Laughing Around the World With IRVIN S. COBB

Absolutely Inconceivable

By IRVIN S. COBB

THE late Paul Armstrong used to love to tell the story of the deaf man who was presented to the beautiful and charming Miss Heffel-

"Mr. So-and-So," said the mutual friend, "I want you to meet Miss Mr. So-and-So's eyes widened in admiration for the gorgeous creature facing him. "I'm awfully glad to meet you, Miss-Miss-" he began.

"Miss Heffeldinger," prompted his friend, raising the voice slightly. 'I'm awfully sorry to be such a nuisance," said the deaf man, "but, as the young lady can see for herself, I'm rather hard of hearing. Would you mind repeating the name just once more?" And he cupped

"HEFFELDINGER!" shouted the introducer. The afflicted one shook his head sadly. "It's no use," he lamented, "I can't make it out at all. Why, it sounds like Heffeldinger, to me!"
