Cruelty and Non-support—The suit of Mrs. Alfred Donoghue, Jr., for a divorce was begun Thursday morning before Judge Kennedy. The suit was originally filed by Mr. Donoghue, but later he dismissed his petition and the trial is being had on his wife's cross petition. She charges cruelty and non-support.

Heat Wanted at the Den—Boiler Inspector Wolfe had a hurry call Wednesday night to which he responded with alacrity. It was work night at the den and all was ready for work, but the heating apparatus. Two men and the inspector "got busy" in time to see that the reception to members was warm, in fact, as well as in spirit.

Character Sketches—Goodwill Dickerman will give an evening of character sketches at the North Side Christian church this evening at 8 o'clock. The entertainment is under the direction of class No. 7 of the Bible school and the proceeds are for the benefit of the building fund.

Three Small Cottages—Plans are being drawn by H. D. Frankfort, architect, for three two-story frame residences to be erected for John W. Robbins on his lot near Forty-fourth and Douglas streets. The houses will represent an investment of about $2,500 each and construction will be begun next month.

Poor Old San Francisco—C. R. Ferrall, who is back from a business trip to San Francisco, says despite the wonderful energy and enterprise of the good people of San Francisco are displaying in their campaign of reconstruction, the tremendous odds against which they are working are enough to overwhelm ordinary people. He says the Californians are combating conditions with remarkable fortitude and success.

Young Women Help Charity—There is a club of young women in the northern part of the city whose object is to aid worthy charities. The latest is in the direction of the Detention home, and on behalf of the club Miss Anna Covell sent to Mrs. Towle a number of dresses for small children. These were made at the home, as small children are frequently sent to that place temporarily who need a change of clothing rather than moral instruction.

Burglars Get Over Transom—Burglars broke into the store of A. Minard & Co., 715 South Fourteenth street, Wednesday night, through the transom over the front door, and stole a watch, chain, revolver and small amount of money. Busy workers of the same caliber entered L. H. Robinson's cigar store and barber shop at 223 Leavenworth street, through the cellar, the same night and secured $5 in cash.

Extension to Save Building—Judge Kennedy has allowed a temporary injunction to prevent Frank Dworak, Vealvart Bartos and Mary C. Duggan from tearing down the building in which William Smith conducts a feed store at 2624 South Thirtieth street. Donks leased the building of Mrs. Duggan and she asserts that she hired other men to raise the building over his head in spite of the fact he has a lease on it and had accepted an offer to buy it.

Case More Timely Delay—Upon the request of Deputy County Attorney Magney the hearing of the charges of failing to account for public funds collected in fines made against former Clerk of Police Charles Lee Grier was again postponed by Judge Crawford in police court Thursday, the date set being Thursday of next week. Magney stated his reason for this additional delay was that he has business in the district court which he must attend to. This is about the fourth such delay.

William Weisley Killed by Train—A message to the Omaha police Thursday noon stated a man named William Weisley had been killed by Burlington train No. 4 between Haystack and Waverly, six and twelve miles east of Lincoln, respectively. The message also said the man was believed to have a son named Andrew Weisley in Omaha and asked that he be notified and notified. The police have no knowledge of any man of that name and it does not appear in the 1906 directory nor in the advance sheets of the 1907 edition.

Harmless Advertising Scheme—The wife and political affiliation of the winners attracted some peculiar attention to the Excelsior Pay Envelope company, which has filed articles of incorporation at Lincoln, but Mr. Yeiser, attorney, assures the skeptical public that the thing is merely a harmless little method of getting quick action on advertisements by having them printed on pay envelopes. Desiderius Yeiser the incorporators are: A. W. Tidd, formerly of Omaha and now of New York; C. O. Loeck, city comptroller; J. P. Connolly, formerly county commissioner.

Child Labor Law Literature—The official blanks and circulars to be used in connection with the enforcement of the child labor law have been received by the proper authorities and are ready for use by employers of such labor. There are three blanks and one card of instructions embodying the provisions of the law. The blanks, to be signed by school teacher or parent or guardian, cover cases of children between 14 and 16 years old, and while there are slight differences in the terms all generally are to certify as to the progress in school made by the child and his exact age.

