

WHAT THE WOMEN ARE DOING

Young Women's Christian Association Offers New Attractions.

CIRCUS CROWD AT LOCAL ROOMS

Henry Blackwell Accuses Existing Conditions Rather Than Frivolity of Parents of Responsibility for Race Suicide.

Monday, circus day, brought the customary crowded condition at the Young Women's Christian association rooms that attends an unusual crowd down town, and, incidentally, the customary inconvenience to the several hundred women employed in the stores and offices who rely upon the association lunch and rest room for the midday meal and the little rest that means so much to these business women who must spend the day down town. Monday noon the rooms were taxed to accommodate the transients, many of them from out of town and many with children, and when the regular patrons came at their regular noon hour, many were inconvenienced by being forced to wait or go some place else. And this condition, which prevails many times each year, only serves to emphasize Omaha's need of an association building that will be adequate to the needs of the thousands of women in the city, from over the state or those passing just through town. The Young Women's Christian association is a great international institution that every year reaches out to more and more women and as they travel, and from necessity or choice, stop over in a strange city, thousands of them every year make immediate inquiry for the local association, knowing it to be a safe source of information or a place where they may find rest and quiet. The information that the Omaha association has a new building under way has spread to other cities and the question is not uncommon from women spending a few hours at the rooms while passing through town. "When will you get into your new building?"

Summer Attractions. The house committee of the association has instituted a monthly noon entertainment which is proving a most attractive feature. The first of the series was given last month and the next will be given Wednesday of this week, between 12:15 and 1 p. m. The following program will be given: Piano solo, Marion Ward; vocal solo, Martha Gryn; violin, Grace McRide; reading, Mrs. Chellis; violin, Grace McRide; vocal solo, Martha Gryn.

The house committee is endeavoring to brighten the lunch and rest rooms by having fresh flowers on the tables every day. To buy flowers is impossible, but there are many people in Omaha who have garden flowers that they would be willing to give for this purpose and of these the secretaries are asking co-operation. If anyone having flowers that they are willing to give to the association will communicate with the secretaries by telephone, or by note they will be called for and greatly appreciated by the hundreds of women who frequent the rooms daily.

Race Suicide. In Mrs. Commander's remarkable book, entitled, "The American Idea," she shows by incontrovertible facts that the average American family now seldom exceeds two children, whereas in Franklin's day it averaged eight. And inasmuch as, under present conditions, one-half of the children born die before reaching maturity, it is evident that a family of less than four children will result in eventual race extinction, says Henry Blackwell in the Woman's Journal.

This diminution in the birth rate is not accidental, but intentional, and is the result of existing conditions. Unless, therefore, these conditions can be changed very materially, the Anglo-Saxon race will soon cease to exist. How can the catastrophe be averted? Only by so improving the surroundings of women and of men as to make motherhood and fatherhood more attractive.

One necessary step would seem to be to provide social centers wherein women may be prepared for maternity and enabled to give birth to vigorous and healthy offspring without the excessive risk and suffering that are now incurred. This risk and suffering can be almost wholly eliminated by suitable physical exercise, diet and avoidance of anxiety and overwork. Then, too, the present frightful mortality of children can be almost wholly prevented if they are properly protected and nourished. Indian women, we are told, have been known to stop for an hour from the tribal march, bear a child without assistance and overtake their comrades with their infants on their backs.

But let no one blame women or men over much for their unwillingness to become parents under existing conditions. I doubt whether our good President Roosevelt would have had any children, if, in order to do so, he would have to face the sufferings, privations and responsibilities of motherhood under present conditions. In our criticisms of women and men we should always try to put ourselves in their places. The three-family apartment flats, now becoming so well-nigh universal in Boston and elsewhere, with the conditions which call them into being, are adapted only for small families, and are nothing, more or less, than a premium on race suicide.

Fast Horses Perish. MASSILLON, O., Aug. 19.—Sixty-two horses, including two race horses were destroyed in a big livery stable fire here today. The racing horses burned were Eddie K. and Atwood, with records of 2:12. One of the hostlers was burned to death. The loss is $100,000.

Taft Writes Mrs. Tucker. WASHINGTON, Aug. 19.—Before leaving Washington Secretary of War Taft addressed a letter to the wife of Paymaster William F. Tucker, stating that the secretary had found that the evidence upon which she demanded Colonel Tucker's trial was not sufficient to warrant granting her demand.

COLLEGE GIRLS ARE ACTIVE

Local Members of Four Sororities Prominent at University of Nebraska Introduce "Rushing" Parties in Omaha.

