Events and announcements of the last two weeks indicate that little Dan Cupid has been working overtime for quite a while and in consequence the local fashionable set is to have a chance to do likewise in honor of several prospective brides and grooms of the very near future. Most immediate among these nuptials to occasion so much entertaining will be the of Mr. and Mrs. Freeman P. Kirkendall, and Mr. Glenn Wharton, which will take place February 14 and will be one of the largest church weddings of the year. Inbidental to it is a list of affairs pretentious and otherwise that extend through every day of the entire week preceding the wedding. And then there will be other weddings, three of which will take place this week, and all of which will be quite large. And each of these brides is to have attention from friends.

And then there are several other promising functions announced for this week, among them the tea to be given by Mrs. Louis Bradford and Mrs. Monell Wednesday afternoon; a luncheon to be given at Hillside by Mrs. Henry W. Yates Thurs-

Trouble, worry and ill health brought deep lines and wrinkles. I realized that they not only greatly marred my appearance and made me look much older but they would greatly interfere with my ess, because a woman's success, either socially or financially, depends very largely on her appearance. The homely woman, with her deep lines and furrows in her face, must fight an unequal battle with younger and better looking sister.

therefore bought various brands of cream and skin foods and massaged my face with most constant regularity, hoping to regain my former appearance. But the wrinkles simply would not go. On also be their guest. the contrary, they seemed to get deeper Next I went to a beauty specialist, who told me she could easily rid me of my wringles. I paid the money and took the Sometimes I thought they got less, but after spending all the money could afford for such treatment, I found I still had my wrinkles. So I gave up in dispair, and concluded I must carry them to my grave. One day a friend of mine was versed in chemistry made a suggestion and this gave me a new idea. mmediately went to work making experiments and studying everything I could get hold of on this subject. After several oths of almost numberless trials and discouragements I finally discovered a process which produced most astonishing results on my wrinkles in a single night. I was delighted beyound expression tried my treatment again, and lo and be hold, my wrinkies were practically gone. A third treatment—three nights in all and I had no wrinkles and my face was as smooth as ever. I next offered my treatment to some of my immediate friends, who used it with surprising results, and I have now decided to give it to the public. will send further particulars to anyone ing. who is interested, absolutely free of chage. I use no cream, massage, face steaming or so-called skin foods; there is nothing to aject and pothing to injure the skin. It is an entirely now discovery of my own, and so simple that you can use it without knowledge of your most intimate friends. You apply the treatment at night and go to bed. In the morning, lo! the wonderful transformation. People often wirte me, "It sounds too good to be true." Well, the test will tell. If interested in my discovery, please address HARRIET META, Suite 552A, Syracuse, N. Y., and will send full particulars.

of the Air "God Save the King.

A Geneva music teacher, H. Kling, is the latest contributor to the controversy over the origin of the music of "God Save the King." In his pamphlet Kling says that "Heil Dir im Siegeskranz" has been credited to John Bull, Smith, Purcell, Lully, Handel and Schumacher. His investigation, however, brought to light the fact that it was originally a Geneva "national hymn," written to celebrate the victory of Geneva over the troops of the Duke of Savoy in 1602. The title of the song was "Ce qu'e l'Aino." It was sung for the first time at a "patriotic feast" in 1603.
