

W. H. MURRAY HIS PROBABLE SUCCESSOR Change Will Be Made First of June and Comes as Surprise to Railroad Men of This City.

Gerrit Fort, assistant general passenger agent of the Union Pacific, is to leave Omaha June 1 and at that time will sever his connection with the Union Pacific railroad, with which he has been connected for the last five years.

What Mr. Fort Says
In speaking of his decision to leave Omaha, Mr. Fort said:
"Vice President Daily of the New York Central has offered me a position in his department and I have accepted it.

The matter of a successor to Mr. Fort is settled and Mr. Lomas, general passenger agent, announces that the announcement will be made at the proper time.

WOMAN RESENTS EPITHET
Called Her and Friends
Dirty Nobodies.

"They called us dirty nobodies," was one of the extending circumstances interested by Mrs. Summers, 321 Webster street, in police court Saturday morning in defense of her son Harry, 17 years of age, on trial for alleged assault on Charles Prowitz, aged 13.

"The trouble in this case was tearing and striking at the dog belonged to Harry and he testified Charles was the aggressor, while Charles and his witness swore the dog was trying to bite them.

But the mothers were not through. Not by any means.
The parent of Harry launched into a diatribe of the wrongs and abuses which she and hers had been obliged to suffer in silence at the hands of the police.

That apparently did the work. The opposing forces turned as if to leave. But that would be giving the last word to a man. Would neither belligerent mother fly to the rescue and thus uphold the action of the court?

"Well, never mind, now," he said, "the case is all over and done."

"That apparently did the work. The opposing forces turned as if to leave. But that would be giving the last word to a man. Would neither belligerent mother fly
to the rescue and thus uphold the action
of the court?"

PIONEER PULLMAN EMPLOYEE
Man Who Has Been With Car Company Since It Has Been in Business.

D. J. Gruman, 80 years of age, of Columbia, O., who has been connected with the Pullman Car company since that company had but three cars, in 1870, and who is still with it, was in Omaha Saturday.

Mr. Gruman is an extensive traveler and recently returned from a trip through South America. In 1902 he was with a party of twelve who walked across the Isthmus of Panama about where the canal is now building.

They took that route from New York to California, going on a steamer to the Isthmus, walking across it and then going by boat up the coast coast of California. The party went from San Francisco to Fort Walla Walla, opened salms and sold them, and then walked from Walla Walla to Fort Benton, Mont., 800 miles.

Mr. Gruman stopped off in Omaha for a few days to visit with his old friend, Julius S. Coohey.

In 1867 Mr. Gruman's ancestors came from Newark, N. J., to Guernsey county, Ohio, blazing their way across the Alleghanies, and his father rode horseback carrying feed for his horse, to Columbus,
O., to help formulate the first laws of Ohio.

Salute We the Land Once Thine Own

Salute We the Land Once Thine Own—Grant La Poudre" and the final cry of victory. "The Goal is There, Hosanna!"
Mrs. Tewksbury's voice was well fitted for the part of Armda. Her solos were dramatic and convincing, the most effective being, "They Softly Sings," and her work with the tenor, "O Rinaldo, Up, Arouse Thee."
Mr. Garnett's great opportunities were in "The Crusader's Song" and "With Holy Thoughts Seek Holy Things." He also had some beautiful passages with the chorus, but his manner of singing did not bring out the possibilities of the work.
Mr. Charles Haverack, though suffering with an aggravated case of grippe, gave a satisfactory account of Peter Hermit. His voice is of a lovely quality and he uses it with care.
Mrs. Andrews at the piano and Mr. Bush at the organ did their part to make the evening a success. MARY LEARNED.

