MOVING DAY PROBLEM FOR CRAWFORDS

Moving day offers plenty of problems to the average family, but in the Clarence Crawford home at Louisville it brings one that few, if any families have ever had to solve. The Crawfords are moving early this month.

They know how they are going to move the children, the furniture and the piano, but not how they will move "Jumbo."

For, "Jumbo," you see is the Crawford's pet bull snake. He lives in their basement and feeds on rats and mice. On sunny days he comes out of hiding and on cold days he seeks warmer quarters deep down under the basement floor. He seems to have a tunnel built underground to other homes and once in a while one of the neighbors will call Mrs. Crawford and say, "Your snake is over here." So, Mrs. Crawford will go and bring him home. Although he is six feet long, none of the family are afraid of him. They pick him up and carry him from place to place. Mr. Crawford sometimes brings him down town on a sunny day so he may enjoy the sights.

And now, as moving day draws near, the question is: Shall they take "Jumbo" with them to their new home; shall they leave him with one of the more appreciative—if such there be—neighbors, or shall they let him stay in the house and trust to luck that the new residents will not harm him? Truly, "Jumbo" offers a real and vexatious problem.
