

THE SIMPLE LIFE FOR FAT FOLKS NOT STRENUOUS NOR HARSH

If you're fat, uncomfortably fat, indefinitely fat, or there's any where on your broad expanse one spot, altogether too well covered with flesh, don't let it stand. Make it move. Standing fat breeds disease, weakens your constitution, tries your body, makes you feel mean, groggy, and ugly, and, worst of all, it hides your good looks, or your beautiful form or figure. There is a new method in vogue now which is first advocated by some leading stylists stars later adopted by the leading fat ladies of Broadway, some of which tipped the beam at 200 pounds. This new plan puts violent movements to sleep, gives hard work the quietest exercise a rest, makes breathing so simple and easy, one feels one could live forever. It is so different from anything that has so far been in vogue for a "fat cure" that one can't help but marvel at the way it is doing its work.

COLLEGE WOMEN ENTERTAINING
Mrs. Wilson Low Gives Luncheon for Mrs. Sam Strickland—Numerous Club Meetings Make Wednesday a Busy Day.

A., president of the National Association of Alumnae, at the Young Men's Christian association, in the evening from 8 to 10 o'clock, by the local branch of the association. Owing to the death of Bishop Worthington, the reception was changed from Brownell Hall to the second floor of the Young Men's Christian association. Scott will give a tea for the officers of the local American Legion at the installation ceremonies refreshments were served and a social time was enjoyed until a late hour.
For Mrs. Strickland.
One of the pretty but informal affairs of Wednesday was the luncheon given by Mrs. Wilson Low at her home, 238 South Thirty-eighth street. The guests were Mrs. Strickland of St. Paul, who arrived Tuesday to be the guest of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Martin. The luncheon table had an attractive centerpiece of white daisies and a subdued light was reflected from white-shaded candles. Covers were laid for Mrs. Strickland, Mrs. W. E. Martin, Mrs. H. T. Smith, Mrs. E. M. Fairchild and the hostess.

TOO MUCH EXTRAVAGANCE

Montreal Bar President Ascribes This as One Prime Cause of Flurry.
"Demands for higher wages and the increased cost of conducting factories among industrial enterprises because of the higher wage scales, together with extravagance of those who are making better wages than ever before, are the two things which, I would say off hand, responsible for the shortage of money in the United States," said Rob-ert C. Smith, president of the Montreal Bar association, at the Omaha club, where he is staying.
Mr. Smith said the feeling in Montreal is that the labor agitation and demands for higher wages in the United States has had its influence on the money of the country; the man who got $1.50 a day a year or two ago now gets $3 to $5 per cent more and there is a constant feeling of unrest. "Then he spends it all; every one has been extravagant," said Mr. Smith. "If a modest man has money for dinner it cannot be the dinner which his family would have but it must be a 'function.' Such extravagance destroys the labor reserve as fast as anything else. Automobiles are a great extravagance. A few years ago $100 seemed enough. I know of scores which cost $1500. We have some good American spenders in Montreal. It costs them almost as much to maintain these machines as the owners were receiving in salary a few years ago. They think that $50 to $100 per month is just a nominal expense for keeping their cars. It is not. It is a great expense. Such extravagance is sure to have its effect on the money of the country and has played a large part in the recent financial trouble of the United States."
Mr. Smith showed the concern with the financial situation in the country and of the postal savings bank of the country in discussing the subject. He said: "I cannot possibly see where the postal savings bank injure the other banks or how they will make so-called real estate mortgage money short. A plenty of money will go for real estate in Canada. The postal savings banks pay 2 per cent on savings there. They teach the people to save and when they get large amounts they invest in mortgages or bonds paying double that rate of interest. I have never heard of any of the Dominion that the postal savings banks take money from circulation or interfere with the loan supply."
"Our central banking system is very satisfactory, but we frequently have little trouble, which would result in Canada, way to New York at times and we feel the need of it at home, but under the central system the money supply rapidly adjusts itself to our needs."

BANKERS LIKE ALDRICH BILL

Victor B. Caldwell Pronounces it "Just the Thing."
THINKS IT WOULD STOP FLURRY
President Yates of Nebraska National Says it Will Be of Great Assistance in Times Like the Present.
Some good in Senator Aldrich's currency measure is found by practically all Omaha bankers, who are quite well agreed that the measure, had it been a law three months ago, would have resulted in New York bank securing $100,000,000 new currency under its provisions and staying off the flurry.
"I should say that the bill of Senator Aldrich has much good in it and would undoubtedly be of great assistance in times such as we have just experienced, but it does not go far enough to get currency. I believe a new currency measure should give aid to the banks which are carrying the commercial business of the country and not to the banks which are carrying the speculative and investment interests. In other words, I would suggest an asset currency which would enable banks to select the currency in times of need on the 'commercial' assets, as they might be called, the same kind of securities as were placed with the clearing house committee back of cashier's checks, or on which we secure our loan certificates. But the Aldrich measure has the effect of increasing the amount of currency in circulation. It is a possibility that if it becomes a law it will do us a good service some day. The rate of interest is high enough."
Just the Thing—Caldwell.
The Aldrich bill is "just the thing," said Victor B. Caldwell, vice president of the Nebraska National bank. "I believe that had it been a law three months ago the panic would have been averted. It is possible that $100,000,000 would have been issued and that would have relieved the situation in New York and consequently throughout the country."
The rate of interest on the new currency is "close—just so it is secured. If $100,000,000 would be taken out of the banks which have the bonds, all the banks would be benefited indirectly. The rate of interest on the new currency during the last financial flurry and the Aldrich measure would have saved the trouble. The adoption of the measure means that gradually the banks of the country will invest in the bonds which will be available for deposit to secure the currency under the proposed measure, or they will convert the bonds they hold into such bonds as the law would require and form a little reserve of bonds for the purpose of securing more money in the event of a great local calamity or one which makes a general shortage of money in the country. The rate of interest is high enough at one-half of 1 per cent per month to retire the currency and the fact that the secretary of the treasury would not issue the currency except in times of necessity, would make it impossible for banks which are willing to pay 4 per cent for money to secure the currency at any time to reloan at a higher rate of interest."
One Point Condemned.
Both Mr. Caldwell and Mr. Yates condemn the proposed provision which says "National banking associations located outside of reserve or central reserve cities which are now required by law to keep a reserve equal to 15 per cent of their deposits shall hereafter, hold at all times two-thirds of such reserves in lawful money."
"This would be compelling the banks to hard money," said Mr. Yates, "the very thing which is now being universally condemned."
Mr. Caldwell said: "I do not like this last provision. It places a limitation on the money power of the country at a time when there is no need for it. The provision would cause the withdrawal of large amounts when there is no necessity for it. The adoption of such a measure would be very harmful to the country."

