

Shape Plans for the Coming Korn Carnival

Highlights of Sixth Annual Amusement Event Reviewed for the First Time Officially.

Although a general outline of the Korn Carnival plans is in the minds of most Cass county folks familiar with former years' shows, none except the general committee members have been given a full insight into the bigger and better program now in the making. To touch on other than highlights would be impossible at this time, but the Journal is glad to bring to its readers a pen picture of this year's show, so far as now planned.

One Night Parade

As usual, parades will be featured at this year's show. The opening day (Wednesday, Sept. 22) will bring the children's parade, Thursday the motorized farmers' parade. And right here, let us pause to say, this will be greatly different from the farmers' parades of former years, with the scores and scores of horses. The principal reason for this is that a great many farm horses are dying these days and farmers are loath to bring their highly prized farm animals into the parade and risk contacting sickness. So, this year, we will see a motorized farm parade—one that, according to Charlie Barnard and the rest of the boys on his committee, now busily engaged in working out the details, will "knock your ears down."

Friday will bring a change in the parade arrangement of former years, being Bohemian day. Instead of an afternoon parade, this one, Bohemian in costume, music and general arrangement, will be held in the evening. As one Bohemian put it—we Bohemians are not so fortunately situated that we can lay off from our work during the daytime just to stage a parade, so we will have to put on a night parade. And the Korn Carnival committee agreed at its last meeting.

Saturday is German day and brings two outstanding features, the rural school parade, followed by the king's derby. Originally it had been planned to hold this latter feature Friday afternoon, but that would require boys from out in the county to skip school, whereas on Saturday schools will be closed and nearly every youngster in eastern and central Cass county will be in Plattsmouth to attend the Korn Carnival.

To Crown New King, Queen
Crowning of the new king and queen will be the outstanding feature of the opening day. Identity of those named will remain a deep secret right up to the time of their march to the throne. All the pageantry of former years will be repeated with perhaps a touch or so additional thrown in for good measure. R. Foster Patterson, as master of ceremonies and program director, will bring to his audience the narrative of ancient royalty and how kings and queens of old ascended the throne. The royal family will include many of the popular young ladies and gentlemen of this community as well as representatives from towns over the county, known in Ak-Sar-Ban parlance as "the realm."

The coronation will be followed by the coronation ball. Admission to this open to the general public upon payment of the regular dance charge of $1 per couple.

The usual large number of rides and concessions will be on hand to entertain the crowds again this year. Rides will be back on Fifth street, closer to the center of things than last fall.

These are just a few of the highlights determined upon at last Friday night's meeting of the general K. K. K. committee.

GIRL SCOUTS

The meeting was opened by giving the salute and pledge of allegiance to the flag, led by Mrs. Elmer Sundstrom who presided over the meeting, due to Mrs. Egenberger's absence.

The roll was called and dues were paid. The scribe and treasurer read their reports of the last meeting.

A hand made plaque of seeds and twigs was exhibited and made a very fine showing.

Bob Hayes' Bat Wins Victory at Union Sunday

Locals Score in the Final Frame to Win the Victory by Score of 7 to 6.

Bob Hayes of the Plattsmouth Merchants yesterday led the locals in a very closely contested battle as the Platters eked out a 7 to 6 triumph. "Chuck" Ault collected the most hits. Clem Sundstrom and John Svoboda were also effective at bat, but it was Bob's timely hits that eventually brought the victory. Union scored one tally each in the second, sixth and seventh innings. In the eighth the visiting team scored three runs on four hits and an error.

The Merchants were unable to cross the plate until the fifth. With the bases loaded, Rhoades hit to right field. The Union gardner misjudged the ball, and two local runners scampered across the plate.

In the seventh "Dusty" Rhoades blasted a hit to left field, driving Ault home with another run. Then Bob stepped up and dynamited a triple to center, which put the Merchants ahead 5 to 3. At the conclusion of the eighth the score was Union 6, Merchants 6. In this inning Clem Sundstrom had led off with a double to left and crossed the plate later on a fielder's choice.

In the final frame John Svoboda led off with a single. M. Wiles reached first via the walk route, and both runners advanced on an infield out of Rhoades. Then Hayes again came through in noble fashion, banging out a double as John scurried across the plate with the winning marker.

As previously noted, the consistent hitting of "Chuck" Ault and the timely hitting of Hayes were the outstanding factors in the local attack. Hayes also shone in the field.

After the game the victorious Merchants were again treated to their fill of ice cream by Frank and Dale Dashner and "Peck" Hamilton, enthusiastic supporters of the local aggregation.

Net Sunday the Merchants journey to Nebraska City and meet the Boosters of that city. On the following day, labor day, the locals motor to Falls City for a game.

How Parties in Coronation are Selected

Committees Make Selections With a View to the Widest Popular Expression.

The coronation ceremonies of the King Korn Carnival is always a very colorful and well arranged affair and one that has caused many to wonder just how all of the various features of this wonderful affair are fixed together to make a great success.

The committee and all in charge of the event desire that there shall be the fullest information given as to how the event is arranged.

In the first place, the king and queen are selected by a committee named by the general committee, and whose choice is kept a secret until the night of the coronation.

The attendants to the queen are selected by the newly chosen queen.

The pages that are used in the coronation, are chosen by the popular vote of their school room and representing every school in the county, both town and rural.

The princesses are selected from girls having graduated from the Plattsmouth high school in the class of 1937, plus additional young men of the city and in the country if needed. This year each countess has been asked to bring her boy friend, who will be a knight to the king.

Countesses are chosen by popular vote of their high school. If they have no high school, they are appointed by the Councillors to the King Korn Carnival in each of the towns of the county. They will represent every town of the county.

The torch bearers represent every church in the city and are chosen by a committee from each church or by their pastors.

VETERANS' DAY AT FAIR

Sunday is Veterans' day at the state fair in Lincoln. On that day all veterans will be admitted to the fair grounds free upon presentation of their discharge papers or membership card in any recognized veterans' organization. Wives of veterans or other members of their family will be charged admission, however. The free admission to veterans is limited to the outer gate and does not include grandstand tickets.

A full Veterans' day program has been arranged, winding up with an extensive drum corps and band contest in the evening.
