cured in buying the lights for the electrolfiers in larger lots. The bidders had not wished to bid on small amounts but were willing to bid on case lots of 60, ten of the 200 watt and fifty of the 150 watt lamps.

There were bids received from the Iowa-Nebraska Light & Power Co., the Cappel Electric Co., Warga Hardware, Weyrich & Hadraba, Maury Drug Co., Bestor & Swatek Co. After the check of the bids it was found the Iowa-Nebraska Light & Power Co., at $12.80 was the lowest bidder and the contract was accordingly awarded to them.

Firemen's Insurance Discussed

There was present at the meeting, Clement Woster and Fred Lugsch of the fire department, who presented the matter of accident insurance for the firemen. Mr. Woster for the committee stated that the firemen had approved of a plan for accident insurance as they felt that the compensation paid under the present plan was inadequate in case a man was injured and unable to carry on his daily tasks. The department had received and approved a plan submitted by W. E. Renish of Omaha, whereby the city could pay $75 and the department $75 for the insurance to cover the members in case of accidents. This policy allowed a minimum of $2,000 for death and $20 a week for accident disability. This policy was by the Massachusetts Bonding and Insurance Co.

On motion of Councilman Webb this was referred to the fire and water committee and a committee of the firemen to arrange the details and if satisfactory make the contract, the funds to be taken from the fire department funds.

City Attorney J. H. Davis reported that he had contacted the owners of the private sanitary sewer on South Sixth street and thought that all could get together and the district repay the city for the cost of repairing.

The Green River Ordinance

Ordinance No. 728, better known as the "Green River" ordinance, regulating the peddling, distribution of bills, solicitation of orders and sales from house to house, was brought up for the third reading and final action.

Councilman Brittain objected to the ordinance on the grounds that it interfered with the right of the citizens to purchase where they pleased.

Councilman Rehal amended the ordinance so that the penalty was placed at from $1 to $100 for violation instead of $25 to $100 as was first given.

A petition signed by 500 residents of the city was presented and which asked that the ordinance be not passed.

On the roll call for final passage Councilman Webb stated he wished to explain his vote. The ordinance did not tell anyone where to buy, it did not prevent those wishing salesmen and solicitors to call having this done by means of invitation or sanction of their visits. It also protected those who did not wish to be bothered by the bill distributors or solicitors.

The vote on the ordinance was as follows:

AYE—Webb, Pius, Tipples, Rehal, Comstock, Schutz, Vroman, Vincent. NO—Hall, Brittain.

Clearing Up Real Estate

The tax and property committee presented a bid from W. M. Barclay, for the purchase of some tax title lots adjoining his property on South Fifth street. By resolution this sale was authorized.

The tax and property committee also presented a resolution authorizing the foreclosure on some thirty-six properties against which the city holds certificates, this being necessary to protect the city's interest in the matter.

Tell of Convention

The members of the council had a very fine outline of the recent convention of the League of Nebraska Municipalities which was held in Omaha.

Councilman E. A. Webb, who had been a speaker at two groups of the convention on the tax problems of the cities, City Attorney J. Howard Davis and Mayor George Lushinsky, all had a part in the description of the convention and its work. There were a great many matters of worth while consideration and the Plattsmouth delegation had gained a great deal of knowledge in the problems of the various municipalities and many cured in buying the lights for the of which Plattsmouth has to contend.

The following bills were ordered paid by the council:

Iowa-Nebr. Light & Power Co., street lights	$246.95

STATE HUSKING CONTEST

LINCOLN, Oct. 16 (UP)—Twenty-nine farmers, winners of county corn husking contests will compete for the Nebraska husking title on a pump-irrigated farm near Kearney, October 28, the Nebraska Farmer, sponsor of the affair, announced today.

Cash prizes totaling $200 will be distributed among the top five men and the winner will represent Nebraska in the national corn husking contest in Missouri November 4.

The Colonel Arbuckle farm on which the contest will be held is in the center of one of the state's leading pump-irrigated districts.

CHRISTMAS GREETINGS LATE

UPPER DARBY, Pa. (UP)—Mrs. William D. Wall received a card recently with the greeting, "I wish you a Merry Christmas." Mrs. Wall observed that it had been mailed in Clifton Heights, three miles away, last Christmas.

Wabash News

Fred Towle and Frank Marshall attended the community sale held at Syracuse last Wednesday.

Jerry Smith, with his tractor, has been helping Ralph Richards get his crop of wheat in the ground.

It is reported that Howard Colbert has suffered the loss of three head of cattle from the prevailing corn stalk disease.

Roy Stewart, Alvo well man, has been sinking a new well for Herman Schleiter on the farm north of Wabash, the former water supply having dried up to such an extent that it was necessary to sink the new well.

Louis Schmidt, who has been at the hospital for more than a week, was able to return home last Sunday. While there he underwent a very successful operation for hemorrhoids, which had been giving him much trouble of late.

Water Supply Low

The wells at the Caygill farm near Wabash, where Fred Weyers resides, have dried up to such an extent that there is not enough water for the stock and household use. Mr. Caygill was over from his home near Elmwood and assisted Mr. Weyers with the task of sinking the well to a deeper level in the hope of locating a more abundant supply.

Buy Horses in West

Amzi McBride, of Beaver Crossing, a son of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. McBride, who has been farming near that town, found a team which he considered as being well worth the money, and as the father W. H. McBride had lost some of his, he advised the father, who instructed him to purchase the team and had Frank Marshall drive out with his truck for the horses. Amzi reports crops all burned out in that part of the country. He has placed what corn he had in a silo to provide food for livestock during the winter, and, having completed sowing his winter wheat, finds little to do just now.

