

CATARRHAL ASTHMA

Very Common in October. A Case in Which Pe-ru-na was Used With Gratifying Success.

"We Have Used Pe-ru-na in Our Home for Years. My Aged Father Used it for Asthma and I Took it for Catarrh. I Can Recommend it Highly to all for These Diseases."
—Mrs. Samuel Shipman.

Mrs. Samuel Shipman, East Delaware, O.

THERE is a form of asthma very prevalent during the autumn. It sometimes comes on much like hay fever, but lasts until the first frost. This form of asthma is likely not to trouble the patient except in the autumn months. It seems to be dependent upon a catarrhal condition of the bronchial tubes and lungs.

This catarrhal condition renders the bronchial tubes very susceptible to irritations. Inhalations of pollen, or dust of any sort, are almost sure to produce a spasmodic condition of the smaller bronchial tubes, which causes difficult breathing exactly like asthma.

A person with perfectly sound, healthy mucous membranes of the respiratory organs is not liable to such an attack. Only those people who have catarrhal irritation of the mucous membranes have any reason to fear this form of asthma.

People subject to asthma in the fall should recognize the cause of their difficulty to be catarrh.

Any remedy that will relieve the catarrhal condition will often avert the paroxysm of asthma.

Quite a number of individuals have taken Pe-ru-na for this condition, and have found by experience that Pe-ru-na does prevent the recurrence of asthma.

We do not recommend Pe-ru-na as a remedy for true asthma. Pe-ru-na relieves only those cases dependent upon catarrh, as above described.

Pe-ru-na is a remedy for one disease only, and that disease is catarrh. But, as it well known to the up-to-date physician, catarrh is capable of producing a variety of derangements, and this explains why it is Pe-ru-na has come to be used for so many seemingly different ills.

Any remedy that relieves catarrh will necessarily relieve all of the bodily derangements set up by catarrh.

Asthma in Worst Form.
Mrs. W. M. Harp, Ridge Ave., Troy, Ohio, writes:

"I am going to write to let you know what Pe-ru-na has done for me and also to let others know.

"I was subject to asthma in its worst form some four years ago. The least cold I took would make me sick and I would cough and almost smother.

My mother insisted that I should take Pe-ru-na, so I took it with rock candy added.

"When I began taking Pe-ru-na I was so run down I only weighed 125 pounds, but in one year's time I gained flesh until I weighed 155 pounds.

"Now, when I or any of my little ones need a tonic, we always take Pe-ru-na and it never fails to do all I wish it to.

"I have often wanted to write you a word of praise for Pe-ru-na, but have never taken the time before. I hope Dr. Hartman may prosper and live long."

Pe-ru-na in Tablet Form.
For two years Dr. Hartman and his assistants have incessantly labored to create Pe-ru-na in tablet form, and their strenuous labors have just been crowned with success. People who object to liquid medicines can now secure Pe-ru-na tablets, which represent the solid medicinal ingredients of Pe-ru-na. Each tablet is equivalent to one average dose of Pe-ru-na.

ENIGMA FOR THE POLICE

Man Willing to Swear Others Into Penitentiary to Square Self.

DETECTIVES HAVE CASE IN HAND

Victims Finally Admits He Lost His Money at Gambling and Was Not Held Up as He Told the Officers.

Responding to the whir-whir-whir-r-r of the little ivory ball and the calls of high-dice-poker dice in the Manhattan gambling house at Council Bluffs, 153 G. Parker of Twenty-fourth and Spencer streets lost the first pay check he has received in nine months, and reported to the police he had been held up Thursday night and appeared at the station to sign an information against John Fletcher, a beggar, charging him with a penitentiary offense. But Parker had a change of heart Saturday, and Detective Battulo and Drummy caused Parker to arrive at the stage known as "conviction," and he confessed that he lost $72.25 in Council Bluffs and told the hold-up story to "square himself" with his wife. The officers required him to make a written statement to the effect that he accused Fletcher "wrongfully, and gave them two hard days' work for nothing.

Parker is a car painter in the Union Pacific shops and receives a good salary. For nine months R. L. Williams of the company has been drawing his check and taking it to Mrs. Parker, because of Parker's mania for playing his money on the red and black.

Wins in His Mind.
But Thursday Parker got to the auditor's office before Williams did and drew $72.25 from him. Then he began to see the ivory balls in his head drop on his lucky numbers. He played roulette in his head for a while and won every time. Then he played Klondike and faro and won at everything. Such luck was unusual at all.

Parker started to break up the gambling houses of Council Bluffs. He lasted two hours and then he sent his wife around a note, and this is what he wrote in the note: "I can't get around to pay you off today; a holdup man won't let me."

Then he went to the police station and wrote another note to his wife, in which he was held up for $72.25, near Twenty-fourth and Spencer, by a hold, had man with a gun.

Friday he positively identified Fletcher, who had been caught begging for 10 cents with which to buy breakfast, as the man who had taken his money.

