Blessed Night is Nowhere Beside Sev-

Nobles of Omaha Tent Journey in Imposing Caravan to the Oasis 20 the Northern Shriners.

If the blessed night, Al Kadar, is better han a thousand months to the Nobles of Tangler temple, Ancient Arabic Order of the Mystic Shrine, Thursday, October 17, will be better than 10,009 months and bring icy until the rosy dawn.

Hammers beat and anvils rang when the caravan of 109 nobles moved up the rightof-way of the Omnha road to visit the casts of Sloux City, prairie of Iowa, at 9:30 clock Thursday morning, with the intenion of returning Friday morning at 7 clock, Allah permitting, and the muczzin allowing them to sleep. The occasion of the Omnha Shriners visiting the casis is the institution of Abu-Bekr temple at Sloux City, a charter having been granted at the last imperial ceremonial at Los Angeles. Omahans are especially interested in the new temple, as of Abu-Bekr and many of the nobles will transfer membarships to the new temple. while all new once probably will go to Sioux City instead of joining Tangler.

Imposing Train Pulls Out. 'It was an imposing train which left Omaha for Sloux City and the 100 members, with Dimmick's orchestra, intend to do a lot of boosting for Omaha before they return Friday morning. Old Mike, the faithful watchdog of Tangier Temple, was chained on the front end of the engine, where he could bark when the mueggin calls "La illah ii' Allah." The front of the boller was transformed into the face of a camel driver, with glaring eyes, but smiling mouth of huge proportions, which would resemble the man in the moon, if the man in the moon was a coon. Large portraits of the Shriners' camel decorated the sides of the engine cab, while the locomotive was covered with bunting and banners. The decorating of the Shriners' train was done by the profes-sional window trimmers of Hayden Bros. and with the compliments of the big department store.

Truck loads of camel's milk in big yellow creamery cans, were loaded on the train. while all the water tanks were filled with zem-zem, R. V. Cole, chairman of the excursion committee having written the fol lowing beautiful poem, which was printed on brown paper fiched from one of Cudahy's distributing bureaus, and passed to the nobles:

the nobles:
When the mercury is high, And our blood begins to fry, When our temper is all awry. Pass the zem-zem.
When the banquet board is spread, When the sparkling wine is red. Give us something cool instead, Pass the zem-zem.
Whether at the deak or plow, It will cool your heated brow, Get acquainted with it now, Pass the zem-zem.

Patrol of Temple.

Led by James Howard, the pairol of as the train was ready to pull out. The patrol is a big part of the big show at Sloux

City, and James Howard looked his best, wearing a sult of baby blue underwear and was never questioned by any acred flower of Chinatown. George T. West, general agent of the passenger department of the Northwestern Railroad company, and Conductor George W. Carter of the Shrine special, loaded the train with difficulty, and promised weeping wives who followed the Shriners to the the nobles to return with either blonde hair, face powder nor locust blossom perfumes on their dress suits. George W, Hongjand, an attorney of North Platte, is a guest of the Rome hotel. He is a delegate to the Independent Order Odd Fellows' convention. Mr. Hoagland graudated from the law school of the University of Nebraska in 1895 when Judge

Reese was dean of the law school. "Like all of Judge Reese's old students, I am working hard for his election. He received 400 majority in our county at the primary election, Every one of the judge's old students feels that he owes him a debi he never can repay. Most of us who have been successful in the practice owe a large measure of our success to the judge's instruction and fatherly advice."

In most cases consumption results from a neglected or improperly usated cold. Foley's Honey and Tar cures the most obstinate coughs and prevents serious results. It costs you no more than the unknown preparations and you should insist upon having the genuine in the yellow package.

Wednesday afternoon some of the works of art bought by last year's senior class were delivered at the high school building and were put in place by members of the 1907 class. The bronze statue of Mercury was unpacked and immediately set up by Mr. Whitmore. It is a full size copy of the Mercury of John of Bologna, finished in copper green like the original, and is decidedly the finest piece of statuary in the school building. The pedestal is of Italian green marble and revolves, so that all sides of the statue may be seen from the same position.

Busts of Bhakespeare, Milton, Caesar and Henry Clay are to arrive later, and will be mounted on revolving bases in the rooms of the heads of departments. The statue of Mercury has been placed in the alcove of the library.
