

BUSY AUTUMN FOR SOCIETY

College Set Soon to Return to School Again.

MANY MARRIAGES IN SEPTEMBER

Most of Large Autumn Weddings Will Come Early, October to Be Occupied with Horse Show and Carnival.

The Little Sister of the Rich. So busy she from day to day. Gay Madam Blank. To her look to take a hand at midnight bridge.

On moments' notice she'll appear. And all a vacant auto seat. Will frappe serve at garden seat. Or chaperone the buds so sweet.

Philosopher—though direly bored. At venerable jokes she'll laugh. A heroine at bridge club. She lukewarm lemonade will quaff.

Will smartly groomed and smartly gowned. On income nothing such a year— Her mission here to tell her woes. But everybody's woes to hear.

The last seven days have proven one of the most delightful weeks of the summer, that is considering weather and good times. It has been just cool enough to be invigorating and there has been enough variety in amusement to be exciting.

The summer days have had a hint of autumn in them recently, reminding one that the vacation days of the college set are on the wane. It is always with regret that society sees these young people depart as their enthusiasm is the life of the summer ray, and no social affair is considered quite complete without them.

The autumn brides will soon be attracting attention as the numbers are legion. Some of these nuptials will be very simply celebrated and others will elaborate details that are already being planned and modest as are being rush orders for the completion of September, and October trousseaux. So with attending weddings, fashions for the college sets, AK-Bar-Ben festivities and the horse show, closely followed by debutante parties, the coming season has most alluring prospects for the smart set.

FOR LIGHT HOUSEKEEPING. Helpful Hints on What and What Not to Cook and What Use.

Of course there are persons prejudiced against all tinned and preserved foods, and undoubtedly the fresh ones are the best, but kitchenette life becomes too troublesome if one tries to make fresh biscuits and waffles and to boil hams and cabbages. A small stock of vegetables and meats in glass and china jars will be found very convenient, and so will anchovy paste and capers, pickles and tomato essence, as well as a variety of small tins of soup.

For kitchenette meals it is unwise to attempt anything like formal service, but daintiness is absolutely necessary, just as the most scrupulous cleanliness is demanded. The table can be small, but the linen must be white and the china and glass sparkling, and the decorations for the public welfare, and to put their shoulders to anybody's domestic wheel in these trying times.

Spoons, forks and knives must be silver, but otherwise it is best to banish all silverware, and copper as well. These things require daily care and polishing, and if they do not get this care they suggest neglect and it is better to do without them in living on a small scale.

The blue and white Japanese china that is to be bought for a small sum is the prettiest for the purpose, and there must not be too much of it—just enough for convenience. There are even salt and pepper bottles in this ware now to be had, doing away with the old troublesome cut glass bottles with silver caps.

Some kitchenettes carry their ideas of picnicking so far that they have wooden plates and paper napkins, but this will not suit anyone who is at all fastidious and makes more waste to be disposed of.

Glasses and china can be washed and linen napkins and tablecloths are done nowadays at the laundries at a very low rate. Of course good fine linen should be chosen for the wear and tear of a laundry, and lace doilies and embroideries should be done away with altogether.

It is well to vary the kitchenette fare with occasional restaurant meals, as otherwise the plan proves a bother. But if care is used in buying and selecting the simpler things that are not the best manner and can be cooked without too much odor this way of living is delightful. Once a week the janitress may clean out the little room and icebox and use a spray of odorless chloride in every nook and corner, shine up the glass doors of the cupboard and wash the wooden plates, polish the faucets. Everything in the kitchen should be kept as clean and in midsummer as in winter. Otherwise the kitchenette plan will not be ideal.

For Painful Earache. Take a thick slice of bread, four inches square, cut off the crust and spread with fresh lard. Soak this thoroughly from underneath in hot water; pour over the lard a teaspoonful of laudanum, and cover with an tin, soft muslin. Apply this to the ear as a poultice, and fasten, if about the head to hold it in place. This gives almost instant relief.

The busiest man in town always uses The Bee's want columns when he wants anything in a hurry, and his wants are promptly filled. That's the thing for you to do when you have a want. It's the only way to speak to the thousands of people at trifling cost. You can't afford a slow way in this bustling age.

Women Active at Hastings. Mrs. Anna R. Morey of Hastings, a member of the art committee of the Nebraska Federation of Women's clubs, passed through Omaha recently enroute east and reports active preparation in progress at Hastings for the entertainment of the annual state federation convention next October. Women Active at Lincoln. The Lincoln Woman's club will resume its fall work in October, the first meeting to be held the fifteenth. It is hoped that Mrs. Decker, president of the general federation, may be a guest on that occasion, en route to the West Virginia state convention, which convenes October 20. In case her stop cannot be arranged for her the Saturday before, Mrs. Sherwood, chairman of the art committee of the General Federation of Women's clubs, has returned to Chicago after spending the summer in New York with a daughter, who has been seriously ill, and is making preparation for pushing the art work this winter.

Massachusetts club women and suffragists alike celebrated the anniversary of the birth of Lucy Stone, August 13, by making pilgrimages to her birthplace at West Brookfield. The party going from Boston included many women and men of prominence. The morning was spent visiting places of interest in the vicinity and in the afternoon there was a largely attended meeting at which many prominent speakers reviewed the life of this pioneer worker for the education and advancement of women in many towns and cities over

NEW REASON FOR RACE SUICIDE

Illinois Woman Considers Domestic Service Problem Serious and Justifiable Obstacle to Rearing Large Families.

An Illinois woman, writing in Collier's on race suicide and conditions that lead to it, presents one argument that has not been generally emphasized, but that is nevertheless one of the most serious obstacles to the rearing of large families among the middle classes. She says:

Many women are more interested in bridge than in babies. Is utter selfishness, more frivolity, the real cause? The fact is that the growing unwillingness of women to accept positions to work in homes, even at the exorbitant salaries which they can now command, is working a silent revolution, one result of which is race suicide.

People cannot have large families unless they have stable homes and it does not take much of a job to upset the equilibrium of the modern household. The very best of each successive child is as a volcanic eruption to the domestic arrangements, and after the birth of the third child it is practically impossible to get help at all, short of establishing a regular servant's hall, or a Zola's 'Becquedette' that lovely idiot of a family of twenty-two children, he introduced a magic factor that made his story possible: the faithful servant, who, very possibly, the twenty-two came, stayed! Her like is not to be had in this country for love or money.

The problem does not so disastrously affect the rich, who can keep up practically separate households, with a large household of servants, and thus furnish them the social life which they demand nowadays. Nor does it touch the very poor, who are too busy to think of anything but getting by. It does most grievously affect the so-called middle classes, that is, men with incomes of $1500 a year, well educated, including practically all the young, well-cared men who do not have independent fortunes.
