

Supreme Court Rules Jurgensen Out of Office

Conviction of Embezzlement March 7th Vacated Office Despite His Appeal from Conviction.

LINCOLN, June 25 (UP)—The Nebraska supreme court today ousted Lieutenant Governor Walter H. Jurgensen from office by ruling the position has been vacant since Jurgensen was convicted of embezzlement last March 7.

The high court held that Jurgensen's appeal from the conviction did not suspend his sentence within the legal meaning of the term, although it did stay execution of his 2 to 5 year penitentiary term. The appeal will be heard next fall.

"It would create an unthinkable situation to hold that one in law presumed to be guilty of a felony should hold a position of public trust and honor," the court said.

"There can be no doubt that this was in the minds of the people when they adopted article 3, section 23 of our state constitution (provision holding that conviction of a felony disqualifies a state officer). Logic and precedent impel us to the conclusion that the relator Walter H. Jurgensen was convicted of a felony and that thereby a vacancy was created in the office of lieutenant governor."

A ruling that Jurgensen was entitled to remain in office, the court upheld a quo warranto action brought by Attorney General Richard C. Hunter. Jurgensen's counsel argued that the conviction was not final in view of the appeal which, it was asserted, stayed any penalties attached to the conviction.

District Judge E. G. Kroger of Grand Island who wrote the unanimous opinion of the high court said the question had never before been passed upon by the Nebraska court. He said the decision was supported by virtually all other courts in similar cases.

Jurgensen filed yesterday for reelection. The secretary of state has asked the attorney general for an opinion to decide whether Jurgensen's name may be placed on the primary election ballot.

Jurgensen was found guilty of embezzling $549 from Chester C. Kadert of Potter, Nebraska in a private stock and bond transaction. He contended he was a victim of "political persecution."

NORRIS ON PARTY CHANGES

WASHINGTON, June 23 (UP)—Senator George W. Norris, Ind., Neb., said today that the proposal of Republican National Chairman John D. M. Hamilton for a coalition of conservative democrats with republicans would "drive all the republican liberals to the democratic party."

"They've driven a good many liberals out of the republican party already," he said. Norris gave up his republican affiliations to run as an independent in 1936. In a speech at Birmingham, Ala., yesterday Hamilton proposed that conservative southern democrats join with the republicans, asserting that the republican party was now "more Jeffersonian than the democratic party."

Norris said that he would be glad to see all conservatives in one party and liberals in another. "I don't care what you call them," he said.

REPUBLIC TO MEET U. S. STEEL

CLEVELAND, O., June 25 (UP)—Republic Steel Corporation officials announced today that they were meeting the U. S. Steel Corporation's $2.00 to $4.00 per ton price cut on 16 classifications of steel products but hinted it might become necessary to reduce the pay of workers.

H. J. Clarke, vice-president in charge of sales for Republic said that the company practically was "compelled" to meet the price slashes of the largest producer of steel in the industry. He added that he believed the entire industry would find it necessary to follow.

Asked whether price reductions would result in pay cuts for Republic, Clarke said:

"Naturally we can't produce steel at $2.00 to $4.00 a ton less and meet present wages. He said that Republic was not under contract with any union organization but did not set definitely when or to what extent wages might be reduced.

Veteran Calls Prize Contest Winning Easy

Competitor for 15 Years Says Give Sponsors What's Wanted—Best Year in 1933.

ST. PAUL (UP)—Clarence D. Johnson of St. Paul theoretically supports his wife and seven children from his salary as a railway clerk.

But his wife and children probably would insist that his affinity for prizes in contests helps a lot.

Johnson is an inveterate competitor in prize contests. He does not enter all the contests that are held, but he tries to get into as many as possible, and his results have been little short of amazing.

He has won more than 100 prizes, and their value has ranged all the way from $1 to nearly $1,000. The prize list reads something like the belongings of the American "average family."

Once Won Auto

Since he first began entering prize contests nearly 15 years ago, Johnson has won an automobile, seven bicycles, two wrist watches, an electric refrigerator, three radios, a phonograph record player, an air rifle, two dolls, roller skates, assorted lamps, a ton of coke, four or five sets of silverware, and cash prizes ranging from $1 to $250.

That list is just a small sample of his actual collections, but it gives an idea of his take in the various competitions.

"If there is one thing certain in life," he says, "it's that I will win another prize."

"Some people play the stock market, others play poker. I play the contest game. The returns are better," he argues.

