Williams of Elmwood who has been an auctioneer and amused hundreds of people when selling goods is himself very much pleased by the arrival of two granddaughters which last week came to the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Reeder. Harry was over to Weeping Water last Monday wearing a very fine smile as the result of becoming grandfather to twin granddaughters.

Makes Purchase of Business.

Don Philpot who has for many years been a driver of a gas truck for the Farmers Oil Co., of Nehawka, recently purchased from Postmaster Sterling Amick the service and filling station which has been conducted by Albert Tuck. Heretofore the station has been operated under lease to Mr. Tuck who has carried Standard Oil products, but with the change in ownership of the place lease will run from Mr. Philpot to Mr. Tuck and the products carried will be those handled by the Farmers Oil Co., of Nehawka.

Under New Head.

Heretofore for some time past the government quarries near Weeping Water have been managed by W. W. Dunn, as foreman, but just recently, O. L. Schlitzmeyer who has been located in Plattsmouth for the government has been made superintendent of the quarries at Weeping Water and Mr. Dunn transferred to Plattsmouth where he becomes superintendent of the work there.

Weeping Water at Elmwood.

Mrs. A. H. Jones, president of the Weeping Water Woman's club, with a number of the members of the club were in Elmwood Tuesday of this week attending the county convention of the Women's clubs of Cass county. They also took along a play which last week was staged before the local meeting and which was directed by Mrs. Ranick and which was enjoyed by the entire assemblage at the meeting in Elmwood.

A Son Has Arrived.

On October 18th a son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Albert Tuck at an Omaha hospital, where mother and son are doing nicely. The little one is a grandson of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Tuck of Weeping Water.

Holding press conference

Interviewed by reporters at Atlantic City at the first convention of the C. I. O., John L. Lewis, chairman, stated that more than $1,745,000 had been spent by the organization in the past 18 months for organizational work. He revealed that nearly $1,000,000 of this amount went into relief benefits for striking members during the steel organization campaign.

the threatening weather, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur H. Jones were in Lincoln where they were guests at the home of their son, Clifford Jones. They also took with them Mrs. Lela Kirtchbaum, a sister of Mr. Jones, who has been visiting at the Jones home for the past month from her home at Pasadena, Calif., who was leaving for her home in the west.

Visited Friends in Town.

Wm. Bush, former resident of Weeping Water but who has been in the west for the past quarter of a century in Pine Bluffs, Wyo., arrived in Weeping Water last week in response of a call from Ralph Bauer who recently had a leg injured and desired to have Mr. Bush pick his corn. Will also came for the purpose of visiting his mother, Mrs. Alice Miller who is now well advanced in years and who is enjoying the visit from her son most pleasantly.

Entertained Knickerbockers

Joan Carter who has been conducting the hostelry, the Laurel Hotel, was hostess last Wednesday afternoon to the members of the Knickerbocker club of which she is a member. A wonderful time was had with the games and social time and a very fine luncheon was served.

Louisville to Have Examinations.

J. L. Stamp, who has been coming to Weeping Water every week during October to give examination for drivers licenses will be at Louisville on Thursday, October 28 to hold examinations. Those desiring permits, residing in that neighborhood had better take note of this visit and be there to get their permit.

Visited Parents Here.

Howard Frizzel, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Frizzel who has been with the army at San Francisco, is home on a ten-day furlough and has been visiting at the home and meeting his many friends. He will soon depart for the west again to take up his work.

Council Appoints Day Police.

The city council ratified the appointment of W. H. Homan as special police for day service and to assist in the services of the night watchman or night police with a determination to see that the laws are enforced and less of the lawlessness done. Since the escapade of the last day of the county fair which caused some people to disturb the peace, there has been a disposition on the part of some people to see that the laws are observed and the appointment of new special police is the outcome of the agitation. Mr. Homan took up his position Monday of this week and has been doing the best he could to see that the letter and spirit of the law is observed. The parking rules have been cited by the new officer as well as the observance of speed regulations. Weeping Water as a town is like all others, the majority of the people desire the enforcement of the laws and but a small minority are objecting to the enforcement of the ordinances and the state laws.

Catches Small Lad at Well.

The new special police, W. H. Homan, was called to look after the city's water supply well which has been tampered with, which interfered with, stopping the electric pump and as well decreasing the water supply. When asked if he could catch the one doing the mischief, Mr. Homan said "I cannot say that I can do it, but I will try," and try he did, with the result that he apprehended a small lad in the very act and caught him, taking him to the parents and later was brought before the court, but after admonishing him to do no more such mischief and with the correcting influence of the parents it is not thought that there will be any more disturbance.

Ernest Jamison Better.

E. A. Jamison who has been so seriously ill for many weeks and whose condition has been such as to cause great concern as to his recovery but with the best medical attention and good nursing by his daughter, the patient is showing good recovery, and it is hoped soon that he may be able to be out again and on the highway to complete good health.

