

WARNER FILES FOR GOVERNOR

LINCOLN, Feb. 2 (UP)—Charles J. Warner of Waverly, veteran legislator and first speaker of the Nebraska unicameral legislature filed at 11 a. m. today as a republican candidate for governor.

He was the first to enter the race for the gubernatorial post now held by Governor Cochran, a democrat who completes his second term next January. Governor Cochran has given no hint of his future plans.

Warner made a personal filing at the secretary of state's office. He has served three terms as a representative and 10 as a state senator. He has been a member of the senate continuously since 1919.

In a statement announcing his candidacy Warner said he favored continuation of the state's pay-as-you-go policy, avoidance of new forms of taxation and resistance to federal domination of state agencies.

Warner is 62 and of Swedish extraction. He is a graduate of the University of Nebraska and attended the law school at Washington, D. C.

PLAN TO RESCUE SCIENTISTS

MOSCOW, Feb. 2 (UP)—Professor Otto Schmidt, Russia's leading arctic expert was ready to leave Moscow today for Murmansk, to board the ice breaker Taimir and proceed to the rescue of four scientists drifting on an ice floe off the east coast of Greenland.

Professor Schmidt will take corps of aides. It is hoped that they will reach the vicinity of the ice floe within a week. Preparations already had been made to take off the Soviet "North Pole" party from their drifting floe. But when Dr. Ivan Papiina, leader of the party wireless yesterday that the floe had split, the government decided to speed the rescue.

It had been hoped that planes could land on the floe. But now the portion on which the polar party remains is not large enough for planes. The floe is about 985 feet long and 655 feet wide.

WILL STOP "PIRACY"

LONDON, Feb. 2 (UP)—Great Britain intends to take decisive action to prevent a repetition of acts of "piracy" in the Mediterranean such as the torpedoing of the British steamer Endymion by a submarine. Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden informed the house of commons today. Eden told a questioner that the government had drawn proposals for action by the powers represented in the Nyon agreement covering the Mediterranean patrol who met at the foreign office this afternoon. Russia, Italy and other countries interested in the Mediterranean.

Eden referred to "acts of piracy like the sinking of the Endymion" and told Clement R. Attlee, labor leader that steps were being taken to obtain a full report on the incident. "When it is received," he said, "the government will consider the action to be taken with the authorities concerned."

God is Love I John 4:7-16. Beloved, let us love one another: for love is of God; and every one that loveth is born of God, and knoweth God: he that loveth not, knoweth not God; for God is love. In this was manifested the love of God toward us, because that God sent his only begotten Son into the world, that we might live through him. Herein is love, not that we loved God, but that he loved us, and sent his Son to be the propitiation for our sins. Beloved, if God so loved us, we ought also to love another. No man hath seen God at any time. If we love one another, God dwelleth in us, and his love is perfected in us. Hereby know we that we dwell in him, and he in us, because he hath given us of his Spirit. And we have seen and do testify that the Father sent the Son to be the Saviour of the world. Whoever shall confess that Jesus is the Son of God, God dwelleth in him, and he in God. And we have known and believed the love that God hath to us. God is love; and he that dwelleth in love dwelleth in God, and God in him.

Bible School Lesson Study! Sunday, February 6th By L. Neitzel, Murdock, Neb.

"Challenging the Social Order" Mark 2:13-22.

Wherever the Lord Jesus makes his appearance, and whenever He comes in contact with men, things and men will never be the same again. A change takes place. As the sunshine dispels darkness and lets us see things in their true shape; so when the sun of righteousness shines into men's souls and lives and reveals true conditions, a change will take place. The appearance of Jesus and his teaching aroused the people, and whenever he showed himself, the people flocked to him; and while houses could not hold the crowds, He would go into the open, where there was room and He taught them. He was an adept in making use of the things near at hand. He would point to the sower, the lily, the birds. He loved the outdoors. He was recognized at the beginning of his ministry, by the outstanding teacher in Israel of his day (Nicodemus) as a teacher come from God, and all the way through his ministry He glorified this sacred office. He taught as he went along the way to the seaside. On the way He passed the booth of Levi's place of business. It is astonishing that Levi, at the command of Jesus should drop his business and join the followers of the Master. His readiness to follow the Saviour proves several things: First of all, that he was a good business man—his books were balanced; secondly, he was a man of good judgment, he saw where his gain was. There is no hesitating, no procrastinating—a man of action. Jesus saw the potentialities in the man and He made no mistake in his choice. When Jesus saw in passing by his booth and beheld the orderly place, the alertness of the man, he called: "Follow me," and instantly Levi was ready to lock up shop and take up his new calling. He did not go home and consult his wife or family. That is the way Jesus got all the apostles; so it should be today—preachers should take notice and cut out the "long invitations." If the preaching does not convict people, there is something wrong with the sermon.

Levi had heard Jesus preach and had formed his decision. Others may gather taxes, he had more important business. After being with Jesus some time and having enjoyed his fellowship, being home in Capernaum, Levi suggested to his wife to give a farewell banquet to his old pals and invite Jesus and his disciples; it was not the elite and fashionable society that graced the festive board of Levi's home—just the opposite. "Publicans and sinners" made up the guests. This shows the kind of company Levi had lived with, but, as stated above, a man is never the same after having had contact with Jesus. Levi is a different man, much like Zachaeus.

The scribes and Pharisees took exception to Jesus mingling with such men, but herein He has shown his greatness, that He could lift these "outcasts" to a higher plane. His great heart went out to the masses, the despised, as we read in I Cor. 1: 27-29: "But God hath chosen the foolish things of the world, to confound the wise . . . and base things of the world and things which are despised, hath God chosen, yea, and things which are not, to bring to nought things that are; that no flesh should glory in his presence." The two parables spoken explain his attitude. This sin-sick world needs a physician like Jesus. There is no panacea for the trouble of the world, but Jesus blood and righteousness. All the peace pacts, agreements and conferences can not cure the troubles of the world. Let Jesus and his love fill a man's heart and control his life, and he will not covet his neighbor's possession. There is no armament necessary. Psalm 133:1 will apply: "Behold how good and how pleasant it is for brethren to dwell together in unity."

If one half the money and energy were spent in the salvation of the world and bringing Christ's kingdom to the masses, that is now wasted in could be accomplished in evangelizing the world.

The question of "fasting" need not take up any time of the school—it is of little importance. Jesus disposed of it in very few words. (See verses 19 and 20). He thought it of more importance to teach those critics that the doctrines of the new dispensation are of vastly greater importance. Where Christ and his gospel come, there comes change. Old things pass away and all things become new. Old forms and ceremonies will not suit. Even man becomes a new creature. Life must be different where Christ is found. The new faith, the new attitude to God, will require new forms.

Patchwork will not do, with our religion. No one can give up one sin and put in its place a new resolution. It will not work. It means a new garment of salvation, a new robe of righteousness." (Isa. 61:10). Robes "washed and made white in the blood of the lamb" are required to stand in the presence of the King. (Rev. 7:14, 15).
