Van Allen, Ethan Allen and Walter Allen have all accepted work on the Missouri Pacific railroad and have been assisting in the placing of drainage pipes under the tracks to take care of the surplus water. They will continue as long as the work lasts here which will be completed in a short time.

Enjoyed Fine Trip.

Douglas Tilson and Jerry Jennings with Delbert Jennings as the moving spirit made a hurried trip last Saturday evening to the pheasant hunting grounds where they met with excellent luck, for there were plenty of birds for them to shoot at, they getting their limit within an hour. They arrived home about midnight Sunday. They were pleased with the trip, however, they found plenty of rain and the farther they went the more it rained. They observed that there was but little plowing done and no wheat sown. The corn was rather poor and while there was some in places the amount was small, but the fodder had been well cared for and as much feed conserved as possible.

Work on Oil Well Continues.

The work on the Golden Rod oil well is continuing every day and each night finds the well a little deeper and with every indication that the work will continue and that in the end success will crown their efforts. The stratas which they have been passing through have been of an encouraging character.

Mrs. Alice Todd Very Poorly.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Brown of Omaha were in Murray and also down to the Nebraska City hospital where they were solicitous of the condition of Mrs. Alice Todd who has been in that institution receiving treatment. The condition of the patient is such that it has not been advisable to perform an operation. All the members of the Todd family have been called on account of the very serious condition of the mother. Everything possible is being done to minister to the welfare of the patient.

Dwyer Todd who makes his home in Canada where he is engaged in farming, was called here on account of the extreme illness of his mother. Vance Todd also is here from his home in California. Miss Helen Todd, also of California, is also here with the mother.

Establishes New Barber Shop.

Earl Merritt has embarked in the barber business and has opened a new shop in the office building which has been the office of Dr. E. F. Brendel and later that of Dr. J. F. Brendel, and enjoyed a fine business Saturday.

Monday he and the wife were busy putting the place in excellent condition, papering, painting an varnishing, as well as cleaning it up. The remainder of the building is to be used as living quarters.

John Hobscheidt Still at Hospital.

John Hobscheidt, who was so severely injured when his hand was caught in the rigging of a corn picker he was using, with the result that the hand was very badly mangled, is still at an Omaha hospital where he is being treated for the injuries. While the hand is doing as well as could be looked for, it is still in very serious condition.

Hunted Festive Pheasant.

A merry party consisting of J. A. Scotten, Lester Dill, Frank Mrasek and Albert A. Young went to the northwest part of the state last Sunday and remained for the night Sunday night and were ready to begin shooting as soon as the sun was up. They were able to do their hunting in time to start home during the forenoon and arrived home during the early evening.

In Ministry Quarter Century.

Rev. Neil Stuart, pastor of the Murray Presbyterian church, will have been in the ministry twenty-five years the coming Sunday and will deliver the same discourse, using the same text that caused him to preach the first sermon which he delivered just a quarter of a century ago. The sermon while from the same text will no doubt be slightly different from the one which he preached at the start of his ministry at the other end of the twenty-five years. The Rev. Stuart is a very interesting speaker and a well qualified minister, well versed in the Bible. All who can had better arrange to hear this discourse, for you will surely receive much benefit from it.

Hunting in Nebraska.

Dr. O. E. Brendel and wife of Zionville, Indiana, accompanied by Ernest Harvey and Dan Parker, all of the Hoosier state, arrived in Murray where they visited at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Seybolt for the evening last Friday and Saturday went to Avoca when they were guests of Dr. and Mrs. J. W. Brendel for the day and with them went to Lincoln where the women folks went with Mrs. Margaret Brendel to Sargent where they visited at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Kidder while the men folks went on over to Brewster to hunt pheasants. Following their return Tuesday they again stopped at Lincoln and Avoca and rested for a day in Murray on their way back to Indiana. Richard Brendel, a student at the state university, wanted to accompany them but had to remain home on account of attending school and had to be there Monday.

POLICE CHIEF PUTS BAN ON WEDDING PARADES

LORAIN, O. (UP)—A wedding is a very happy event, agrees Police Chief Theodore Walker, but he believes it no occasion for endangering the lives of sane and non-participating citizens. He decreed: "Blissful brides and grooms and hilarious attendants must call a halt to their post-nuptial parades through the city, with horns tooting madly, a half dozen cars speeding in an unbroken line, loud cheering and other manifestations of unusual happiness."

Colleges are Waging War on Drinks at Games

By GEORGE KIRKSEY
Copyright, 1937

All Large Universities Lead Campaign to Protest Against Drinking at Football Contests.

CHICAGO, Oct. 20 (UP)—Drinking at mid-western football games is on the wane and members of the Big Ten conference no longer consider it a major problem, a survey by the United Press showed today.

