Refrigerator Too Suggestive.

It has just leaked out why W. B. Rose would not consider for a moment a judgeship in Alaska. The reason is simple and easy. In the Rose home, as in all wellregulated homes, there is a refrigerator. On the front of that refrigerator, painted in big letters, is the word, "Alaska." Beneath that is a winter scene, real enough to keep butter hard in the hottest weather. Mr. Rose sprung his proposition on Mrs. Rose. The latter, being busy with her housework strolled into the kitchen. She hesitated not a moment. She declined the suggestion to ever think it over. She merely pointed to that refrigerator and shivered.
