CHAPTER XXX Dr. Young's telephone rang furiously—r-n-n-g; r-n-n-g; r-n-n-g! Miss Green, his assistant, picked up the receiver.

"Good morning; Dr. Young's office," she said. An excited voice greeted her ears. "Billy has had a terrible accident. He has broken off his front teeth. Can Dr. Young take care of him right away?"

"Certainly," replied Miss Green. "He will be waiting for you. Bring Billy in at once."

Ten minutes later, a frightened, crying Billy and his distracted mother rushed into the office. A careful examination revealed that Billy's injury, while severe, was not so tragic as it might have been. An accidental blow from a baseball bat had broken off the corners of both upper central incisors. A large v-shaped opening extended from the biting surface of the teeth almost to the gums. The gums and lips were bruised and bleeding.

Naturally Billy's mouth was so tender that the dentist had to use the utmost care in treating it. After gently bathing the wounded parts, he took an x-ray picture of the broken teeth; and while the x-ray films were being developed, he treated the lacerated soft tissues.

A careful examination of the broken teeth revealed that, fortunately, the fracture had not exposed the pulp of either tooth. The x-ray picture clearly showed, however, that only a very thin covering of dentine remained intact over the pulp.

"Don't worry," Mrs. White said. "Dr. Young, 'in sure we will be able to save these teeth. Had the fracture occurred a sixteenth of an inch higher, the pulps would have been exposed. In that case, we would have had difficulty in saving the teeth."

"Billy is eight now. The roots of his central incisors will not be completely formed until he is ten or eleven. Had the pulps of these incisors been exposed by the fracture, we would have had to remove all or at least part of the pulp in order to save the teeth and keep them free from infection. This would have been extremely difficult because at his age the roots are not completely formed."

The exposed dentine of Billy's broken teeth was very sensitive. Even cool air caused the teeth to ache. The dentist therefore placed a soothing dressing over the broken areas and sealed the dressing in place with cement. Turning to Mrs. White, he said: "Bring Billy back Saturday morning. By that time much of the pain will have subsided and I can replace the broken corners with temporary restorations. These temporary restorations will probably have to be replaced from time to time until he is fifteen or sixteen years old. By that time, these teeth will be completely formed and his jaws and mouth will have about reached their maximum size; we can then restore the incisal tips with permanent fillings."

"In that case," said Mrs. White, "why is it necessary to bother with temporary fillings. Why not wait until he is older and then put in the permanent fillings?" "Because," replied the dentist, "without the protective covering of enamel, teeth are very sensitive. The thermal shock produced by heat and cold will cause Billy unnecessary pain and irritate the pulp so badly that it might die. Unless the exposed dentine is covered, it may absorb secretions from the mouth and darken the teeth. Also bacteria might penetrate the dentine and kill the pulps."

Far too many children suffer from accidents such as Billy's. Every playground furnishes its quota. Baseball, leap frog, roller skating, tag, and other games contribute to broken teeth. Children must play, but parents must caution them to be careful.

(Continued) MANY ATTEND SERVICES OAK PARK, Ill., Oct. 2 (UP)—Nearly 2000 persons crowded in and around the church of the Ascension today while high requiem mass was celebrated for Miss Patricia Maguire whose five years and seven months of sleeping sickness ended in death Tuesday.

Six pall bearers, relatives and family friends, bore the ivory casket from the yellow stucco house in which Patricia had lain to the church which was filled to its capacity. Patricia wore a necklace which had been given to her before her illness by her fiancé, James Burns of Elmhurst. Six persons sang the service.

The girl's brain has been filled to science by her mother, Mrs. Peter Miley, in hope that it may give science a clue to the encephalitis lethargica and "other mothers may be saved what I have been through."

Wabash News

Henry Crozier of Weeping Water was looking after business matters in Wabash last Tuesday, as well as visiting with his friend, Sherman Hardaway.

Frank Marshall, the elevator man, was at Omaha last Wednesday with a truck load of grain which he had sold and was delivering at the receiving office in Omaha.

A little girl of Orville Gerbeling's has been sick with the measles, being confined to her home. She is getting along very well and it is hoped will soon be over the malady.

L. R. Stanley, the merchant, was in Union last Wednesday, where he made the purchase of a truck load of apples from the Banning orchards, bringing them to Wabash for sale at the store.

Mrs. Henrietta Lawton was in Murdock last Sunday, where she was a dinner guest at the home of her son, Homer H. Lawton. Mrs. Michael Sorick, of Lincoln, mother of Mrs. Homer Lawton, was also there for the day.

Still Very Poorly Louis Schmidt, who has been poorly for some time with a severe attack of hemorrhoids, hoping that the malady might become better, but instead it has grown worse, and he went to Lincoln last Thursday to arrange to enter the hospital for treatment and perhaps an operation.

Another Land Mark Gone The ice house which has been located behind the Stanley store for many years, has served its day and age and has been torn down. The demolition came just in time as it was already falling down of its own accord. For some time the community has been served with ice by an Ashland dealer, and with those who operate refrigerators of their own the demand for this commodity has not been great enough to warrant the expense of putting up ice here.

Shall the Station be Removed? The Missouri Pacific railroad station at Wabash, which was built many years ago and of late years has not been used much, may be discontinued. A number of officials of the railroad company were here Wednesday, consulting with the citizens of the town over the advisability of discontinuing the station entirely. There was much discussion over the matter and no definite conclusions announced as yet.

"SAM SLICK" ABROAD (London Answers) An American salesman was riding in an English railway coach with two Englishmen. The American lit a cigar.

