some damage to corn has been reported. The second crop of alfalfa was generally short except in irrigated localities where it ranged from fair to good. Prospects for wild hay are poor. Pasture condition continues to decline. The irrigated potatoes in the Central Platte valley are making exceptionally good yields. Prospects for fruit are fair.

RANCHERS URGED TO FEED HERDS IN SOUTH TEXAS

WHARTON, Tex. (UP)—South Texas cattle raisers have turned their attention to the problem of fattening their livestock locally.

J. W. Sartwell of Houston, livestock expert, added impetus to the movement by declaring at a ranchmen's meeting that they have the opportunity to make the section the greatest cattle-raising section in the nation.

"As soon as the southwestern rancher realizes that he does not have to send his cattle north for fattening and feeds his stock locally-raised forage, he will start earning large profits," Sartwell said.

He asserted that it has been demonstrated that South Texas ranges were capable of producing feed comparable to that of any section in the country.

"There is no need," he added, "of losing to northern farmers the profits to be made on fat stock."

STRANGE LEPER STORY TOLD

DARWIN (UP)—Australian policemen enjoy even more public confidence than the London "bobbies." An aboriginal named Kancubina staggered into the Roper River police station with a leper boy on his back whom he had carried from water hole to water hole over a period of nine months. The object of the trek was to allow the leper to see a policeman who had once employed Kancubina, who was convinced the officer could cure the boy. He was removed to a leprosarium.

Sentinels of Health
Don't Neglect Them!
Nature designed the kidneys to do a marvelous job. Their task is to keep the flowing blood stream free of an excess of toxic impurities. The act of living—life itself—is constantly producing waste matter the kidneys must remove from the blood if good health is to endure.
When the kidneys fail to function as Nature intended, there is retention of waste that may cause body-wide distress. One may suffer nagging backache, persistent headache, dryness of the mouth, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—feel tired, nervous, all worn out.
Frequent, scanty or burning passages may be further evidence of kidney or bladder disturbance.
The recognized and proper treatment is a diuretic medicine to help the kidneys get rid of excess poisonous body waste. Use Doan's Pills. They have had more than forty years of public approval. Are endorsed the country over. Inaugurated by Dr. J. C. Doan, Sold at all drug stores.
