TAFT REFERS TO BRYAN

Secretary of War Shows Difference Between President and Aspirant.

TRUSTS SHOULD BE REGULATED

Secretary at Denver Says Bryan is Afraid to Trust Courts, While Roosevelt Has Confidence in Them.

DENVER, Aug. 30.—The most important event of a busy day in Denver for Secretary of War William H. Taft was a speech which he delivered last afternoon on the steps of the state capitol. He closed his stay in this city with a reception given by Yale men at the University club and a dinner at the Brown Palace hotel, at which a hundred prominent republicans of the state sat down.

At 8 o'clock tonight Mr. Taft left for Yellowstone park. Yesterday the Secretary's voice went back on him and he called in a specialist today to treat his throat so he could be heard in the open air. The specialist reported there was nothing serious about the matter with Mr. Taft's throat.

After leaving for Fort Logan today, Secretary Taft announced that Fort Logan and Fort Douglas, near Salt Lake, would be made regimental forts. He remarked that the reservation at Fort Logan is not large enough to accommodate a brigade.

A crowd of several thousand people waited in a drizzling rain for some time this afternoon on the capitol grounds for Mr. Taft to speak and greeted his talk with frequent bursts of applause. His address in the main was a repetition of his Columbus speech. He deviated somewhat to reply to the published statements of William J. Bryan on trusts.

He said Bryan wanted to extirpate the trusts.

"If he means by this that he wants the trusts dissolved into their constituent parts," Mr. Taft said, "we do not agree with him. We want the good ones continued and the bad ones abolished and all properly regulated."

The secretary said that the difference between Bryan and Roosevelt was that Roosevelt had faith in the people; he had faith that good men could be secured to enforce the laws, whereas Bryan did not trust the courts and offered the initiative and referendum as a cure-all.

DUTCH CONSUL FOUND DEAD

Body Taken Out of River at St. Louis and Later Identified by Son.

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 30.—The dead body of an aged man, taken from the river yesterday, was identified at the morgue today by Albert R. Haagsma, as that of his father, Broer B. Haagsma, consul of St. Louis for the Netherlands. The son declared that he did not believe his father had committed suicide, but expressed the belief that death was accidental. He explained that his father had been a victim of mental aberration.

Consul Haagsma was 75 years of age. He disappeared mysteriously last Monday. He came to St. Louis in 1882 and became a leader in Holland-American circles in this city. Finally he was appointed a local consul representing his country and his commission bears the signature of President Lincoln in ratification of his appointment. He personally administered the duties of his office until a year ago, when, because of his advanced years, he was superseded in the active work of Vice Consul Tenbroeck.
