As the governor of a great agricultural people, I am greatly interested in the National Corn exposition, to be held in your city this year. The educational advantages of the exposition cannot well be overestimated. Improvement in seed, in methods of selection, and in culture, has marked every exposition held and every effort made, and as yet we have only begun to appreciate the increase in yield and quality that follows from the better knowledge of soils, seed and culture we have attained. You have my unqualified wish for a successful exposition. If I can do anything to assist you, you may command me.

covered, calcium sulphide.

No matter what your trouble is, whether pimples, blotches, blackheads, rash, tetter, eczema or scabby crusts, you can sciemnly depend upon Stuart's Calcium Wafers as never failing.

Stuart's Calcium Wafers have cured boils in three days and the worst cases of skin purity is driven out of your system completely, never to return, and it is done without deranging your system in the slightest.

Most treatments for the blood and for skin eruptions are miserably slow in their results, and besides many of them are polsonous. Stuart's Calcium Wafers contain no poison or drug of any kind; they are absolutely harmless and yet do work which cannot fall to surprise you.

Don't go around with a humiliating, disgusting mass of pimples and blackleads on your face. A face covered over with these diagusting things makes people turn away from you and breeds failure in your life work. Stop it. Judge Kennedy Renders Sweeping De cision on Vaccination Order.

Judge Kennedy decided the ordinance was valid and that the school or health authorities could exclude children not vacdanger of an epidemic to require general vaccination of school children. He also holds it is the duty of the school authorities to comply with the orders of the health nmissioner in matters relating to health F. W. Fitch, who sought to secure the injunction, said he would file a motion for a new trial and in case it was denied would probably appeal to the supreme court.

Valid, Says Judge.

After discussing rule 31 of the ordinances equiring the vaccination of all school children and forbidding their admission to schools unless they are vaccinated once in seven years, Judge Kennedy said:

Under the extensive powers conferred by the sections of the charter above cited I am of the opinion, contrary to my first impression, that rule II was within the power of the mayor and council to enact and is valid and enforceable. and is valid and enforceable.

But even were rule 31 invalid plaintiff would not be entitled to the relief prayed. The charter makes the health commissioner a purely administrative officer. It enjoins upon him the execution and enforcement of all laws of the state and ordinances of the city relating to matters of health and sanitation, and all rules and regulations of the city relating to the public health. Legislative functions may not be conferred upon administrative officers, but rules which deal with means and methods merely and orders and instructions which are temporary and designed to meet a particular case or condition may be issued by such officers to meet a particular case under authority conferred upon them by a municipal corporation empowered by the legand found he had a new face:

Thus One May Know a Stranger's Nationality, Character and

A man's dress invariably proclaims who and what he is; it is an index to his character, his tastes and his nationality; and without making a too abstruse study, it is possible to indicate those features which proclaim the nationality of the wearer. Of course, there is an aristocracy of the nations which is difficult to distinguish except by some peculiarity of face or figure. Their clothing is refined and tasteful and leads one to believe that their garments are London made, as they are free from those glaring peculiarities which characterize the products of other countries. The American's garments are generally and made up for strength. The Austrian and Hungarian participate stics of the German, but are more tasteful in the cut and finish, suggesting a skillful blending of French and German notions. On the other hand, the Italian type is a Germanized French style, so that you get more of the artistic finish of the French in their clothing than you find in the Austrian or Huagarlan.

The Norwegian and Dane are seldom distinguishable from the Englishman as far as his clothes are concerned, except it be in a preciseness that is apt to suggest stiffness in place of that case and grace which mark the English garments. The colonial is invariably attired in stilltarian garb, a tweed loung suit in a modified English style, cut for comfort rations, so that he is rarely seen in a frock or morning coat.-Tailor and Cutter.

Meyer says his machine will cure any ordinary case of deafness, and at least declare they have been benefited greatly. "When nature creates a human or-"ganlsm," he said, "it is usually perfect, and whenever anything gets out of place there is a way of correcting the trouble if we only know how to apply the forces nature has provided. That is particularly true of the ear. Physicians realize that the ear, because of its peculiar construction, is the most difficult part of the human anatomy to treat successfully, and after suffering with partial deafness for several years I realized that, too. So I went to work to find a way of curing myself. I succeeded, and now I want to help as many others as I can." He explains he discovered his invention when experimenting with a sound box to do away with the scratching noise in the phonograph. Step by step he procceded, ati the time studying the anatomy of the ear, until finally the mahine was put together and patented. While a reporter was talking with Meyer and his patients two physicians, one of them an ear specialist, called, having heard of him through persons treated. One of these physicians told the reporter that his brother had been almost entirely cured of deafness by Meyer's machin and that he regarded it as an interesting invention. He said the principles involved were simple, but that it produced effects upon the ear drum which physicians had never been able to do.

The apparatus consists of small electric batteries, a delicate disphragm that corresponds to an ear drum, small rubber tubes and other mechanism, with two little tubes that fit into the ears like the ear tubes of a phonograph. When these are applied to the ears the machine is set in motion and its functions are varied according to the condition of the patient. When asked to describe just what the machine does, Meyer said:

"It draws the ear drum out in position and holds it there, and while holding it massages, exercises and vibrates the drum at the same time, sending an electric described in the oracles and auditory nerves of the ear,"—New York Herseld.
