

BUTTER PROBLEM IN FRANCE

French People Have Way of Solving It Americans Have Not.

RYAN SETS FORTH THE PLAN

Work Along the Backbone is in Big Demand There and Yet This Meat is Unknown to Yankees.

"In these days of high prices of butter," said E. C. Ryan of Omaha, "I think it would be well for the people to look at the plan adopted in France to meet similar conditions. In that country there is a steady demand for what is known in trade as 'fat backs.' These are the pieces of hog lying along the backbone, after the piece of meat under the fat has been removed. These pieces are practically unknown in America, as the greatest part are exported, but they can be bought either green salted or dry salted. It is in the latter condition they are shipped to France, where they are fried and the lard which results is used in place of butter. Contrary to what might be expected, the taste of this fat is not like lard, but possesses a flavor which is pleasant to the average person and as a substitute for butter is difficult to excel.

"I noticed the remarks of Patrick Cody on the subject of beef, published in The Bee a few days ago and desire to approve them with one exception, and that is as to the inability of American cooks to handle cheap meats. The trouble is not so much with the cooks as with the people who do the buying. As a rule the buying of meat is in the hands of men in this country and they seem to have a distaste to order anything cheaper than porterhouse or sirloin. If they knew the real facts in the case they would know that when they were ordering these choice cuts they were really getting poorer meat than when they buy 'chucks' or 'rounds' from the same butcher.

Go to Big Hotels.
Very little of the best sirloin or porterhouse is offered over the counters of meat markets in Omaha or any other western town. The sirloin and porterhouse cut of corned steers practically go to the larger hotels and restaurants of the United States and foreign countries. In some cases they go direct from the packing houses, but locally they are handled through meat dealers, who not so very long ago won a contest with the packing houses for this trade. They buy the meat from the packers at 21 cents a pound and sell it to hotels and restaurants at the highest class for 25 cents a pound. After the steak has been trimmed it costs the hotels at least 40 cents a pound and goes on the table for $1 to $1.50 a pound, which is not excessive when one considers the service which accompanies it. Now the 'rounds' and 'chucks' from the steers, which supplies the fancy cuts are sold to retail dealers for their ordinary trade, while the sirloin and porterhouse found on the chopping blocks come from old cows or steers fed on grass. Passing the point of relative value of different parts of the animal it can easily be seen that the man who orders the choice cuts in the meat market is really 'passing up' the best meat in favor of a poorer quality."

Report of Milk Inspectors.
Reports of milk inspectors received at the office of the city commissioner of health shows that the butter fat is now ranging from 2.5 per cent to 4.5 per cent, where a few months ago the range was from 2.5 to 3 per cent. Speaking of this showing the health commissioner says: "It will be seen that under existing conditions milk at 7 cents a quart is cheaper than it was when it was selling at 6 and 6 cents a quart. The householder can pay the present price, add water sufficient to reduce the cost to 5 cents a quart and still have a higher percentage of butter fat in his combined milk than he had two or three months ago."

ELEVATOR MAN CALLS BLUFF

Minor Pie Biter at the City Hall Refuses to Come Across for Democrats.

Appointees of democratic city officials are beginning to experience one of the disadvantages of holding positions under a binary party now that the county committee has reached out for the sins of war for the pending campaign. For the first time in the history of the city as far as the memory of man runneth not to the contrary, city office holders are not permitted to contribute to the campaign funds as they may desire, but are placed upon an arbitrary basis. This method of raising funds was supposed to be secret and would probably have remained so had not one elevator conductor objected to the size of his assessment. His salary is $55 month and Friday he was notified by one of his superiors that he would be expected to pay to the committee a part of his last month's wages. He was willing to give up a $5 bill to the party who provided his position, but was said that he had been assessed for $4.50, and that the sum must be paid as soon as possible, as the committee was in need of funds.

The elevator conductor asked for time to consider. He went to a former city employee and asked how much the "ante" was in the old days. He was surprised to be told that no city employee had ever been requested to give any specified sum, but was allowed to fix his own contribution. Then he went on the war path and declared he would pay nothing.

LAST SERVICE IN CATHEDRAL

Father McGovern Celebrates Final Mass at St. Philomena's

Sunday's services will be the last held in St. Philomena's cathedral. Low masses will be said at the usual hours—8 a. m., 7:30 and 8, and high mass beginning at 10:30. Rev. P. A. McGovern, pastor, will celebrate the last mass, assisted by Rev. William J. Lee of Beaumont, Texas, as deacon, and Rev. J. C. Buckley as subdeacon. Right Rev. Richard Scannell, vested in cappa magna, will participate in the celebration and deliver the farewell sermon. He will be attended by Monsignor Colaneri, V. G., and Rev. William Kelly and Rev. John J. Jennette. Rev. James W. Stenson, assistant pastor, will direct the ceremonies. The musical part of the mass will be suited to the occasion and will be in charge of the organist, Miss Margaret Swift. All former members of the choirs of the cathedral have been invited to participate in the musical program and join the present choir in making memorable the farewell service.

LOW RATES TO BOOST WEST
Reduced Passenger Fares Will Be Put into Effect by Harriman Lines.

The Union Pacific and allied lines have given notice that they intend to put into effect in the spring low colonist rates for the settlement of the north and northwest. Many roads objected to the announcement of low colonist rates for next spring because of the heavy traffic on all lines, and the policy of the roads to give no reductions since the passage of the 3-cent passenger laws by western states. This was looked upon as quite a blow to several of the western states, which are now making strenuous efforts toward the upbuilding of their states by inducing easterners to move west to locate. The announcement was made Friday from Chicago that the roads were not going to give any low rates in the spring. This proves to be erroneous, for the Union Pacific has given notice that during March and April, 1908, it will put into effect to California and the Pacific northwest and intermediate points the same low one-way rates which were in effect during September and October of the present year.