The story did not look good to Captain Savage and he detailed Battulo and Drummy to look up Parker's record. They discovered it had come odd every time Parker bet on the even in the Manhattan house at Council Bluffs and Saturday they confronted the complaining witness with it.

It was then Parker wrote another note, this time to Captain Savage, in which he said: "I make this statement of my own free will and accord and without fear of any personal persecution. I was not held up, but lost my money in the Manhattan gambling house at Council Bluffs and told the police the story to 'square myself' with my wife, E. G. Parker."

Officers are undecided what to do with Parker. His willingness to swear an innocent man into the penitentiary, to "square himself with his wife," has so completely disgusted Captain Savage that it is a matter of conjecture what the captain will ask as a punishment for Parker.

HOME FOR YOUNG OFFENDERS

Fourteen-Room Home on North Edge of County Farm Proposed for Detention.

The purchase of a fourteen or fifteen-room building that stands on county land on the north edge of the county farm is proposed by County Commissioner Bruning as a solution of the detention school problem.

About fifteen years ago the county sold the land to a syndicate that resold parts of it. Afterward the courts held the original sale was illegal and the land reverted to the county. Settlement was made with all the purchasers, but the one who constructed this building, the title to the property is still in doubt and the Commissioner Bruning suggests the county buy the equity of the owner and convert the building, with some repairs, into a detention school. The house is within three blocks of a car line and is surrounded by a farm land and he believes it would make an ideal detention school.

Be sure to attend the special sale of lots in Dundee, at Fifty-second and Underwood avenue, next Saturday afternoon, October 19. Take any West Farnam-Dundee car and go to Fifty-second street.

TITLE TO HOME OF THE COUNT

Matter to Be Determined in Suit Filed in the District Court.

Suit to clear the title of the old Count Creighton home at Twentieth and Chicago streets was started in district court Saturday by John D. Creighton. The property was bought by Count Creighton in 1881 and has been held by him or the John A. Creighton Real Estate company and John D. Creighton since. Prior to his purchase it there were slight technical errors in some of the deeds which threw a cloud on the title. In 1893 the district court of appeals ordered the property sold to pay some debts against it, but the records show no further proceedings were ever taken. Title is claimed both by the passing of deeds and by adverse, open and notorious possession of the last twenty-six years.

Charcoal Kills Bad Breath

Bad Odor of Indigestion, Smoking, Drinking or Eating Can Be Instantly Stopped

Sample Package Mailed Free
Other people notice your bad breath where you would not notice it at all. It is nauseating to other people to stand before them and while you are talking, give them a whiff or two of your bad breath. It usually comes from food fermenting on your stomach. Sometimes you have it in the morning—that awful sour, bilious, bad breath. You can stop it by using one of our Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges, the most powerful gas and odor absorber ever prepared.

Sometimes your meals will reveal themselves in your breath to those who talk with you. "You've had onions," or "You've been eating cabbage," and all of a sudden you catch in your throat one of our Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges, the most powerful gas and odor absorber ever prepared.

Don't use breath perfumes. They never cover up bad odors, but merely absorb the gas that causes the odor. Besides, the very fact of using them reveals the reason for their use. Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges in the first place stop for good all sour breath and belching of gas, and make your breath pure, fresh and sweet. Your teeth will be clean. Then no one will turn his face away from you when you breathe or talk; your breath will be pure and fresh, and besides your food will taste so much better to you at your next meal. Just try it.

Charcoal does other wonderful things too. It carries away from your stomach and intestines, all the impurities there massed together and which causes the bad breath. Charcoal is a purifier as well as an absorber.

Charcoal is now by far the best, most easy and mild laxative known. A whole box will do no harm. In fact, the more you take the better. Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges are made of pure willow charcoal and mixed with just a faint flavor of honey to make them palatable for you, but not too sweet. You just chew them like candy. They are absolutely harmless.

Get a new, pure, sweet breath, freshen your stomach for your next meal, and keep the intestines in good working order. These two things are the secret of good health and long life. You can get all the charcoal necessary to do these wonderful but simple things by getting Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges. We want you to test these little wonder workers yourself before you buy them. So send us your full name and address for a free sample of Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges. Then after you have tried the sample, and been convinced, go to your druggist and get a 25c box of Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges. They are more comfortable and "cleaner" inside.

Send us your name and address today and we will at once send you by mail a sample package free. Address F. A. Stuart Co., 209 Stuart Bldg., Marshall, Mich.

City. To care for the water which may run into the company's ditch, the city engineer may be compelled to excavate a ditch east of the company's sewer to a point where the sewage can enter an open ditch to the river. If this is done, the cost of such excavation will be charged to the sewer fund but deducted from payments of the person who may later secure the contract for the work, unless allowance for such removal of earth is made in the bid.