Johnson follows no formula in his prize contest entries. "I figure out what the contest sponsors want," he says, and "then give it to them."

And for him it's as simple as that.

Best Year in 1933

Johnson says his best prize year was in 1933, when most people were complaining about the depression. His automobile, though, his biggest prize, was not received until 1934. He won that with the slogan, "Sturdy and fast, built to last."

He does his bit to keep the family supplied with toys, too, in his contests.

Once he won a doll for his oldest daughter, Betty. Betty then graciously turned father's ability over to a friend who also wanted a doll. Johnson won her a doll, too. But he drew the line when his son wanted him to win a third doll so the boy could give it to a girl friend.

Johnson expects to win something again before long, but he hasn't the slightest idea what it will be. A person who plays his game never knows what's coming next.

WOULD REROUTE HIGHWAY

OMAHA, June 23 (UP)—The Omaha Motor club and Chamber of Commerce officials expressed surprise at the reported action of the executive committee of the Association of Highway Engineers in Chicago Monday in ordering highway No. 16 from Waterloo to Clarks in Nebraska, be designated as alternate No. 36.

No. 36 is the highly publicized trans-continental Lincoln highway. Reports of the action reached officials of the Nebraska Memorial Lincoln Highway association yesterday and caused the group to plan mass meetings for indignant protests at the action. The proposal was the original idea of the Omaha Motor club announced more than a year ago. Because of protests of cities along the regular Lincoln highway from Blair to Kearney, Omaha clubs had abandoned the idea and were united in asking that highway No. 32 be extended from Iowa to form a new "airline" route which they planned originally to extend westward almost to the Wyoming line.

WOULD AID CLERGYMEN

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., June 24 (UP)—The board of American missions of the United Lutheran Church of America today offered refuge to Lutheran clergymen "suffering persecution in Nazi Germany." The Rev. Dr. Zenan Zerbe, executive secretary said a fund would be set aside for transportation of German Lutheran ministers to America on condition that they become American citizens and enter under the German migration laws.

Dockage facilities make Plattsmouth an ideal factory site. Welcome and a splendid opportunity to expand should be an inducement to those contemplating a change in location from the more thickly populated centers and flood areas of the east.

OMAHA AUTO ACCIDENT

OMAHA, June 25 (UP)—Shreds of clothing and bits of broken glass led to the arrest at 3:40 this morning of Dan Muck, 29, 420 South Fifteenth street, on a charge of severely injuring Eugene Golden, 58-year-old Negro, in a hit-and-run accident two hours previously.

The speeding car, traveling north on Sixteenth street, mowed down Golden at Grace street at 1:45 a. m. as two pedestrians looked on. Golden, who has no permanent address but floats from place to place, was pushing his junk cart in the same direction as the car was going.

Police found Muck and a companion, William Olson, 21, parked in back of Olson's home at 3609 North Sixteenth street. After the accident officers scoured that section of town for a trace of the car.

Muck was asleep in the front seat while Olson was sleeping in the back. Police said that both men had been drinking.

Muck admitted being the driver of the hit-and-run car after police matched glass found at the scene of the accident with that in the headlights of the car and discovered fragments of Golden's clothing stuck on the fender. The right front of the car was badly damaged.

Golden was taken to Nicholas Senn hospital with his left leg badly torn his right leg broken in three places and suffering from shock.

Sam Fingeret, 2301 North Sixteenth street, and Dave Berg, 1535 North Twentieth street, were the two witnesses.

THREATEN REPRISALS

PARIS, June 25 (UP)—The Spanish loyalist government notified the foreign office today that it would bomb nationalist ports and bases of airplanes operating in the nationalist behalf in reprisal if there are more insurgent aerial bombings of undefended loyalist cities.

Dr. Marcelino Pascua, the loyalist ambassador, handed the notification to Foreign Minister Georges Bonnet. Bonnet urged prudence, and regarded the situation so seriously that he decided to issue an important declaration to the press later today. France fears international complications.

The Spanish notification that nationalist ports and airplane bases on the Spanish mainland and in the Balearic Islands, and possibly in Spanish Morocco, would be affected by any reprisal raids. Newspapers had published reports that Italian and German cities might be bombed.

At dawn today search for young McCormick was renewed with Governor Clyde Tingley of New Mexico directing hundreds of CCC workers, forest rangers, national guardsmen and volunteers. The rugged face of the mountain was scanned from an airplane. McCormick's mother, Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick Simms and her husband, Elbert Simms, Albuquerque attorney accompanied Governor Tingley in the search.