CUPID DAY WITH DAN BUTLER

Bridal Couples and Divorcees Go to City Clerk for Information
Saturday was matrimonial day at the city clerk's office. The program was opened by the arrival of a bridal party from South Omaha, the bride being attired in an Alice blue dress with a bride's veil reaching to the floor. The party was prepared for the ceremony, with the exception of a license. City Clerk Butler was ready to issue a license, but not for matrimony. As the groom decided that no dog was to be a member of the household the party was sent to the court house.
The next number on the program was a letter from Kansas City in which the writer desired to secure information on the subject of the marriage laws of Nebraska. He didn't make the assertion, but the contents of the letter strongly led to the presumption that he desired to wed a woman who had withdrawn from a similar alliance in Colorado less than six months ago. This letter was referred to the legal department.
The next letter came from Fort Dodge, Ia., and the writer wished information as to the hostile intentions of his wife, rumor having reached the Iowa man that she was asking for divorce and he desired officially to know the story of his alleged delinquencies.
Attention, Danish Brotherhood, No. 1: You are hereby requested to meet at Swanson's undertaking rooms, corner Seventeenth and Cuming streets, Sunday afternoon at 1:45 o'clock to attend the funeral of our late brother, Lawrence J. Jaspersen. By Order of Committee.

THE VILLAGE BLACKSMITH

Celebrated Painting that Made the Artist Famous After His Death, Coming.
One of the foremost works of art ever brought to America will be on free exhibition at Brandeis' store during the next two weeks. It is the masterpiece of H. de Mareau, the gifted French artist, named "The Village Blacksmith." It has been declared by art critics to be the greatest depiction of fire and freighth known to the realm of painting.
The picture, which will be installed on the third floor of the new Brandeis store beginning tomorrow, is a reproduction of the blacksmith's shop, with the smithy himself at his tasks before the flaming forge. Like all works of genius the picture is instantly appreciated by the average man of the street, and it is the masterful knowledge of painting. Since the picture was brought to America it has traveled over 70,000 miles and has been admired by over 12,000,000 people, who have been permitted to view it in the big stores in the greater American cities. This is the first time the picture was ever shown in Omaha and the Brandeis firm hopes the every man or woman in Omaha and vicinity will take advantage of this free opportunity to see one of the most brilliant and renowned of modern paintings.
"The Village Blacksmith" was painted by Mareau a few months before he died in 1893. The picture was one of the many freight pieces by this artist. He died an obscure and very poor young artist, but his pictures have since given him fame. His widow secured $2,500 for this painting, but it has since changed hands a number of times and E. M. Thiells, the present owner, paid $43,500 for the canvas. An offer of $50,000 was recently refused for this work of art. The picture won a bronze medal at a famous French exhibition.
The painting appeals strongly to children as well as grown people and teachers are making special plans to attend the exhibition with school children. Careful arrangements have been made to install this picture in a manner to give it the most effective setting.

AFFLICTED FAMILY DIVIDED

Russian Woman Working to Take Children Back to Native Land.

FATHER HAS YOUNG ONES ACROSS WATER
Immigration Laws Bear Heavily on Man and Wife and Latter Will Return Home When Able.

A peculiar immigration case has just developed at Lincoln wherein a Mrs. Marie Willman, a Russian, and her two young children are trying to raise means to return to Russia, after being in America but a few months. With her husband and two children she reached the port of Baltimore, Md., in February last from Odessa, Russia. It was found on arrival at quarantine that two of the children were suffering from trachoma, an eye disease, which is one of the prohibited ailments and bars the parties afflicted from entering the country.

The father thereupon accompanied the children back to Russia, expecting to return with them as soon as they had recovered from the disease. Mrs. Willman came on to Nebraska with the other two children to stay with relatives until she could be rejoined by her husband. She has been waiting patiently the meanwhile for his return, but a few weeks ago received a letter from him that he had made up his mind to remain in Russia and that he would join her there with the other two children. Mrs. Willman is in poor circumstances and though she would prefer to remain in the United States she cannot bear to be separated from her other two children and is working to obtain sufficient money for the long voyage back to her Russian home.

The matter has been brought to the attention of the United States immigration authorities, but nothing can be done under the immigration laws to aid her. Neither she nor her two children are public charges, and as she is capable of making a living she does not come within the deportable classes. The Willmans exhausted their little all in coming to America and the earnings of the father in Russia are so meagre that he cannot send the means to pay his wife's way back to Russia, and hence Mrs. Willman is working like a hero to raise the means to get back to Russia with her children that the family may again be united.

