Claims to have had an agreement with the grandfather by which he was to have the use of the farm during his lifetime. There was an error in reading proof on Thompson, Belden & Co.'s ad Sunday in which it said breadcloths $2, when the price should have read $2.60 per yard. Camp Forby in Society—Camp Lee Forby No. 1, United Spanish War Veterans, will hold a social and card party Monday night, October 14, at Pontanello hall. Federal Jury Says Off—No cases being ready for trial fore the United States circuit or district courts Tuesday, the petit jury was excused until 9:30 Wednesday morning. "Take care of the penes, and the pounds will take care of themselves," or better still, save your pennies until you have a dollar's worth and then open a savings account with the City Savings Bank. Application in Bankruptcy—James A. Beverly, a life insurance agent of Omaha, has filed his voluntary petition in bankruptcy in the United States district court. He schedules his liabilities at $2,500 and his assets at $100. Burglars Make Good Mail—Burglars entered the room of Morris Browner, 1411 Chicago street, sometime during the early hours of Tuesday morning and took two gold watches and a diamond pin. The property was estimated to be worth $290. Two Men Are Discharged—George Nachtneber and George Kyoel, arrested a week ago for an assault on Herman Goose, were discharged in police court Tuesday, as Goose had recovered from the blow he received in a fight with the two men. Home-sitters (and we have them all the way from Omaha to Tahira, Persia), do business as easily with The Conservative Savings and Loan association, 364 Harvey street, as residents. Any amount received any day. Paving 6 per cent. Resources, $2,500.00. Where the Unterrified Hold Fort—A big sheet of new canvas at the southeast corner of Seventeenth and Farnam streets announces to the world that the democratic county committee has established campaign headquarters on the second floor of the Patterson building. Commissioners Inspect County—Commissioners Solomon and Ure and County Engineer Beal started Tuesday morning on a two days' tour of the western part of the county in an automobile. They will visit Waterloo and Valley and will inspect the roads and bridges in that part of the county. Says Abuse Words Hurts Health—Asserting her husband's abusive language to ward her has injured her health, Mrs. Reynolds has begun suit for divorce from Alton G. Reynolds in district court. She also charges he is addicted to the use of intoxicating liquors. She asks the custody of their child. Barn Burns, but Occupants Flee—A barn in the alley between Seventeenth and Eighteenth on Webster street took fire at 8:15 Tuesday morning and was about half destroyed before the department ar-lived. No stock was in the barn. A family of colored people had lived in the upper story of it until recently. Several small outbuildings were scorched by fire and the horses in an adjoining barn were taken out as the fire threatened to spread. Fine Arts Society—The first regular meeting of the Fine Arts society will take place Thursday morning at 10 o'clock at the Public Library building. The subject will be "Early Flemish Masters," under the direction of Mrs. W. G. Cre, and will conclude with Charles Martin's moving pictures on "Holland." Five Thousand Dollar Suit—Israel Broeky has filed suit in district court for $5,000 from the street railway company. He says in his petition he was leaving a car at Twenty-sixth and Farnam streets, when it started and he was thrown to the pavement. He says he sustained bad bruises and permanent injury to his nervous system. Quer Point of Law—Because he objects to paying rent for a farm let to his children by their grandfather, Samuel Williams is being sued in Judge Day's court for $2,500 by William Glandt, trustee for the children. When Peter Glandt died some time ago he left the farm to the Williams children, who were his grandchildren. Williams became the tenant and he.