Old Man Getting on Well—George Chamberlain, the old man whose wagon was struck by a street car while driving across the tracks on Farnam street, between Twenty-fourth and Twenty-fifth streets, Wednesday, throwing him violently to the pavement, was reported to be progressing favorably Thursday at St. Joseph's hospital, where he was taken by the police upon the instructions of Dr. Allison, the attending company physician. He was found to have received a contusion of the head without a fracture and a number of minor bruises, and in spite of his 70 years in age, probably will be out in a few days.

HOW FENCES IMPROVE CATTLE Enclosures Are Said to Have Worked Transformation in Nebraska Live Stock.

"The change that has come over the cattle business of Nebraska will surprise a man who has said out of the state for ten years," said Sheriff Dunkel of Hall county. "A few years ago when feeders bought cattle for fattening they did not expect the cattle to begin to fatten for six weeks after the feeding began. As a rule the stock came from the open range, where they knew nothing of feed lots and fences and they would only eat enough to keep themselves alive, while they were getting acquainted with their new quarters. Today cattle from the western part of the state are accustomed to fences and to rather close quarters. When they are placed in the feed lots they recognize the tanks and feed boxes as somewhat familiar objects and the results is that the feeder has his stock ready for market at least a month sooner than in the earlier days.

"The quality is also much better and this accounts to some extent for higher prices. Apropos of this I was talking to a man who was shipping to St. Joseph and asked him why he did not send his stock to South Omaha. He said that the grade was not high enough for the Omaha market; that the average of the Missouri market was so much lower that his consignment would be considered fair there, while it would be below the South Omaha average, and the price correspondingly lower.

MONEY TO HELP AUDITORIUM

Receipts from Streets of Paris Will Apply on Fund to Complete Building.

Chairman Yetter of the amusement committee of the citizens who have been backing the grand scenic reproduction of the Streets of Paris, announced Thursday morning that all money made by the big show was to be used to complete the Auditorium.

"We have made no announcement heretofore as to what sort of an enterprise this was," said Mr. Yetter, "but we wish to declare that it is Omaha's show and we desire the hearty co-operation of the entire community. It will be a show well worth while and we have been to great expense in getting some high-class attractions, which will be given free and can be viewed by all."

While many of the same names are mentioned in connection with this show as are seen in the lists of Knights of Ak-Sar-Ben, it is an entirely separate institution and it is simply a matter of coincidence that the same names appear and some of these men are the most public-spirited in Omaha, giving of their time and money. Charles Broed has been selected as general manager and is looking attractions for the midway, which will be placed on the stage of the Auditorium.

Interest in the voting contest for queen of May has increased since the announcement that the money is clear velvet for the building of the Auditorium.

Miss Ethel Robertson, who was the leader in the race for queen until Wednesday night, has asked that her name be withdrawn from the contest.

Story Hour Now Conducted. OMAHA, May 16.—To the Editor of The Bee: In your evening issue of May 15, I was found a letter from Judge W. W. Staugh on the subject, "The Children's Story Hour," in which he suggests that the public library adopt this excellent method of bringing good literature before the children. The library is under obligations to Judge Staugh for his interest, but would it not have been well for him to have first informed himself as to what the public library is doing in its children's and school departments? For the last two years a "story hour" has been conducted at the public library once each week by the children's librarian and her assistant, and previous to that time was conducted at irregular intervals by patrons of the library who were interested in the work for the children.

It is not necessary to go into the details of the work done for children at the public library, as this speaks for itself, but for those who cannot visit the library may be recommended the illustrated article to be found in the World-Herald for Sunday, May 12, "Story Hour for the Children at the Public Library."

KUHN, LOEB & CO. HAVE JOB Form Syndicate to Underwrite Issue of Convertible Union Pacific Bonds.

The syndicate formed by Kuhn, Loeb & Co. to underwrite the issue of $25,000,000 convertible 4 per cent bonds of the Union Pacific Railroad company is completed. While no announcement is made as to the extent of the applications, it was reported in banking circles that the amount was heavily oversubscribed, and that there would be an extensive scaling down of allotments in the award to participants.

Applications for underwriting participation from Europe were reported to have been unusually heavy. Quite naturally large shareholders, particularly institutions and unaccustomed personal investors, accepted participations with the object apparently of taking the bonds through the syndicate at 85 in lieu of subscribing on their own behalf to the bonds at 90. This feature of the bond issue assured the syndicate's formation at the outset.