The restriction recently placed upon "rushing" at the University of Nebraska has had the effect of transferring much of this attention preliminary to making the choice of fraternity or sorority, from Lincoln to the home towns of the various members of these various organizations and Omaha has had its share this summer. The "rushing" party has been among the most numerous of the quiet affairs lately and has taken the form with the young women of Kensingtons, luncheons, picnics and house parties, the members of one sorority vying with those of the others in their efforts to attract the desirable girls into their organization. This week will see a lively round of entertaining among the local members of two of the most prominent sororities represented at the State university, the Kappa Alpha Theta and Alpha Phi and among the young women entertained from out of town. The schedule for the week has not yet been announced, and in fact is not yet complete, but it is to include a round of gay affairs. Miss Jane Blanchard, Miss Josephine Frasier, Miss Ruth Thompson and Miss Mable Benson are the local members of Alpha Phi and will entertain this week. Among the young women expected from out of town are Miss Cora Falconer, Miss Leah Meyer, Miss Lucy Cotton, Miss Gracia Greene, Miss Cornelia Lindsay, Miss Harriet Hutton, Miss Josephine Hugh, Miss Helen Hugh, all of Lincoln, Neb.; Miss Ouida White, Pender, Neb.; Miss Nora Richardson, Red Cloud, Neb., who will arrive Wednesday and be entertained in the homes of the four hostesses.

Members of Kappa Alpha Theta have made no announcement as yet, but this sorority is strongly represented by a dozen or more popular young women and the week may safely be predicted to be a gay one. Pi Beta Phi and Kappa Kappa Gamma are two of the other prominent sororities represented at Lincoln, and these, too, will have their share. Last week the Pi Beta Phi was especially active.

NOVELTIES IN METAL WORK Tea Table. The metal workers have been busy of late and have produced a lot of novelties more or less useful. One is a silver card case.

It is about the size of a large visiting card. On one side a jeweled button slides up and down, pushing one card at a time through the opening at the end. All you have to do is to put in as many cards as you think you will need for the afternoon rounds and shuffle them one at a time.

Then there are new vanity boxes, card cases for men and women and cigarette cases made of dull gray chased or etched silver with a sort of envelope fastening. The flap buttons down with a jewel.

The theory that one cannot have too many tea table conveniences has stimulated invention. Sunken tongues come in the shape of a lobster claw about four inches long. The smaller part of the claw works on a spring, so that the tip will pick up a lump of sugar very easily.

Instead of the old fashioned tea ball there is a new percolator in the form of a basket set openwork silver hung on a silver chain. The top opens to receive a tablespoonful of tea and then the basket is swung in a cup or pot of hot water until the tea is brewed. A bunch of silver grapes answers the same purpose.

Lemon dishes of cut crystal with removable silver openwork rims are new. With each dish comes a tiny silver fork, having long slender tines to a stem of lemon.

Pierced sandwich plates of silver are necessary now for the hostess who entertains in a small way. These plates are larger than the ordinary dinner plate and the edge is cut out in a very elaborate pattern.

Copper is seen in new effects. One novelty is a tall heavy jug, which, besides possessing a graceful shape and exquisite color, has a very heavy base, so that it will hold long stemmed flowers and not topple over.

It was made from a cartridge shell about eighteen inches long. The tip of the shell was cut off and one side rounded out into a wide mouth. A heavy brass handle was riveted at the side.

Cartridge shells are also turned into coffee sets of three pieces. An individual coffee set has the three pieces arranged one on top of the other. The long narrow pot just large enough to hold one cup of coffee is provided with a cover in the shape of a little round squat ceramic pitcher. This in turn has a cover like a skillet which is designed to hold two or three lumps of sugar. A more compact article for the breakfast tray could scarcely be imagined. It can be had in silver or copper.

Old bottles are being converted into attractive decanters and flasks. The metal worker takes an antique green and yellow bottle of odd shape and decorates them with silver deposit work or some other adornment, after which they are beautiful enough to ornament a Sheraton sideboard. In some cases a monogram is deposited on the glass in a large silver ribbon design or else a crest or coat of arms can be put on one side of the decanter.

It is difficult to get these odd bottles and they in themselves bring good prices. When the silver work is added, a very difficult thing to manage with old glass, the price soars.

BEAN AND SAUER KRAUT DAYS Geneva and Ackley, Ia., Will Soon Celebrate in Their Usual Distinctive Manner.

WEBSTER CITY, Ia., Aug. 19.—(Special.)—Probably not in all America are there two so distinctively unique annual celebrations than the "Bean and Sauer Kraut Day" of Ackley in Hardin county, Iowa.

The annual recurrence of these days is watched with interest by thousands of people in Iowa, and it is doubtful if there are two smaller towns in all the state which can attract more hundreds of outside people within their corporate limits to a celebration of any kind than can Geneva and Ackley.

"Bean Day" and "Sauer Kraut Day" are by no means idle misnomers selected as fitting names to draw crowds, either. Each is distinctly representative of the community and the annual celebration in each town is a public recognition of that product of the soil, the raising of which employs the greater share of the inhabitants.

A stranger coming into either of these towns on "Bean Day" or "Sauer Kraut Day" would wonder if he had come into a communicative colony, whose most characteristic trait was a supreme liking either for beans or sauer kraut. Not a single inhabitant of Geneva claims Boston as his childhood home or traces any of his ancestry to that town upon the sea front of the bay.