Operation and Then Seized by Man—Jennie Drumh was petitioned the district court for a divorce from John C. Drumh, asserting he beat her October 6, the day she returned from a hospital after having an operation performed. She also charges he has threatened to repeat the assault and has secured a restraining order from Judge Day to prevent his going to her home or interfering with her in any way. Pension Case Mooted—The indictment against Mrs. Minna Wright, Omaha, wherein she is charged with having undertaken to secure a pension as the widow of Frederick Wirth, who died in 1904, on the ground that her net income was less than $250 per year and the case against her dismissed. The pension laws relating to widows' pensions do not permit the granting of a pension to a soldier's widow who has an income exceeding $250 per annum. To Be Tried for Extortion—The next case to be tried in the United States district court will be on the indictment returned against Julia St. Cyr, wherein she is charged with extorting a fee of $100 from an Indian woman for assisting her in securing a pension as the widow of an Indian soldier. The pension laws permit an attorney in a pension case to receive but $10 as a fee for prosecuting a claim before the Pension department. The trial will begin Wednesday morning. Suit Against Burlington for $70,000—Raymond Green, by his next best friend, Doris Green, has brought suit in the United States circuit court against the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy Railroad company for $70,000 damages for personal injuries received while in the employ of the Burlington at Ashland, Neb., August 1, 1907. Green had both legs so badly crushed that amputation was necessary and a second amputation is now being made necessary by blood poisoning. Green's attorneys are Messrs. Jetter & Howell of Omaha.

NEBRASKA FROM DAY TO DAY Quiet and Curious Features of Life in a Rapidly Growing State. The lid is to be placed on in Fremont. Five butcher shops have agreed to close on Sunday.—Beatrice Sun. Indisposed.—My editor is sick-abad this week. Old Nick must have it in for the Leader. First the editor broke a slit in a runaway, then the devil smashed his thumb, now the editor is down and out. Gee, just wait and see what the devil gets next.—Carleton Leader. Boys Got Home—At 12 p. m. last Friday, "the witching hour of night when church yards yawn," the slumbering denizens of the best town on earth were awakened by the familiar strains of "A Hot Time in the Old Town," rendered as only the Eighth cavalry band can play it as a gentle reminder that the "Live bunch Crawford" had returned from their trip to the Rushville fair.—Crawford Tribune. Cheering, Indeed!—One never knows where lightning is going to strike next, neither does he know how out of place those freak portrait cards are going to read where they reach their destination. A few weeks ago a man not a thousand miles from Blair was lying on his deathbed when he received the following cheerful message on a card: "Cheer up, old man, the worst is yet to come." But this was not the end of the grim joke, for the day he died his wife received the following on another card: "Many happy returns of this day."—Blair Democrat. Constancy—Married. At the residence of the bride's parents on Wednesday evening September 24, 1888, by the Rev. W. B. Kimball, Mr. E. O. Wilberger, of Cheyenne county, Neb., to Miss Amy Stark of this county. Ed and Amy have been courting ever since the recollection of the oldest inhabitant, and now that they have joined the throng of wedded souls, we wish them unalloyed bliss to the end of their days. They left Tuesday for their Cheyenne county home.—Madison Chronicle, 18 years ago. Farmers Object to Buaz Buggies—No use denying the fact that there is intense prejudice on part of many farmers against the automobile. Yesterday a prominent farmer, residing near the city, declared that six farmers on his mail route had decided each to have no business relations with any man who should be seen driving on the country roads in an automobile. It looks like an unreasonable prejudice, but then we must remember that many farmers have suffered annoyance and injury by having horses frightened by careless auto drivers. However, it would seem that the auto has come to stay, and the prejudice of the horse-owner must finally give way to the march of progress.—Humphrey Democrat. Be Decent—Say friend, why don't you give us that item of news, we would appreciate it greatly. Your friends would also appreciate it and that should make you happy. We are not spiritualists nor mind readers, then how do you expect us to get what you want into our paper unless you tell us. If we are too inquisitive you call us brazen; if we creep up a little close you say we are "butters in;" if we get a little hint and guess at the rest and don't hit it just right, you say we ought to know before we print it. So send or give us the news items, we'll use you right if we get a chance. If you're going to get married, be sure and let us know; if a new baby comes to live with you, tell us about that, too. Be neighborly and let us talk about each other.—Bancroft Blade. Henry E. Jones of Tampa, Fla., writes: "I can thank God for my present health, due to Foley's Kidney Cure. I tried doctors and all kinds of kidney cures, but nothing came out of it until I took Foley's Kidney Cure. Four bottles cured me, and I have no more pain in my back and shoulders. I am 42 years old, and suffered long, but thanks to Foley's Kidney Cure I am well and can walk and enjoy myself. It is a pleasure to recommend it to those needing kidney medicine." TRAGEDY OF ILLICIT LOVE

Little Girl Elopes with Married Man, Pretending Suicide. DRIVES PARENTS TO DISTRACTION. Leaves Note Saying She Contemplates Self-Destruction and Then Makes Home with Husband and Father.