"Oh, I say, old chap, you can't smoke in a first-class carriage, you know," announced one of the Englishmen. The American asked the other Englishman if he also objected, and being informed that he did not, continued his smoke.

"But I shall call the guard," threatened No. 1. "Go to it," invited the American. "At the next stop the guard was called and explained that smoking was not allowed in first-class coaches if another occupant objected.

"Well," replied the salesman, "what right has this fellow got to object when he's riding first-class on a third-class ticket?" The grumbler was forced to produce a third-class ticket and obliged to leave. The remaining Englishman exclaimed: "I say, old chap, that was decidedly clever, indeed! Would you mind telling me how you knew he had a third-class ticket?" "Not at all," returned the American salesman. "I saw the corner of it sticking out of his vest pocket—and it was the same as mine."

This clever story was clipped thirty years ago by John M. Leyda and who has preserved it through the years.

PRISON STRIKE BROKEN SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 30 (UP)—Several of the Alcatraz Island convicts who began a "stay in" strike against rigid prison discipline have returned to their jobs, it was learned today. The federal prisoners were locked in their cells and given a bread and water diet after Burton Phillips, Kansas prisoner, attacked Warden James B. Johnson with his fists during a routine inspection line-up.

A majority of the convicts still were holding out for more privileges and less discipline, prison officials said. They said those who refused to return to work would remain "in solitary" until they ended their strike.

Slum Clearing Conference

City Council Votes to Pay Sewer Claim

Much Disputed Bill Over South Sixth Street Sanitary Sewer Paid; to Seek Refund.

The city council had a very interesting session Monday evening, largely taken up with the discussion of the claim of J. H. McMaken for the repair of the sanitary sewer on South Sixth street and Granite street. The work had been started, when it was found that the sewer leaking, was the sanitary sewer privately owned and not the sewer that had been constructed by the city. The necessity was to have it fixed at once and since that time the matter of payment has been held up.

The claims committee of the council has had the bill for some weeks and negotiations have failed to get results on settlement. Last evening Chairman George Hall, of the claims committee reported favorably on the bill of Mr. McMaken for $94.45, as the work had been started at the request of the city altho the committee felt that the obligation was that of the owners of the private sewer. City Attorney J. Howard Davis gave the opinion that the city had no legal right to pay the claim as it stood.

The viewpoint was held by several of the councilmen that more drastic efforts be made to have the matter adjusted by the sewer owners rather than the city, in fact all councilmen agreeing that the district should settle the claim but had failed and Mr. McMaken was entitled to his money. Councilman Comstock suggested that Mr. McMaken grant further time and that the city attorney assist him in trying to get the claim adjusted with the sewer district owners.

After the long debate, however, the recommendation of Mr. Hall to pay the bill carried. Hall, Tippens, Comstock, Schutz, Vincent, Brittain, all voted for the payment and Webb, Puls, Rebal and Vroman, voting no.

The motion was then passed that the city attorney take what steps he finds necessary to collect the claim against the owners of the district, a number of whom have agreed to pay their share.

President of the Council E. A. Webb, of the first ward, presided over the meeting in the absence of Mayor Lushinsky and handled the session in a veteran like manner.

Hear Reports The L. W. Egenberger agency reported that $15.60 had been turned over to the city in rentals after the cost of repairing properties had been deducted.

City Clerk Albert Olson read the invitation to the annual convention of the League of Nebraska Municipalities, meeting at the Fontenelle in Omaha on October 6, 7, 8. The invitation was for the council, mayor and all departmental heads to attend. On motion it was agreed to allow $2.50 for the registration and other fees and five cents a mile for the driver of car taking the Plattsmouth delegation there.

A communication was received from Charles Battle, asking license for a roller skating rink for three months and enclosing $5. On motion of Councilman Vincent, the city clerk was ordered to notify the applicant that the ordinance provided for a six months license at $10 and that he be so informed. Police Judge C. L. Graves reported that for the week of September 23 there had been two arrests and collection none as parties sentenced to work on the streets.

Makes Good Showing Chairman Webb of the tax and property committee reported that there were forty-eight pieces of property being redeemed and the certificates being turned back to the county treasurer. Mr. Webb reported that his committee now has less than a hundred of these certificates left after having handled 420 of them in the last few years, and further redemptions are being made under the non-interest non-penalty law.

City Attorney Davis reported that the city had closed the negotiations that involved the garage building and lots on South Third street and which had been settled to the satisfaction of all parties.

On motion of the finance and tax and property committee were authorized to attend the tax sale to be held Saturday and represent the city's interest.

Chairman Tippens of the streets, alleys and bridges committee, reported that the city force had completed a good piece of work on Wintersteen hill from the school house to Rock Bluff road, widening the street and making it easier to travel.

Councilman Comstock was authorized to make purchase of electroliner lamps in quantities.

A representative of the Monarch Life & Health Insurance company was in attendance at the meeting and discussed the matter of insurance for the members of the fire department but as the city had completed its insurance the matter was laid over.

Councilman Vincent of the license committee reported that a state man had been here checking up places licensed and making recommendations as to changes needed.

The new ordinance No. 728 was placed on its second reading and laid over to the next session. This is modeled after the "Green River" ordinance.

The following claims were ordered paid: Standard Blueprint Co., four negatives $ 3.00 Jess F. Waga, lamps 1.00 John Tidball, lumber 3.00 E. J. Richey, tile and material 30.00 D. L. Ramel, tractor work 32.00 John Kubicka, street work 20.65 D. L.