MUST HAVE NUMBER

LINCOLN, June 23 (UP)—Workers covered by the state unemployment compensation law are warned today by Director Robert T. Malone that lack of a social security act number may lessen their chances of proving claims to benefit payments after next January 1.

Malone said many eligible employees have either failed to apply for social security numbers or have lost the number after it was issued. Every covered worker, whether under or over 65 years must be assigned numbers. He urged workers in such cases to communicate with the nearest Nebraska field office of the social security board. Offices are located at Omaha, Lincoln and North Platte.

THANKS AND RESOLUTIONS OF W. C. T. U.

The W. C. T. U. wishes to thank all non-members who helped in any way to make the institute of Friday, June 24th a success. Especially do we thank the busy men who took time from their different duties to speak their viewpoints on a subject of vital interest to every woman who casts a ballot or who is interested in the standard of the community in which she lives. We are grateful to Mrs. Devoe for filling the vacancy made by Mrs. Mann who was out of town on business, and for the opportunity it gave us to hear him on this subject of alcohol education through the school system as he saw its weaknesses and what is needed to make it really effective. We are happy to have had with us Paul Iverson as he drew a word picture of the economic conditions facing youth today and which might have a bearing upon the present consumption of alcoholic liquors by them, although lower east side of New York does not present the deplorable situation in that way as does west side where are better economic conditions and liberty to live a life of least resistance. The thoughtfully prepared and well presented article on Allied Youth movement and why needed for the 'teen-age youth of today by Eleanor Minor fitted most aptly the suggestion to make total abstinence popular with this young generation, and for which we wish to give her our hearty appreciation.

Also we wish to thank the Journal for carrying the announcement of our program not only locally but through the semi-weekly, and for courtesies extended by members of the Journal's staff, the Methodist church officials for free use of their building; the privilege to use a corner of the county court room and assistance given in use of our mimeograph machine, now located there.

We were glad to have our state president, Mary Lee Seibert, of Omaha, present, who said it was a different yet more vital institute than she had ever attended. There was also a motion carried to send our commendation to Representative O'Connor of New York for his statement read by Miss Olive Gass from the Washington Letter in Union Signal of June 18, 1938, which we quote as follows: "I was against prohibition. I introduced bills to repeal prohibition but sometimes I have regretted that. The whiskey trust and distillers have debased what we thought was a great issue of liberty in these United States. As between the present condition and what we expected when we repealed the eighteenth amendment I would be inclined to consider prohibition today."

In conclusion we also as W. C. T. U. of Plattsmouth wish to propose for adoption at our next business meeting the following resolution as an outgrowth of the institute as held: "Whereas complaints have come to our members and friends concerning the conditions under which alcoholic beverages are sold by those who have been granted licenses to carry on such sales in connection with their business otherwise, and

"Whereas some of the licensees have allowed their places of business to become disorderly nuisances, and we are resolved to make more effort to help propose and support, in upright and legitimate ways, ordinances that will enable efficient control by our mayor, council and police of this form of business."

A CURIOUS RELIGIOUS SECT

In the summer of 1897 there appeared in Sarny county, Nebraska, a curious religious sect known as the "Figgittes." According to information gleaned by research workers of the Federal Writers' Project, WPA, the Figgittes claimed to possess rare occult powers. The Figgittes were always looking for the devil, not only in humans, but also animals, which they perpetually flogged to eliminate the evil spirits. Sometimes the devil occupied inanimate objects, and the Figgitte might be seen shrieking at him and making motions as if beating him through the air, with nothing visible to the eye.

Whenever a stranger entered the presence of a true Figgitte, the Figgitte knew whether he was possessed of God or of the devil. If the stranger were possessed of the devil, the Figgitte began driving the devil out by chastisement. This was sometimes rather painful to the recipient unless his satanic majesty came to his rescue and aided him to return the punishment.

One Sunday in July, 1897, a group of seven Figgitte sisters attended the Christian church in Gretna. All sat serenely enjoying the services until one sister gave a scream and ran across the room, apparently chasing a devil around the church, closely followed by her six sisters. The devil seemingly eluded them by dashing out of the church door and circling the building three times, then charged into a cornfield with the sisters in close pursuit. Travel over the soft ground was too much for the sisters. They returned to church, allowing him to escape for that time.