After mourning his little daughter as dead; searching the banks of the Missouri river for ten days to recover the body, thinking the girl had carried out her threat made in a note to take her own life by jumping into the river, the father, Clara Ball, B. D., took the child in his arms in the maroon's department of the police station Tuesday, recognizing her as the girl who left South Dakota with W. L. Williams, now under arrest. Not until Clara Ball's father arrived in Omaha Tuesday did the full story of the little girl's elopement with the married railroad brakeman become known. Then it revealed a plot to leave Yankton and deceive the parents of the girl, which would have done credit to an older head than that of Clara Ball, 14 years of age, and to better thinkers than the officers credit W. L. Williams with being. It involved a tangle of lies, a note telling of intended suicide, a love letter written in school boy style, wrong addresses and a straightforward story which would convince the most skeptical that the girl with whom Williams was living as his wife, was in reality his daughter. Clara Ball was a Yankton school girl and fell in love with Williams to such an extent that she was willing to give her parents the pain of mourning her as dead, to get away with the brakeman. How She Worked It. Leaving home for school with her little sister September 18, she feigned illness and said she intended returning home. A few minutes later she was hurrying away toward Omaha with the brakeman, leaving a note in her books which said: "Dear Papa and Mamma: I am leaving school to go to the river. I intend to drown myself and hope my body is never found. Mamma, I can't stand it longer. Good-bye.—Clara." Mystified over the disappearance of his daughter, Mr. Ball had her books brought home and the note was discovered. A letter from Williams to the girl, in the most loving school boy style, caused the parents to think that Williams was some boy whose maiden passion for a maid inspired him to write it. Then began the search for the body of the little girl. For days the distracted father walked the banks of the Missouri river and rowed boats to sandbars and secluded spots, thinking he would find the body of his daughter. All this time the girl was in Omaha living with the brakeman. Not until Williams was compelled to go to work did a part of the story become known. He left Clara Ball at a private boarding house as his daughter, but gradually she told things which caused the police matron to call for her one day. At the station Williams swore the girl was his daughter and the girl stood by him. Then she broke down and told her parents were, Williams is held on a charge which will bring him to the penitentiary if he is convicted. Since Williams' arrest in Omaha Mr. Ball has received a letter from Sidney, saying that Williams is a married man and deserted a wife and little child more than three years ago.

Red Cross Aids Cough Drops warm the lungs on cold mornings, 5c per box. TOM ALLEN IS SURPRISED Wonders Why it is Every Man in Omaha is Not a Politician. "I can't find any politics in Omaha," said T. S. Allen, democratic state chairman, Monday night. "What's the matter with you, anyway? Down at Lincoln every man is a politician. There's one to every square yard." Mr. Allen was in Omaha for a few hours on private business. That finished, he said, he went out in search of political pointers with the above result. Questioned about the campaign in Nebraska, Mr. Allen said the democrats would give the republicans a lively chase. They have headquarters already open at the Lincoln hotel in Lincoln and in a few days the populists expect to open their rooms there also. "The people of the state want a non-partisan bench," declared Mr. Allen, "and everywhere a demand for representation of the minority party. The court and the commissioners are all republican. The people are anxious to give the minority a place. "The railroad question will play very little part in the campaign," Sprecher's charges made against Judge Coombs have fallen flat for there's nothing in them. I can't imagine what allis Sprecher. One thing is certain, he has not injured Loomis. "We shall conduct a short, brisk campaign, short because of the necessity of so doing. I see no value in a poll except during a presidential year. Then, perhaps, it is possible to ascertain how a voter will go on the head of the ticket. For a state, the results are of little value except in isolated cases. Here and there it is possible to find out how a precinct is going. "Mr. Bryan is out of the state at present and will stay away for two or three weeks, possibly for the whole time in question. I can't say whether he will assist the democrats with speeches. He may be back during the last week. We do not contemplate a speaking campaign. There will be nothing in the way of an organized effort to cover Nebraska." Foley's Kidney Cure will cure any case of kidney trouble that is not beyond medical aid. For sale by all druggists.