MERCER AND SENN FRIENDS

Late Omaha Physician Gives Army Cost to Famous Surgeon for Graduation.
The late Dr. S. S. Mercer of Omaha, was a schoolmate of Dr. Nicholas Senn, the celebrated surgeon, traveler and author who died in Chicago last week. The two went through Ann Arbor college together. There they were both pursued by poverty and both fought against great disadvantages. When the civil war broke out Mercer enlisted. Senn was unable to tear himself away from the studies which fascinated him and which he pursued with an ardor that approached that of the fanatic. When Mercer returned from the war Senn expressed great disappointment that he had not gone also.
Dr. Mercer then presented to Senn the blue army coat which he had worn through the war. Senn removed the army buttons and wore the coat, for he was very poor at that time. He wore the coat for the rest of his life.
"Time is money" is the motto which the great surgeon and liver of the strenuous life had hung in a prominent position above his desk through his busy life.

LANDLORD NOT BOARDER GONE

Keopers of Georgia Depart, Leaving Guests to Get Meals.
ROOMERS ATTACHED BY HELP
Cook, Chambermaids and Others Bring Suit to Garnishee Bills in Order to Collect Their Wages.
The guests of the Georgia apartment house on South Twenty-ninth street near Pacific are enjoying the felicity of being landlordinless since Monday morning and several of them have been garbled by the cooks, chambermaids and other help of the house in Justice Cockrell's court from paying any further board or rent money to the former landlady, Mrs. Josephine Harpoon, and her spouse, John W. Harpoon, who abandoned the premises Sunday night.
The trouble dates from about August 1, 1935, when the Harpoons subleased the Georgia from its former proprietors, John and E. S. Glover, who had leased the premises from the owner, Mrs. Marie Sutherland. There was some question as to the legal propriety of the sublease and the case got into the county courts, wherein Glover brought suit against the Harpoons on three promissory notes approximating $900, for the furniture in the house. The Harpoons said that some of the furniture had been substituted and refused to pay the notes. The case in the meanwhile have gone against the Harpoons and judgment against them was given in the county court Wednesday. It now appears the Harpoons anticipated the adverse judgment and so they quietly gained and departed for parts unknown, possibly for South Omaha or California.
Suit to Dispossess.
The Gloyers resumed possession of the furniture of the house upon the departure of Harpoon and Mrs. Marie Sutherland, but had brought suit to dispossess the Harpoons and Glover.
Aside from these suits others are about to be instituted against the Harpoons for various grocery bills and for wages due the help of the house. Mrs. Sutherland has filed notice against the Harpoons of the Georgia that she claims to be the rent of the premises from January 5, 1935, and that in future all rentals for rooms must be paid to her.
A meeting of the boarders has been called for Wednesday evening to see what arrangements can be made in connection with the Gloyer's operations. At present there are about forty boarders and renters in the house, some of whom own their own furniture.
The Georgia has always been regarded as one of the aristocratic private hotels of Omaha and enjoys a high class of custom.

SOME HARD KNOCKS

Woman Gets Hit of "Coffee Heat."
The injurious action of Coffee on the heart of many persons is well known by physicians to be caused by caffeine. This is the drug found by chemists in coffee and tea.
A woman suffered a long time with severe heart trouble and finally his doctor told her she must give up coffee, as that was the principal cause of the trouble.
"My heart was so weak it could not do its work properly. My husband would sometimes have to carry me from the table, and it would seem that I would never breathe again."
The doctor said that coffee was causing the weakness of my heart. He said I must stop it, but it seemed I could not give it up until I was down in bed with nervous prostration.
"For eleven weeks I lay there and suffered. Finally my husband brought home some Postum and I quit coffee and started new and right. Slowly I got well. Now I do not have any headaches, nor those spells with weak heart. We know it is Postum that helped me. The Dr. said I must keep at it. Postum must be well boiled like the directions on pkg. say, then it has a rich flavor and with cream is fine." Name given by the Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich. In Regd. "The Road to Wellville." food in Regd. "There's a Reason."
