

MORE LAND CASES IN MARCH

Babcock, Agnew and Furman Yet to Be Tried.

LONG LIST OF OTHER HEARINGS

Nearly Twelve Thousand Dollars and Twenty-One Hundred Days in Prison Aggregate Penalties in Prosecution.

Several land cases yet remain for trial in the United States district court, but it is not probable they will be reached before March.

Other Cases Still Pending.

Land fraud cases exclusive of those to be tried in March are pending in the district and are against George E. Townsend, Benjamin M. Fox, George H. McCloskey and W. P. Miles on charge of conspiracy to defraud the government out of lands in Sioux county.

Agulla Triplett on three counts for alleged subornation of perjury.

Earl Comstock, E. C. Harris, Reason Hudger, for alleged conspiracy to defraud through procuring fraudulent filings to about 200 acres of land.

Robert F. Gillespie, for alleged perjury as a witness in a final proof case.

James C. Headington, alleged perjury as an entrainer homesteaded. Two cases.

Harry Sutton, alleged perjury as witness in final proof case.

James H. Edmisten, for alleged forgery in application to enter public lands and transmitting such forged papers to the land office.

Lawrence E. King, Patrick J. King and Frederick B. Baird, alleged conspiracy to defraud and suborn perjury to lands in Sheridan county. Two cases.

Charles T. Stewart and Stewart Walker, alleged conspiracy to defraud and suborn. Another suit lies against Stewart for the unlawful encroachment of public lands.

William George, alleged perjury.

Almas Stillwell, alleged subornation of perjury and conspiracy to defraud.

A large number of civil cases for illegal fencing pending on the docket probably will be disposed of during the year.

Summary of Results.

AFFAIRS AT SOUTH OMAHA

Miss Jennie Likowski Run Down by an Automobile.

Injuries Not Thought Fatal.

Many Candidates Being Announced for the Coming City Primaries and More Expected in the Near Future.

Miss Jennie Likowski, 419 North Twenty-second street, met with a serious accident at 3 p. m. yesterday.

She was struck by a heavy automobile at Twenty-fourth and L streets.

The car was driven by James Slank, a chauffeur of the Kimball Garage of Omaha.

The car was bound to Port Crook and moving at pretty rapid gait.

It carried Lieutenant Sidney Smith and his wife of the fort street car.

Miss Likowski stepped off the street car, which was also southward bound, and directly in front of the car.

It struck her with such force that she was raised from the ground and fell on the automobile.

She rolled off to the street. The driver ran the car into the curb in his effort to stop and to avoid the accident.

A young woman was carried into A. De Lannay's florist establishment.

She was attended by Dr. E. L. Delaney, the city physician. He said no bones were broken, but that internal injuries might develop.

It will require two or three more to ascertain how seriously she is injured.

She was taken to her home about three hours after the injury.

Many complaints have been lodged with the South Omaha police concerning the speed with which automobiles travel on Twenty-fourth street between the two cities.

This, however, is the first serious accident for nearly two years.

Farther north between the city and 17th street, the autos often get up a terrific speed.

It is likely that the police may take steps to stop the practice of scorching in South Omaha.

Candidates in the Field.

The civic club closed with several new political candidates in the field for the primary election.

A. L. Dickson filed as democratic candidate for city treasurer.

H. T. Brass also filed for the republican nomination for the same position.

Mr. Brass is a partner of W. C. Lambert, the former city attorney.

It is understood that H. B. Fiehrly will be in the race again.

Two have already filed for councilmen, John Keegan and Ed Trapp.

Trapp was city building inspector under the present administration.

Both candidates are democrats and are from the Third ward.

Several conferences were held last night by various members of both parties, with the view of promoting various candidates.

Police at Target Practice.

A number of the South Omaha police spent yesterday afternoon on the river bank at target practice.

The most of the shooting was done at forty-five yards. Some of the men exhibited considerable skill with a revolver.

Handgun experts in the city. The officers have planned several more practices in the near future.

HOSPITAL GRADUATES NURSES Five Receive Diplomas After Completing the Course at the Omaha General.

The second annual commencement exercises of the Omaha General hospital were held in the chapel of the hospital.

The graduating class was composed of five nurses, Nellie Campbell, Lulu Rosenfeld, Edith McWilliams, A. Fullerton McIntire and Lydia Malmsten.

The class colors were yellow and white. Forty nurses in white caps and uniform, together with invited guests assembled in the chapel and enjoyed the exercises.

A musical program consisting of vocal and instrumental music preceded the address to the graduating class, which was by Rev. Dr. Clark, superintendent of the Child's Saving Institute.

The subject of his address was "The Philanthropic Side of a Nurse's Life."

"The true nurse is a missionary," he said. "She goes into the community preaching the gospel of fresh air, of sunshine and of cleanliness.

She educates the people to prevent disease and to add to human happiness by her mission and thus she lifts human lives toward higher ideals.

I cannot conceive that one would choose the profession without love for mankind and the missionary spirit.

I charge you to observe the same laws of health which you preach. The financial rewards in your profession are not a weak or a selfish thing.

Your services are appreciated by your fellow men. You have the satisfaction of seeing humanity relieved of suffering and prolonging human life and to improve conditions of future generations and the final destiny of human beings.

At the close of the address Dr. W. O. Henry presented the diploma, and Superintendent Mrs. Hight presented the class pins, whose emblems were a cross and a crown.

An Insidious Danger.
