Good Positions for All.
No doubt the Western Iowa college is the most successful school in this part of the country in securing excellent positions for its graduates. Every student who had finished a course at the close of the year's work was in a position. During the last week there have been many calls for bookkeepers and stenographers, but not a single student to fill them, all having been placed. It pays to attend a "School of Quality" like the Western Iowa college.

PETER BECHTELE PASSES AWAY
Pioneer Citizen Dies as Result of Old Age.

Peter Bechtele, a pioneer resident of Council Bluffs, died at an early hour yesterday morning at his home, 206 Platter street. He was 80 years of age and death was due to the infirmities of old age. He is survived by his aged wife and two children—Mrs. Charles Adolph of this city and Louis Bechtele of Sioux City. The funeral will be held Monday morning at 9 o'clock from St. Peter's Catholic church and burial will be in St. Joseph's cemetery.

Mr. Bechtele was born in Bavaria, Germany, in 1827, and came to America in 1854. In 1861 he came to Council Bluffs from St. Joseph, Mo. For a number of years he conducted the Bechtele hotel on Broadway. A number of years ago business reverses overtook him and for the last ten years or so he had been totally blind. In spite of these adversities he was always brave and cheerful, and his friends, assisted by the county authorities, saw to it that he and his aged wife did not suffer for the want of the necessities of life.

While prosperous, Mr. Bechtele took a leading part in everything tending to the interest of the city. In 1878 he supplied the funds and furnished the necessary bond in the suit brought by the city of Council Bluffs against the Union Pacific Railway company, and which on being taken to the United States supreme court resulted in the eastern terminus of the Union Pacific being forever established in Council Bluffs.

DOCTORS ARRIVE IN TIME

Get Combination of Morphine and Strychnine Out of W. J. Galloway.

LOVE AFFAIR IS INVOLVED

Makes Will Leaving Property to Young Woman Secretary, but Had Not Signed Document at the Time.

City Physician Rice and the police were called to the Goodrich hotel at 3 o'clock yesterday morning by report that W. J. Galloway, one of the guests, had taken a combination dose of morphine and strychnine with suicidal intent. Dr. Rice administered a strong emetic and Galloway, who was apparently in convulsions, was saved from getting to the other shore from which there is no return. At least the antidote did its work, but Dr. Rice had serious doubts if the man had taken the drugs as claimed.

The supposed attempt at suicide revealed a very peculiar state of affairs. W. J. Galloway, a man 40 years of age, who is said to be one of the owners of the Galloway foundry at Davenport, Ia., has been at the Goodrich hotel since July 19, and a young woman, Anna Barsball, whose parents are said to reside at 3214 W. street, South Omaha, has been acting as his stenographer and copying letters for him. At least one of the letters is said to be one of the owners of the Galloway foundry at Davenport, Ia., has been at the Goodrich hotel since July 19, and a young woman, Anna Barsball, whose parents are said to reside at 3214 W. street, South Omaha, has been acting as his stenographer and copying letters for him.

Mrs. Barsball, who said she had been living for some time before coming to Council Bluffs with an aunt, Mrs. Hair, at 1234 South Eighth street, Omaha, related a remarkable story to Dr. Rice and the police officers, part of which has been corroborated by investigation. According to the story of the young woman, who is but 19 years of age, Galloway was married to a woman with whom he lived in Keosauqua, Neb., which she declined. Although she refused to become his wife, Galloway declared that he intended to leave her all his property. This was something the young woman evidently did not object to, as in company with Galloway, she called on the Assistant County attorney Ross at his office in the court house Friday afternoon. Galloway informed Mr. Ross that he desired to make his will and that he wished to leave all his property to the young woman accompanying him. Miss Barsball, or Barsbele, as the name was spelled, told Mr. Ross, Galloway explained, was his confidential clerk. Mr. Ross as requested drew up the will by which Galloway bequeathed to Miss Barsball a half interest in the Galloway foundry at Davenport, several pieces of real estate, including a farm in Missouri, and residence properties in Davenport, Rock Island and Clear Rapids.

