BLAIR MEN ARE NEATLY WORKED

Old Army Comrade Story Brings Reward to One Man. BLAIR, Neb., Dec. 3f.-(Special.)-A $30,000 real estate deal was to have been closed up here on last Friday evening. M. J. St. Clair, purporting to be from Bloomington, Ind., dropped into this city the first of the week and renewed his acquaintanceship of over forty years ago with Abe Sutherland, who was an army comrade of the same regiment with St. Clair. Mr. Sutherland is a substantial retired farmer of this city and immediately began negotiations for a large tract of land, known as the Kline and Herb Noble land, known as the Kline and Herb Noble farms, for his old friend, who wanted to put his two sons on the farm and himself and wife live in town. Real estate men planned "at home" affair. fell over each other in their endeavors to share the commission which Sutherland was to make on the deal. St. Clair was entertained for several days at the Sutherland home, wined and dined by the real estate men, driven in a carriage over the land and royally entertained at the club ooms, where his old army friend is a nember, who advanced him some money to pay freight on some apples and maple syrup to be sent from his old Indiana

LAST BAR DOWN TO ESTATE

Kinsler Overruled in Attempt to Ob- the company's policies for ten days. struct Creighton Will.

SISTERS HAD RIGHT TOWITHDRAW Such is Decision of Judge Leslie in Removing Ultimate Obstacle to > Settlement as Per Agreement.

County Judge Leslie Tuesday afternoon removed the last important obstacle to the winding up of the affairs of the Count Creighton estate by overruling the motion of Attorney J. C. Kinsler to strike the by the Little Sisters of the Poor. Judge have you?" Leslie held the order had a right to withdraw its petition of intervention and the fact its attorney claimed a lien on the bequest it renounced would not justify a continuance of the litigation when the litigants themselves did not wish it. He held that if Mr. Kinsler's attorney's lien tion, which would tie up the whole estate. Mr. Kinsler claims a lien for $2,500 on he $160,000, which was the share of the Little Sisters of the Poor under the will. Instead of holding up the entire $160,000 it will be necessary under the decision to hold out only enough to cover the lien.

Two Attorneys in Case.

The hearing on the motion developed the fact that the order had two attorneys looking after its interests. T. J. Mahoney on the witness stand testified he had been employed last March by the mother provincial of the western division of the order and it was through him the withdrawal was signed and filed.

Mr. Kinsler showed some feeling in his argument to the court. He said he had been employed by the mother provincial and had had correspondence with her. He knew nothing about the intention of the order to withdraw its protest until he received a letter Saturday notifying him the matter had been settled and telling him to look to the bishop of the diocese for his

T. J. Mahoney in his testimony said he had been employed to look after the interests of the order and had never been discharged. He saw the mother provincial in Milwaukee, December 12, and discussed the case with her. It was decided she would write to the mother general in France stat ing the conditions of the bequest and await a cablegram from her before taking any further action. After a cable had been received authorizing the withdrawal of the petition, the mother provincial signed the document and forwarded it to him and he had it filed.

Mr. Kinsler contended he has a lien or the $160,000 which would go to the order under the terms of the will whether they accept the money or not, to cover his fees and the discussion on this point occupied a large part of the hearing.