There still is some drinking at games in this sector, but it is on a considerably more moderate scale than in any year since repeal. In last week's Big Ten games only three cases of drunkenness were reported. Two Dearborn, Mich., firemen, attending the Minnesota-Michigan game at Ann Arbor, stayed in jail overnight and were fined $11.75 each. Students tossed a drunk at the Princeton-Chicago game into the botany pond to sober up.

Persons under the influence of liquor are barred from all Big Ten stadiums, and ushers and special police have the authority to eject anyone exhibiting a bottle of liquor. In most stadiums appeals are sent over the loud-speaker system for spectators to refrain from drinking.

The Big Ten has waged a relentless campaign the past three years to stop drinking at games. Even bartenders, cognizant of the efforts of the big ten to discourage drinking in stadiums, are sympathetic towards the campaign. One bartender, at an exclusive Chicago North Side club advised two patrons on their way to the Northwestern-Purdue game Saturday not to take a bottle of liquor to the game.

Another bartender suggested the pouring of the liquor into a root beer bottle, and the two fans took along straws with which to sip the liquor. Two Princeton supporters attending the Princeton-Chicago game agreed not to drink until their team scored a touchdown. When that happened late in the third period, they could not get the cap off the bottle, so they put it away until they returned home.

The Wisconsin-Iowa game at Madison was described as the soberest homecoming in Madison in years. Sports Editor Henry McCormick's explanation of this was: "Wisconsin is winning this year and the people really want to see the game. They haven't the urge, common in other years, to get paralyzed as an antidote to the Badgers' disappointing play."

Oscar Thomas, assistant to Athletic Director L. W. St. John, reported drinking at Ohio State games on the decline. "There has been very little drinking at our two home games this fall," he said. Drinking is strictly forbidden at Illinois, where any spectator arrested automatically is fined $17.50 or more.

Chief Lewis W. Foley of the Ann Arbor police reported that only four or five court cases have developed at Michigan games this year, while at one time during prohibition there were sometimes 25 to 40.

Athletic Director Frank McCormick said Minnesota refuses admission to "any one showing a tipsy inclination." Athletic Director K. L. Wilson of Northwestern said, "We no longer consider drinking a major problem at Northwestern."

Any one seen drinking at a Chicago game is handed a printed card asking him to leave. If he becomes objectionable, he is removed by the usher, assisted by city police, if necessary.

"Our plea for less drinking at Indiana's games has met with a fine response," reported Athletic Director Z. C. Clevenger at Indiana. Professor Frank Hockema, assistant to the president at Purdue, reported drinking "very much reduced."

"There is a minimum of drinking at Iowa's games and we intend to eliminate it entirely," said Athletic Director E. G. Schroeder, of Iowa.

Notre Dame makes every effort to keep spectators from drinking at the South Bend games, mailing out with each ticket purchased by mail a printed plea not to drink.

A similar or even better record is maintained at the University of Nebraska where spectators carrying hip flasks or other discernible bottles are relieved of same before gaining admittance to the stadium, and publicly drinking is cause for eviction and/or arrest. It is highly probable had Mr. Kirksey extended his survey beyond the Big Ten he would have found general sobriety in the Big Six and other conferences throughout the west. At Lincoln, for instance, the spectators go to see the game, not to indulge in drinking and carousal—and all agree that it takes a mighty clear brain and eye to follow the intricate plays that are being pulled on the nation's gridirons every day.

URGE AID TO WATERFOWL

LINCOLN, Oct. 19 (UP)—Dr. Ira M. Gabrielson, chief of the U. S. bureau of biological survey, told Isaac Walton delegates here last night that he saw little hope of restoring the original number of waterfowl to the United States "within my lifetime." More than 17,000,000 acres of marsh land have been reclaimed and made valueless for migratory fowl, he explained in an address before the Nebraska division of the Isaac Walton League of America.

"In the last four years," he said "the federal government has obtained three million acres of potential marshlands, half of the minimum of 7,500,000 acres set up by the program designed to afford safe refuges for breeding stock."

Despite this program, the task of restoring water fowl population in North America will be a slow one, the biological survey chief asserted.

The Fremont chapter of Isaac Walton received a cup for the largest percentage of increase in membership since the last state convention. A gold membership button was presented to Ben Miller of Crete for obtaining 73 new members during the past year.

FARM HOUSE BURNED

FIRE AT HOME OF ED JOHNSON NEAR ELM CREEK.

Loss—$2,000.

Most of Contents of Building Also Lost—Ed. Johnson says.

Ed. Johnson, near Elm Creek, Neb., Oct. 8.—Ed. Johnson's home, about five miles east of Plattsmouth, was burned to the ground Sunday night. Johnson says that about 10:30 p. m. he was awakened by a fire in the kitchen. He rushed to the fire and found it spreading rapidly. He called the fire department and the firemen arrived about 11:30 p. m. The fire was extinguished but the house was a total loss. Johnson says that the fire was caused by a gas leak in the kitchen. The family has been sleeping in tents since the fire. Johnson says that he is grateful for the sympathy of the community.