STRIKEBREAKERS AT WORK Two Thousand Nonunion Men Are Loading Cotton on New Orleans Docks. NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 8.—About 2,000 strikebreakers were employed today by the Illinois Central at the Stuyvesant docks loading cotton. The levee strikers, who now number about 10,000, remained away from the loading district. Governor Blanchard announced that the state troops would be called out at the first sign of violence. St. Philomena's and Father Egan. OMAHA, Oct. 8.—To the Editor of The Bee: Outside my window I hear the bands that speak the passing of St. Philomena's cathedral. The newspapers in giving the history of the pastorate of this church, begin with Father Curtis, 1887. What of Father Egan, who preceded him? I knew Father Egan and the first bishop, O'Connell, and liked both. I was a Protestant. I understood that the two were not harmonious, but why I never knew. At the bishop's I once met Father de Smet. Father Egan went away about St. Valentine's day, 1888, and I have never heard a word of him since. Who can tell us about him? Should old acquaintance be forgotten? Jim Crieghton and Thomas Mulcahy and Thomas O'Connor are gone, gone, but who can tell us of Father Egan? As you know, Baker was hung February 14, 1886. That was his Valentine. Father Egan stood on the gallows with him and then went away. I stood on the walk in front of the old jail (now the site of the Paxton block), when Sheriff Hoel (still living) brought Baker out of the jail to receive the sentence of death. Baker was tremble. The sheriff had a drink of whisky brought from a nearby saloon for him, I saw him drink it. He could hardly hold the glass. Then he went up to the court room, where Judge Lake sentenced him to death. Baker, in the midst of it, sat down. Judge Lake told him to stand up. The sentence was then finished. Baker was converted by Father Egan, his spiritual adviser. He wanted to die then. The sheriff said that had he left the jail door open the night before Larry was hanged he believed he would not have gone away. Judge Lake ordered the body turned over to the surgeons. Father Egan, on learning of it, rushed to the court room and had the order revoked. Judge Lake did this because Baker had withdrawn his appeal. That was because Father Egan had converted him and he wanted to die. A whole lot of us went out to see him hanged. I am told this was done at what is now Twenty-fourth and Douglas. It seems to me it rushed to the court room at the present site of St. John's church. Prior to this the old Herald (Miller & Carpenter) asked me to go to George W. Doane's office, which was a one-story affair opposite the present Paxton hotel, and get a report of his argument that convicted Baker. I went, I saw, I waited. I got so tired waiting while Doane scribbled away on one sheet of his pen that I wished that all the Doanes in America were in the place "het" seven times hot. About this time I held down the tripod of the Herald during Dr. Miller's absence for a few days. I never intended to mention this while Dr. Miller remains on earth, but he hangs on 801 Judge Baker's chair. He had not got on earth the second time. Returning to Father Egan. At parting he gave me "Father Prout's Religion," in which long afterward I found one of the songs of that limbo titled "The Night Before Larry Was Stratched." It seems a lot of Larry's comrades engaged to breathe the spirit of his last hours. They broke it all right, all right! That waked him in advance. Larry had the felicity of participating in his own wake. Could friendship testify its sympathy in a more delicate manner? Surely the history of St. Philomena ought not to be written without mention of Father Egan. It is a pleasure to me to Father and Mr. McCarthy, now of Jackson, Neb., one of the widely loved pastors of the church! PROTESTANT.