Owing to the fact that the properties named in the will were in different states and other points involved in the transaction, Mr. Ross suggested that Galloway should be called to the city to sign the document, which would then be ready for his signature. This was agreeable to Galloway and the couple left Mr. Ross' office, saying they would return Saturday morning to complete the transaction. Mr. Ross heard nothing more from them until informed that Galloway was supposed to have attempted to commit suicide at the Goodrich hotel.

In the course of his conversation with Mr. Ross, Galloway explained that the reason he wished to leave his property to Miss Barsball was that he had no relatives except his brothers and his children, to whom he did not desire to leave anything if he could avoid it.

Telegram Excites Goodrich.
Galloway received a telegram about noon Friday which excited him considerably. It was from Clinton, Ia., and signed Lloyd Galloway. It read: "Why don't you write me in Council Bluffs tonight." Galloway showed the telegram to W. S. Goodrich, proprietor of the hotel, and requested Goodrich to say that he (Galloway) was out of the city if anyone called for him. Mr. Goodrich refused to comply with this request, and he says, had served him excited. "It doesn't amount to much, but the man wants to make trouble for me and I don't want to see him," said Galloway. It appears that Galloway, after engaging Miss Barsball as his stenographer, had written to Clinton to a young woman named Albright, who, he says, had served him excited. "It doesn't amount to much, but the man wants to make trouble for me and I don't want to see him," said Galloway. The telegram signed "Lloyd Galloway," was, so Galloway declared, from Lewis Albright, a brother of his former stenographer. Up to late last night neither Albright nor his sister had put in an appearance at the Goodrich hotel.

Last evening Galloway was around the hotel as if nothing had happened and Miss Barsball was pursuing the even tenor of her way. At the hotel it was stated that while Galloway had not had any work for over a week for a stenographer to do, he still retained Miss Barsball in his employ and paid, or agreed to pay, her board and room there.

The whole affair seems to be shrouded in mystery. Proprietor Goodrich said last evening: "If Galloway did not take the drug, he certainly put up one of the best stunts I ever saw a man do. The telegram must have upset him, or else the heat put him to the bad. I have known Galloway for some time, as he stopped at my house last year."

Mrs. Caroline Buckman Dead.
Mrs. Caroline Buckman, wife of Frank A. Buckman, 129 South Eighth street, died at an early hour yesterday morning at the Jennie Edmundson Memorial hospital, following an illness of several months. She was 53 years of age. Besides her husband, she is survived by two daughters, Amanda and Cora. Mrs. Buckman was a prominent member of St. Paul's Episcopal church. Arrangements for the funeral will not be made until the arrival of Mr. Buckman, who is expected to reach here today from New York.

LINCOLN WINS THE BATTLE

Umpires in Army Maneuvers Give Him Credit of Victory.

DEFENDS CAPITAL OF STATE

Regular Army Cavalry Captain is Criticized for Not Performing the Task Out for Him.

(From a Staff Correspondent.)
DES MOINES, Aug. 11.—(Special.)—Colonel Lincoln of the Army of the Brown won out. Colonel Bishop and the Army of the Blue failed.
In the army maneuvers north of the city Colonel Lincoln solved the problem of defending Des Moines against the hostile invading army, and at 1:30 yesterday afternoon had succeeded in securing a position from which it was recognized by all the army umpires the Blues could not possibly dislodge him or invade the city.

Early in the forenoon the maneuvers of the sham battle were resumed. Colonel Lincoln put a battalion of infantry and some machine guns in a position to defend his retreat and then started south across the Beaver bridge to a better position. He was making such headway that the Army of the Blue was so slow that Major Boughton, chief umpire, had to take a hand and ordered that the Beaver bridge be imaginarily blown up. This gave the Blues an opportunity. They flanked the infantry guarding Lincoln's retreat and forced it to fall back.

But the maneuvers were short-lived. Lincoln got across the bridge and fortified himself on a bluff to the north of the city. There it was recognized that it was impossible for the Blues to dislodge him and the curtain was rung down on the maneuvers. Bishop and his army did good work, but they failed to solve the problem of invading Des Moines.

In the maneuvers today Corporal Moraville of the Shenandoah company in the Army of the Browns got a real bullet through the rim of his hat. He gave the hat to Captain Castle and Captain Castle gave it to Major Boughton, the United States army chief umpire. Immediately an inspection of all ammunition was ordered on both sides. Major Boughton claimed that in all maneuvers there are a few real bullets fired by mistake and carelessness. No one was hurt by the bullets today.

