This is a Fish Story.

Forest Cunningham stands sponsor for the story which runs as follows: Forest, who more familiarly is known as Max and Stacy Niday, who is called Doc, went to the Missouri river late last week to fish. There were two boats and a raft there and Doc slipped along past the big boat, followed by Mr. Cunningham, and cast their hooks into the turbulent waters of the Old Muddy, and had just comfortably sat down when a nibble brought the line of Doc taut, and he pulled and after a struggle landed a large cat fish which tipped the scales at just 18 pounds. Mr. Cunningham stayed on the job the remainder of the afternoon, but never got a bite. Such is fisherman's luck.

Bible School Lesson Study!

Sunday, June 19th By L. Neitzel, Murdock, Neb.

"The Suffering Servant"
Mark 15:22-39.

We enter with this lesson into the holiest and most significant event that ever took place on this earth, to which all the ages of the past pointed, and by which all the ages that followed are determined. The destiny of every soul that was ever born into this world is decided by its relationship to the death of the Son of God on Calvary.

The interpretation of the death of Christ must be found in his own words concerning his death (John 12:33, 33; 6:51-58; 10:11, 15-18) and then the teachings of the Epistles of Paul and Peter and John, and the Epistle to the Hebrews, all of which have more to say about the death of Christ than about any other single aspect of all the days of his incarnation.

Omitting the farce and illegality of the trial, we go with Jesus to Golgotha. It is a sad procession that winds its way out of the city, northward, out of the Damascus gate. A