INSPECTING THEATER EXITS Chief Salter Ordered to Investigate and Report to the Commission. At the meeting of the Board of Fire and Police commissioners Monday night Chief Salter of the fire department was instructed to investigate and report on the number of exits from the various theaters and the number and condition of the fire escapes provided for each. This was done that further precaution may be taken if found advisable against fire, so far as the board may have jurisdiction. A petition was received signed by twenty realtors and business men on Douglas street between Thirtieth and Fourteenth, protesting against the noise made by the phonographs in the front of the various 5-cent theaters in that district, and asking for their removal. The matter was turned over to the chief of police for investigation. Policemen John Burns and Dick Flynn were granted their annual leave of absence. Assistant Chief Martin Dineen of the fire department was given ten days leave of absence. The following firemen were exonerated from the charge of reporting late for duty: John Coyne, William Phelps and Patrick Dore. Charges of reporting late for duty were filed against firemen Clyde Smith, G. P. Quinn and Lewis Selby, and their cases will be heard next Monday night. Patrolman Oscar Burgeiman was charged with sleeping while on duty and will be given a hearing next Monday night. The board directed the chief of police that hereafter when United States soldiers were arrested for offenses less than a felony they should be turned over to the commander of the post at Fort Crook instead of being tried before the police magistrate. OMAHA LINE TO BLACK HILLS

Missouri River & Northwestern Good Feeder, Says G. P. Cory. WILL HELP GATE CITY JOBBERS Over Three Hundred Loaded Cars of the Road Are Now in Transit on the Short Line.

G. P. Cory, traffic manager of the Missouri River & Northwestern Railway company, commonly known as the Crouch line, of Rapid City, S. D., is in Omaha. "Our line is essentially an Omaha line," said Mr. Cory, "and all the jobbers are beginning to realize its benefits to Omaha. We are doing a nice business for a small line and have at present 35 loaded cars in transit." Mr. Cory is just returning from Chicago, where he has been in attendance at a rate meeting of the western roads in reference to coal and lumber rates in his territory. "Our line now runs from Rapid City to Mystic, but we are contemplating building to Buffalo, where we have an option on 100,000 feet of splendid lumber, which we hope to begin shortly to put on the market." Mr. Cory has prepared a folder of his line, illustrated with colors and gives much valuable information concerning the Black Hills country. Uniform Classification. It seems now assured that the Nebraska State Railway commission will adopt schedule No. 41 of the eastern classification bureau as the classification to govern in Nebraska. The commission adopted No. 41, but has held back on No. 43 and there was some fear the commission was figuring on fixing a separate classification for Nebraska, which the jobbers all declare would have been a bad thing. The sentiment is growing more and more toward a uniform classification. The railroads are now considering and have some high salaried men working out the scheme to have a uniform classification over the entire country. This would simplify railroad rates considerably and jobbers say would be a good thing all around. Hard to Agree on Schedules. It is learned that western lines are having a strenuous time in agreeing on uniform rates and schedules for the home-owners' excursions which it has long been the custom of the railroads to run into the western communities which are in need of settlers. A meeting was recently held in Chicago at which all the railroads between Chicago and the Rocky mountains and as far south as the Gulf of Mexico were represented, but no definite action was taken. An adjournment was had until next week when the railroads hope to get together on rates and time for running the excursions. No Greaser Dope Here. Railroad men in Omaha profess to have had no advance information of the change of General Manager Gruber from the Burlington lines east of the Missouri river to the Great Northern railroad, nor to have an inkling as to who his successor is likely to be. The first information they claim to have had on the subject was the dispatch in The Bee. Mr. Gruber was formerly with the Great Northern as assistant superintendent and just before going to the Burlington was general superintendent of the Union Pacific. Railway Notes and Personal. The Milwaukee line has inaugurated regular service on the Pacific coast extension between Moberly in Walworth county and Lemmon, the new county seat of Butte county, South Dakota, a distance of ninety-nine miles. Direct connections are made with trains from Aberdeen. Train service to stations farther west will be ready to announce in the near future. The local ticket office of the Northwestern road sold over forty tickets to people going to the Bruel opening. The busiest man in town always wears The Bee's want columns when he wants anything in a hurry, and his wants are promptly filled. That's the thing for you to do when you have a want. It's the only way to speak to thousands of people at a trifling cost. You can't afford a slow way in this hustling age.