Captain Jack Wade, in charge of a squadron of the Second cavalry, came in for severe criticism on the part of the Army of the Blues, and they claim that to his lack of discipline they owe their defeat. Colonel Bishop planned a raid of the cavalry and by flanking the army of Lincoln planned to capture Lincoln's base of supplies at Camp Bowen. It was beautifully planned, and just as Wade was to enter Lincoln's army, Bishop made an attack on Lincoln's right, thus forcing him to draw his forces to that point. This left the way clear for Wade and the cavalry to get around and into Camp Bowen. But for some reason Wade made a bungie and came near being captured with his entire squadron. Colonel Boughton reported the matter to Major Boughton, the chief umpire, and the matter was the subject of some vigorous protests and remonstrances.

Pioneer Legislator Dead.
Owen Bromley, a pioneer legislator of Iowa, died at the Home for the Aged in this city last night. He was born in the north of Wales in 1835, and at 8 years of age was working in the mines there. By persistent effort he gained an education and came to America in 1863, to Iowa in 1869 and to Des Moines in 1874. He represented Iowa county in the lower house of the Tenth General assembly in 1880 and in 1882 was sergeant-at-arms of the house. The funeral will be held tomorrow afternoon here at 3 o'clock.

Nuns Come to Iowa.
The Carmelite nuns, driven from Paris by the prosecution of the religious orders there, may locate in Marshalltown in this state. Their property has not been confiscated yet, but it is expected that it will be. They are endeavoring to dispose of their property or save it in some way and will then come to America. Representatives are now in this state investigating.

Appoint Assistant Marshal.
Frank Clark, United States marshal for southern Iowa, today announced the appointment of C. Craft of Davenport to succeed Charles M. Hinshaw of Newton as first deputy. Hinshaw resigned. Craft will arrive in Des Moines Monday to assume his new duties.

Worst Day of the Year.
The temperature stood at 90 today, within a few degrees of the highest of the year, but the humidity was at 74, which is very high. As a result everybody sweated in Des Moines. Late in the afternoon no prostrations had been reported. Cooler weather is promised by the weather bureau.

Mother Finds the Man.
When a deputy sheriff was unable to find George Brown, who is alleged to have sworn falsely to the age of young Mrs. Harry Downey, who was married a few days ago, the mother of the bride went into the fields and hunted him up herself, then returned and told the deputy exactly where to find his man.

Three children in a family in Highland Park slept in an alcove of an upstairs room in the home of the family near an open window. Lightning struck the house, knocked off the kitchen chimney and tore the entire roof of the alcove, ripping off the plaster and studding, leaving the floor of the alcove exposed. In the morning the children woke up unharmed and bewildered by the strange change in the Effect of the Chautauque.—There were an unusual number of old widowers in Ragan the last week owing to the fact that Mrs. J. T. Tillman, Mrs. A. N. Shumard and Mrs. M. W. Clerical Reparto.—A Nebraska minister who goes to church from his home in a carriage on Sunday, received an anonymous letter recently calling his attention to the fact that the Lord never rode of church in a carriage. The minister read the letter from the pulpit and then said: "If the writer will come to me next Sunday, properly saddled and bridled, I will be glad to follow the Lord's example, and come to church as he entered the city of Jerusalem.—Stromburg News.

Mixed Pickles.—We noticed in scanning the columns of the Tribune last week the "members" of that church had raised the fund of $50 or $70 and sent their minister away on a vacation. This is alright and just as it should be, but we want to say right now that if all who gave to that fund are "members" of the Methodist church, or any other meeting house, they are the darndest mixed lot of followers of "the fact" that we have ever seen in Missouri.—Bloomington Advocate.

My grains and vegetables must be perspiring tons today."
"But grains and vegetables don't perspire."
"The farmer's gold front tooth flashed, as he smiled, like a little sun. "They do. Don't they?" he said. "They do. Look at that sunflower there. It is only four feet high, yet on a hot day it perspires 10 pounds of perspiration. Graduate with high honors from a college of agriculture. "It is hot. My grains and vegetables must be perspiring tons today."