Up and down the length of every street within the heart of these towns the visitor sees a line of tables running the full length of the street. These tables are neatly set. If he were in Geneva he would see little else down the long stretch of tables than great steaming bowls of baked and boiled beans. Were he in Ackley he would see little in the line of edibles would greet his eye than huge dishes of sauer kraut along down the line of tables. And if this stranger had no German blood in his veins, the odor arising from all over the village would be so strong as that more than likely he would seek refuge upon the first train out of town.

Some unusually sensitive people have been known to become so affected that they could not await the arrival of the train, but were forced to seek relief by hiring a liverman to convey them to the next town.

In each of these towns the manner of celebration is similar. All the inhabitants of the towns, the people for miles around and every stranger present is invited to sit at the common tables, where he makes a meal of either beans or sauer kraut. Bushels and bushels and bushels of beans are thus consumed in Geneva on "Bean Day" and barrels and barrels and barrels of homes made sauer kraut are consumed in Ackley on "Sauerkraut Day." Following this piece de resistance there is an address by some state notable, usually upon some topic of interest to the farming folk. The character of this may be judged from the statement that Geneva people this year engaged Prof. G. L. McKay, professor of dairying at the state agricultural school at Ames, to speak on "Sauer Kraut Day," folsom September 2. The communities about both Geneva and Ackley are essentially farming neighborhoods and their celebrations are largely a niche interest of the tillers of the soil.

Whitlaw Reid Unveils Tablet. SALISBURY, England, Aug. 19.—In the ancient and beautiful Salisbury cathedral today Ambassador Whitlaw Reid unveiled a handsome marble tablet in memory of those killed in the terrible accident a year ago when by the derailing of the American express the twenty-eight persons, mostly Americans, lost their lives. The ceremony, the impressiveness of which was emphasized by the presence of the widows and children of the trainmen killed in the disaster, was attended by many dignitaries of the church, the mayor and members of the corporation in their robes of office and the American consuls at Southampton and Portsmouth.

A Most Valuable Agent. The glycerine employed in Dr. Pierce's medicines greatly enhances the medicinal properties which it extracts from the medicinal roots and holds in solution much better than alcohol would. It also possesses medicinal properties of its own, being a valuable demulcent, nutritive, antiseptic and antiferment. It adds greatly to the efficacy of the Black Cherry, the bloodroot, Golden Seal root, Stone root and Queen's root, contained in "Golden Medical Discovery" in subduing chronic, or lingering coughs, bronchial, throat and lung affections, for all of which these agents are recommended by standard medical authorities.

In all cases where there is a wasting away of flesh, loss of appetite, with weak stomach, as in the early stages of consumption, there can be no doubt that glycerine acts as a valuable nutritive and aids the Golden Seal root, Stone root, Queen's root and Black Cherrybark in promoting digestion and building up the body strength, controlling the bowels and bringing about a healthy condition of the whole system. Of course, it must be used as directed to work miracles. It will not cure consumption except in its earlier stages. It will cure very severe obstinate, hacking, chronic coughs, bronchitis, and other ailments, and chronic sore throat with hoarseness. In acute coughs it is not so effective. It is in the lingering hang-over cough, or those of long standing, even when accompanied by bleeding from the lungs, that it has performed its most marvelous cures.

Prof. F. W. Ellingwood, M. D., of Bennett Sted, College, Chicago, says of glycerine: "In dyspepsia it serves an excellent purpose. It dissolves a large quantity of pepsin, and hydrogen in solution it is one of the best manufactured products of the present time in its action upon indigestion, disordered stomach, especially if there is ulceration or certain gastric troubles (indigestion, flatulence and stomachic). It is a most efficient preparation. Glycerine will relieve many cases of pyrosis (heartburn) and excessive gastric acidity (acid stomach)."

"Golden Medical Discovery" analgesic and purifies the blood, cutting blotches, pimples, eruptions, scrofulous swellings and old sores, or chancres.

Once upon a time

Man lived upon the prey that fell in the chase. His vigorous active life enabled him to keep alive upon a diet which

The Modern Business Man of sedentary habits cannot possibly thrive upon, and now Modern Conditions Demand a Modern Diet

Success in all undertakings depends upon, and cannot be secured without, a healthy body and a keen brain, and they cannot be kept healthy and vigorous by drugs, or in any other way than nature's way, that is, by food.

There is only one

"Road to Wellville"

and along this road only good, pure, properly cooked food is served. The makers of Grape-Nuts claim, with the best of reasons, that this scientific food is superior to any other for rebuilding the brain and nerve tissues and muscles worn down by modern strenuous life.

"There's a Reason" for this claim. The manufacturers of Grape-Nuts keep in this food the valuable phosphate of potash which unites with albumen and water in the human digestive organs, and directly feeds the delicate brain and nerve centres.

White bread lacks this important element, for the phosphate of potash is in the brown cells of the wheat berry, and the white flour miller must throw it out, because it will not make white bread. Then, too, all the starch in Grape-Nuts is changed in its manufacture to a form of sugar, which is very easy of digestion.

This delicious food needs no cooking. It is ready nearly for instant use, and makes a crisp, toothsome dish of decidedly unique flavour. It possesses high value as a strength-making food, welcome alike to athlete, brain-worker, and invalid.