Return From Long Trip.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Keekler departed on September 19th for a trip which they did not know how long or where it would take them, but in reality took them through 15 states of the union and also a visit to Old Mexico. Mr. Keekler was well pleased with the trip which took them through states in which there was good business, good lands, good crops and others which had nothing in common with this. He said that Idaho and Oregon both were especially blessed with good crops and good times. In the little town just across the Mexican border from El Paso, Texas, he found one side of the street every building a saloon while on the other side every store was one having the sale of souvenirs and which appeals to the tourist as something to buy as a relic of the trip. With all the glamour and the showings of prosperity, it was a relief to get back to good old Cass county and to Weeping Water.

In the 30 days they drove 6,500 miles, over one-fourth of the way around this old world of ours.

Visited Daughter Here.

Mr. and Mrs. G. L. Bruener of Loreta were guests for the week-end last Sunday in Weeping Water with their daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene B. Ludwick, enjoying a two day visit with them, returning home Monday of this week.

CHALLENGE BLACK AGAIN

WASHINGTON, Oct. 20 (UP)—For the second time in his short career on the supreme court Hugo L. Black today faced a challenge of his right to participate as an associate justice.

Florida attorneys announced that they will file a petition at once asking for a rehearing of their case in which the high court denied the constitutionality of the securities and exchange commission and the right of the SEC to subpoena telegrams.

The petition will be based on the fact that Justice Black presumably participated in the denial action and that when chairman of the senate lobby committee he issued subpoenas similar to those involved in the present case.

The petitioner, Frank J. Ryan and the Ryan Florida Corp., emphasized that they were not contesting Black's general eligibility to sit on the bench.

Science Gives Rainbow Hues to Gardenias

Successful Tests Made at Ohio State University with Dyes and Inks; Explodes Theories.

By OTTO JANSSEN, United Press Staff Correspondent, COLUMBUS, O. (UP)—What is believed to be the first successful attempt to color gardenias artificially has been announced by Charles Bancroft, Ohio State University graduate student in horticulture.

Through the use of aniline dyes and various commercial inks, Bancroft has produced gardenias of yellow, emerald green, purple and red. The cut flowers are simply placed in a jar containing the coloring and within an hour the hues begin to show in the petals. Within 12 hours the flowers absorb their maximum of coloring.

Bancroft, who came to Ohio State about a year ago from McGill University, Montreal, on a fellowship, hit upon coloring by accident.

He was conducting experiments to determine the best way to preserve cut flowers. One night he left some gardenias in a colored liquid and the following day he found the flowers had absorbed the color.

Bire Ink Not a Success.

Sending the process possibilities, Bancroft began using various types of coloring matter. He found that certain commercial inks were readily absorbed while others were of no use, presumably because the particles in suspension were too large to make their way through the plants' cells. He found practically all brands of blue ink were unsatisfactory.

Bancroft also tried his experiments on Easter lilies, hellebores—often mislabeled "California poppies," which they closely resemble—and chrysanthemums, with generally good success.

He also tried sherry wine as a coloring agent, but found the alcohol was a little too much for the flowers, producing a definite toxic effect.

Bancroft's early experiments were conducted on dahlias, but it was found the coloring came out "streaky" because the veins in the petals were too far apart.

"Theoretically he would not understand why it had not been discovered before that gardenias, which are normally white, could be colored. In the course of his experiments, Bancroft has exploded several popular notions about flowers. He said his experiments showed there was no foundation for the belief that aspirin added to flower water has a beneficial effect.

Explodes Popular Theories

"In fact, it proves injurious to some flowers and doesn't seem to help any," he said.

He also said that placing cut flowers in a copper container with water does not appear to preserve the blossoms.

Bancroft also found that flowers only need about one inch of water unless they are dried out. Then they should be placed in deep water for about an hour, he said.

Another experiment showed that flowers with long stems keep just as well as those with short stem.

Deliberately wilting flowers before placing them in water does not preserve them, Bancroft found.

And if a young woman wants to keep a corsage fresh, he said, she should sprinkle it with water and wrap it in tissue paper and place it in the ice box.

A "by-product" of Bancroft's coloring experiments was the discovery that green dye seems to preserve flowers longer than other hues.

WOMEN WHO HOLD THEIR MEN NEVER LET THEM KNOW

No matter how much your back aches and your nerves scream, your husband, because he is only a man, can never understand why you are so hard to live with one week in every month.

Too often the honeymoon expression is wrecked by the raging tongue of a three-quarter wife. The wise woman never lets her husband know by outward signs that she is a victim of periodic pain.

For three generations one woman has told another how to go "smiling through" with Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It helps Nature tone up the system, thus lessening the discomforts from the functional disorders which women must endure in the three critical years of life: 1. Turning from girlhood to womanhood. 2. Preparing for motherhood. 3. Approaching "middle age."