The company will rush work on its part of the sewer, which is more difficult than that to be built by the city, as it will run directly under the tracks, and in some places will be within a few feet of the ties. Arrangements must be made to care for the tracks during construction, which will so increase the cost of the work that the company may spend $80,000 on the sewer in its yards.

DR. MERCER FUNERAL SUNDAY

Body Restored in the Finest Casket Ever Laid in a Tomb in the City.

With eight active and twenty honorary pallbearers, selected from among the friends of the late Dr. S. D. Mercer, the funeral services will be held from the Mercer residence, Fortieth and Cumings streets at 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon.

During his long life Dr. Mercer was not identified with any particular church, but in recent years became a staunch friend of Rev. S. D. Dutcher, pastor of the First Christian church and Rev. T. J. Mackay of All Saints Episcopal church. These two ministers have been selected to conduct the services Sunday afternoon, to which those in charge have invited old friends and acquaintances.

Following the services at the home, the body will be interred in Forest Lawn cemetery. It is enclosed in a state casket, which is lined with double copper and hermetically sealed. Funerals of this character will be the finest casket which has ever been placed in an Omaha vault or grave.

BAN ON STREET SPOONING

Protest Levied Against Lovers' Lane Exhibition on the North Side.

"Spooning" doesn't go in the neighborhood of Sixth and Burt streets, and the young boys of the neighborhood constitute a Burt street improvement society, to protest against the opening of a "Lovers' Lane" on the North Side.

The methods of the Burt street juvenile improvement society have been criticized by the police magistrate, and the plans somewhat changed. Securing a few bushels of nice round clay balls, and a few boilers of mud, the improvement society held a meeting on the sidewalk Friday evening, and as the young women strolled along with the "gentlemen" the "Lovers' Lane" was started and President Frank Malcher of the improvement society declared the first meeting of the society open.

So many unattractive methods were used by the walking called the police, and the man Malcher, together with Charter Members Bert Shork, Fred Bird, J. Harry Bird and W. Jesse Bird, appeared in police court Saturday morning.

Judge Bryce Crawford delivered a lecture on municipal improvements which would help some and make a point of the fact that if everyone attended to his or her own business, the average city would run along like lubricated lightning. The boys were dismissed.

COLORED MAN IS GUILTY

Charles Williams Convicted of Breaking Into Dressmaking Rooms and Stealing.

After being out all night the jury in criminal court Saturday morning brought in a verdict of guilty against Charles Williams, the negro charged with breaking into the dressmaking rooms of Miss Kopynsky at 17th and Paxton block last summer and stealing a fur cloak and collar. Williams tried to pawn the articles, but denied stealing them, saying they had been given him by another colored man in South Omaha.

The verdict was returned within five minutes after the jury had received special instructions from the court.

Some excitement was caused in the court room as Williams was being led out by Deputy Sheriff Stryker by sounds from the hall which sounded like a fight. The crowd poured out of the court room, expecting to see a desperate encounter between Stryker and his prisoner. The strange sounds were the result of a wrestling match between Stryker and a cuspidor which had been left in his way. Stryker was handicapped by being handcuffed to his prisoner, but he won out finally and kicked the vessel to one side. Williams may appeal the case.

IDENTITY IN THE TATTOO

Young Man Bares His Arm to Prove His Title to a Check at Bank.

Men who have run up against identification difficulties in getting their bank checks cashed in a strange place may be interested in an incident that took place in a local bank a few days ago, showing the identity of some people.

A young man, who evidently had never transacted any business with the bank before, approached the paying teller's window and presented a check for payment. The cashier shook his head doubtfully and asked for identification. The young man instinctively ripped off his coat, bared his arm almost to the shoulder and exhibited the name on the check tattooed in bold letters across the fleshy part of the arm. The cashier paid the check and the young man put his coat on again.

"It's all right for a small check," said

"The river is being navigated 1,500 miles north of Omaha a country not touched by the railroads and where we want to do is to go north and meet these boats. I also think that steel barges, which, when loaded, do not require more than twenty-four inches of water, would be an excellent investment and they should prove satisfactory. A tug could be used to tow them, and if the barge went on a sandbar the tug could pull it off. This would decrease the boat crew, as five or six men could operate the tug and a long string of barges."

VIADUCT REPAIRS THIS FALL

Plans Approved for Big Improvements on Union Pacific's Eleventh Street Structure.

City Engineer Rosewater has approved a plan of the Union Pacific Railroad company for repairs on the Eleventh street viaduct, involving the immediate expenditure of about $10,000 by the company.

The plans include a new concrete block pavement for the viaduct and changes in the structure which will greatly strengthen it. The announcement is made that the company will complete the work this year if the season is favorable.

The company is also making arrangements to start on that part of the Eleventh street sewer outlet which it is to construct under its contract with the city. Under ordinary conditions the company would have waited until the city had finished the work east of the railway's right-of-way, so that an outlet for the sewer could have been secured, but the delay of the council in acting in the matter and the necessity for sewer connections on the grounds causes the company to start independently of the city.
