(From a Staff Correspondent.) DES MOINES, Oct 17 .- (Special.)-E, J. Cain of Saylorville, a mining town near this city, shot and probably killed Charles Morris and Charles W. Johnson, Cain escaped in the direction of Des Moines and the officials are now searching for

Cain ran a store at Saylorville near the Enterprise coal mine. Morris is superintendent of the mine and Johnson the company storekeeper. The two men went to Cain's place this morning to buy him out, claiming that he has been bootlegging and selling to the miners. They were endeavoring to buy him out in order to get him to leave the village. During the negotiations for the sale Cain drew a revolver and without any warning shot the two men. Morris was shot in the side and Johnson in the small of the back. There is some hopes of Morris recovering.

The trouble over the illegal liquor selling dates back some time. Morris and rested for illegal liquor selling recently on informations filed in justice court. Morris, one of the men shot, has been very prominent for years in coal mine circles. He has presided at the joint conventions of the coal miners and coal operators when they meet blennially to fix scales of wages He is president of the Maronisvilla ator in big mines. Dairymen Object.

Dairymen object to the statements of the Iowa Health Bulletin that butter as it is ordinarily made is one of the filthlest things that come onto the dining table. The article in the last issue of the Health Builetin states that tuberculosis cream in the skimming process and that they go into the butter in the churning process. Dairymen dispute this and maintain that scientists have proved that they remain in the skimmed milk because of the fact that they feed on the nitrogenous part of milk, which is the skimmed milk, and do not go to the butter fat. Pickle Men Are in Pickle.

Some of the pickle manufacturers of Iowa have gotten themselves into a pickle by not being mindful of the limit of time under the pure food law to work off old goods.
