Taxes Needed to Carry on the School System

Average Wage of Rural Teachers Over State Drops to $1.28 a Day for Lack Funds

The startling assertion that the average rural school teacher in Nebraska is now being paid but $1.28 a day is revealed by the Thirty-fourth Biennial report of the Nebraska State Superintendent of Public Instruction. The reason for this shameful record is largely attributable to failure to collect tax money due the various subdivisions of government—state, county, city and school—which depend upon and have little other revenue forthcoming with which to meet their operating expense.

The advertisement campaign that has been formulated to instruct Cass county taxpayers, who have permitted, through no fault of their own, the piling up of considerable back taxes, and advise them how by paying now they may save the interest charge from date of delinquency up to March 19 of this year, the date the law became effective. From and after that date, interest begins running anew, however, on the full principal amount of the tax owed, so it is most important not to delay payment longer, for already nearly a half year's interest at 7 per cent per annum has piled up on that principal amount only, which the legislature saw fit to grant all delinquent taxpayers as of March 19, 1937.

This legislative bill (known as No. 1 because it was the first introduced in the new Nebraska Unicameral legislature) has made it easy to pay delinquent taxes and a full understanding of this law has given many Cass county taxpayers who in former years were financially distressed, a clear insight into how they may, by paying their taxes now, save money and at the same time further the cause of good government.

A portion of the $45,000,000.00 in back taxes due in Nebraska today is laid directly on the doorstep of Cass county taxpayers. Cass county officials, particularly the commissioners and the city council of Plattsmouth, realize that payment of taxes now, under the provisions of Legislative Bill No. 1 not only saves the taxpayer money, but makes for better government and that is why they are sponsoring publication of the series of tax advertisements now appearing each Thursday in both the semi-weekly and daily issues of the Journal.

LOCATES IN VIRGINIA

The Plattsmouth friends of Mr. and Mrs. Erl R. Teepell will be interested in learning that they are now located at Alexandria, Virginia, where the headquarters of the refrigerator car company by whom Mr. Teepell is employed, is maintained. They have been located at St. Paul, Minnesota, for the greater part of the past several years and the work of Mr. Teepell making it necessary to be on the road the greater part of the time, it was decided to make their home in the Virginia city.

FEDERAL LAND BANK LOANS FROM LINCOLN

Farmers holding Federal Land bank and land bank commissioner loans through the National Farm Loan associations at Alvo and Lincoln should contact the farm loan office at Lincoln, 550 National Bank of Commerce building, in regard to any matters concerning their loans, according to Carl D. Ganz, recently elected secretary-treasurer of the two National Farm Loan associations.

Mr. Ganz, who was elected secretary-treasurer of the two associations at a meeting of the directors on July 16, announced that the new method of operation is now in effect. Under this new program, all federal farm loan matters in Lancaster county and the western part of Cass county will be handled by the Lincoln office.

While the two associations now hold 1,748 loans totaling more than eight million dollars, the Lincoln office will continue to serve the farm mortgage needs of farmers desiring long-term credit, he pointed out.

Under the new plan of operation, which became effective September 1, the associations will receive regular allowances from the Federal Land bank of Omaha sufficient not only to pay all operating expenses but also to build up reserves as protection against future contingencies.

The secretary-treasurer emphasized that there is no legal consolidation of the associations under the new plan. Each group retains its own set of books, its own board of directors, and its assets are kept independent of the other group. The plan simply centers the office work of both associations under one roof, with Mr. Ganz doing the work that two men did heretofore.

The Lincoln office is authorized to make new loans in Lancaster county and the western part of Cass county.

Quaker Oats to Give Gliders to Boys and Girls

New Advertising Campaign to Start in Journal Next Week—Recent Trademarks Here.

Due to the splendid results obtained by the use of this newspaper in advertising their product, The Quaker Oats Company has renewed its advertising contract with the Journal for an additional period of twenty-six weeks. To insure the success of this advertising, all the grocers in this trade territory as well as those in Plattsmouth are co-operating with the Journal in this second big schedule.

The first advertisement of this new campaign when it appears September 9, will carry the names of the grocers who handle Quaker Oats in Plattsmouth and surrounding towns in Cass county. In addition to this, The Plattsmouth Journal will furnish one Wright-Dayton Monoplane Glider free for two trade marks (the picture of the Quaker Man) from the large packages of Quaker Oats or four trademarks from the small packages of Quaker Oats. Simply bring your trademarks to this office for the Glider—not now, but any time after the first ad is published next week.

The dealers will also mention Quaker Oats and the free gift offer in their own advertising the opening week of the campaign to remind their customers of Quaker Oats and the Monoplane Glider offer.

With this surge of "tie-in" Quaker advertising, the Journal expects to be able to publish another of its double page "spreads" devoted to marketing news of interest to the housewives of Cass county.

CAPTURES RUNAWAY

Sunday morning the office of Sheriff Homer Sylvester was notified to be on the lookout for two boys that had made their escape from the state institution at Glenwood. Deputy Sheriff Cass Sylvester started out in an effort to check on the boys and discovered that they had been reported along the Missouri Pacific tracks in the west part of the city.

The deputy sighted the boys as they discovered him and the race was on. The chase grew hot but one of the fleeing lads had his suspenders break and the trousers fell around his knees to hobble him and the sheriff rounded him up and later returned him to Glenwood. The second member of the party was a real racer and the deputy sheriff says it would be useless for him to catch a train as the boy could outrun anything except possibly the Marathon.