Has Second Amputation

Elwin West, the young lad who was compelled to have a part of his arm amputated some time ago as a result of injuries sustained in a fall from the haymow, had to be taken back to the hospital just recently for a second operation, removing some two inches more of the bone, as it was affected. He had recovered nicely from his prior operation and had been attending school, but it was found advisable to remove the additional bone to guard against spread of the infection. His stay at the hospital this time was limited to over night, and since his return home he is getting along nicely with prospects good that the arm will heal in satisfactory manner this time.

STUDENT LIVES IN HAND-BUILT PORTABLE HUT

LAWRENCE, Kas. (UP)—Ralph Reber, 19-year-old farm youth, has built a one-room portable house near the University of Kansas campus to live in while he is completing his college work.

The structure cost $60. Reber did not have enough money to live in a fraternity house while at school and it cost too much to board at a private house. So he conceived the idea of building a hut near two of the largest fraternity houses.

The house is 7 by 14 feet and large enough to accommodate two occupants. Reber plans to get a roommate. There are two folding desks in the structure, a study desk, an oil stove and electric lights.

Reber was graduated from the Whitmore, Kas., high school last year and worked on a farm and for a railroad during the summer. He earned $90.

If the youth decides to change schools, all he has to do is jack up the house, slip some wheels under it and it becomes a trailer.

PRIZE BEEF SOLD

OMAHA, Oct. 14 (UP)—Reflecting the up trend in market cattle prices the grand champion load of fat cattle in the Ak-Sar-Ben carload show sold at $20.59 per cwt. today, the highest price in seven years.

The load, which was exhibited by Wayne Hopley of Atlantic, Iowa, averaged 1944 pounds. Cudahy Packing Co. was the purchaser.

The reserve grand champions, Herefords, entered by L. G. Scudder of Dawson county, Nebraska brought $18.75 per cwt. They averaged 955 pounds. This load was bought by Armour and Co. The grand champion load of hogs, spotted Poland Chinas entered by D. D. Buhman of Lancaster county, Neb., sold to Swift & Co. at $12 per cwt.

READY TO BRING YOU RELIEF IN MINUTES

THE REASON BAYER ASPIRIN WORKS SO FAST

Drop a Bayer Aspirin tablet into a tumbler of water. By the time it hits the bottom of the glass it is disintegrating. This speed of disintegration enables genuine BAYER Aspirin tablets to start "taking hold" of headache and similar pain a few minutes after taking.

YOU can pay as high as you want for remedies claimed to relieve the pain of Headache, Rheumatism, Neuritis, Sciatica, etc. But the medicine so many doctors generally approve—the one used by thousands of families daily—is Bayer Aspirin—15¢ a dozen tablets—about 1¢ apiece. Simply take 2 Bayer Aspirin tablets with a half glass of water. Repeat, if necessary, according to directions.

Usually this will ease such pain in a remarkably short time. For quick relief from such pain which exhausts you and keeps you awake at night—ask for genuine Bayer Aspirin.

Child Stars and Westerns Surprise of Movie Season

Juveniles and Horse Opera Heroes Prove Consistent Drawing Cards

Deanna Durbin

Shirley Temple

Buck Jones

By JEAN ALLEN

International Illustrated News Feature Writer

HOLLYWOOD—Two sources of current wonder to the film colony are the box office appeal of child stars and the unflinching revenue derived from westerns even in these sophisticated days.

Hollywood's flair for super-spectacles and lavishly mounted films with star-studded casts have given producers many a headache while the past year has brought them more than one pleasant surprise when they read the returns on some "horse opera" or B-picture such as Deanna Durbin's "Three Smart Girls."

True, there are even now in production several prodigiously-scaled films with budgets running $2,000,000 or more. But the profits on these will probably be less, proportionately, than on some of the "quickies" which are turned out by the dozen.

Deanna Durbin a Sensation

Some conception of the money poured into movie productions can be gained by making a tour of the lots today. "In Old Chicago," a semi-historical romance, more than half a million is being spent on one scene alone, the one in which a huge set, four acres in size, is destroyed during a conflagration designed to represent the Chicago fire. The finale alone in "Broadway Melody of 1938," starring Eleanor Powell and Robert Taylor, added nearly $250,000 to the production expense because of the lavish set and gorgeous costuming. No expense was spared in the climactic scene of "Hurricane" in which the reproduction of a native village is destroyed in a terrific windstorm, a thrill for movie fans but a chill for studio accountants who added $500,000 to the picture's budget for the item.

Yet some of the smaller independent studios, such as Republic, are making money with a small outlay. And their success is due in great measure to the undiminished demand for westerns. Gene Autry is one of the leading horse opera stars today. Buck Jones, George O'Brien and others have carried the torch for William S. Hart and Tom Mix in a manner profitable both to themselves and their studios.

But possibly the outstanding triumph of the cinema world has been that of Deanna Durbin, the "child wonder." In two pictures, "Three Smart Girls" and "100 Men and a Girl" she has lifted her company from near-bankruptcy to a point where it is now on its feet again.

Westerns Still Click

Nor is she alone among the consistent child star money-makers. Shirley Temple, of course, continues to pack them in. Freddie Bartholomew added to his laurels with "Captains Courageous," and Sybil Jason, Jane Withers, Bobby Breen and other youngsters are blazing a golden trail across the cinema heavens.

Hal Roach, one of the shrewder veterans of the picture game, is another who is capitalizing on the popularity of juvenile stars, and receiving a tidy return for his numerous "Our Gang" comedies.

To be sure, prestige and renown accrue to those companies who venture hundreds of thousands in super-spectacles, but even they would trade a bit of their prestige to have a child star or western hero who could turn red into black when they view the balance sheet.