PUSH CART MAN UNDER BAN

Now Enrolled With Those Citizens Who Must Keep Clean in Business.

It came to pass that the push-cart man fell under the ban of the health department of the city called Omaha and much commotion was heard on the part of the inhabitants thereof because the perpetrator providers of food to nocturnal detestants followed the evil practice of dropping the unused portions thereof upon the public streets and alleys, more particularly in that portion of the city known to the residents thereof as the "bad lands," a term applied to the country contiguous to Council Bluffs.

And many persons who traveled the street called Douglas appeared before the chief man of the city, whose duty it is to see that the health of the citizens is preserved and declared that though the push-cart be a memory in the day light hours the aroma of decayed "hamburger" and onions gave them no peace. The chief health officer waxed exceedingly wrath and called upon the chief officer of the police and denounced the providers of food, declaring they were to be nuisance, and requesting the chief police officer to issue his order commanding the policeman to arrest every proprietor of a push-cart, who should not immediately provide some proper receptacle for the garbage created by his business.

And thus was the push-cart man enrolled among those who are to strive for a cleaner Omaha.

MUSICAL ART SOCIETY CONCERT

Last Presentation of the Spenson Tests Capacity of All Saints Church.

The new All Saints' church had difficulty in holding the moderns which turned out last night to hear the final concert for this season of the Musical Art society. The first part of the program consisted of miscellaneous numbers. A part song, "Hymn to Music," was sung by the chorus with beautiful color, tone and finish. Mr. Simms, understands the intelligent drilling of the men and women under his charge. He accomplishes results which are satisfying, both to the ear and the mind. The "Hymn to Music" was sung without accompaniment. That is always a severe test of intonation and correctness generally. Mrs. Tewksbury has a dramatic soprano voice of much power. Her first solo was "Hear Ye, Israel," the cantata by Gade. The voice does not lie high enough to sing this very taxing number without great effort. In the last part her pitch was not flawless. The encore in response to this number, "Jerusalem, Thou that Slayest the Prophets," was finely sung, with more sweetness of tone and artistic finish. Garrett Hedges was a disappointment. The tenor role of "The Crusader's Song" is beautiful—needs a ringing, convincing voice. Mr. Hedge may have had a cold. He sang most persistently through his nose. He is suffering from the same malady which afflicted Joseph Sheehan several years ago. His resonance carried only half way to his conclusion is a problem of tone production. Sheehan has since traveled the rest of the road. Mr. Hedge very likely will. He gave "The Sorrows of Death," by Mendelssohn, and was obliged to appear and sing again.

formed the second half of the program. Mr. Simms deserves great credit for his careful, painstaking work with this score. The chorus sang with surety and ease and a beautiful tone quality.

It was unfortunate that the damp hot weather affected the pitch of the piano. The organ and piano were not in exact accord, but Mr. Bush handled the organ so diplomatically that the discrepancy was much diminished. The orchestral effect was lost.

Especially good effects were gotten in the chorus after the crusader's song, "To War Arouse Thee" is sung with much spirit. In the second part of the song of the phantoms of darkness, "Silent Creeping No Light," was given very pianissimo, gradually working to "Ray, Leave the Whirl of the Dance," as Armda appears in the distance. The end of the chorus was sung with exquisite color and tone and very softly.

With the wand she doth wave Us Andia is calling. The chorus of girls was the most successful of the evening. It is rhythmic and tuneful, full of the scent of roses and lilies and heavy with a sensuous beauty.

The "March of the Pilgrims" was very good, particularly the last part, "Hear, Hear Feet!" also the portion of "His Hero, Let Each Crusader Raise," with Wexing

DOG WITH BANK ACCOUNT

Strict Guardian of Children and Peace Maker Among Country Curs.

In Bloomfield, Mo., is the only dog in the world that has a bank account to his credit, a public administrator to look after his affairs and a curator to take charge of his estate. "Bloomfield Jack" is the name of this remarkable dog. He is one of the commonest, shaggy dogs in the town. Jack has no home, not even a pedigree, yet he has more friends than any other dog in Bloomfield. Women and children are his particular friends and it is said whenever he sees a child in the streets unaccompanied Jack never fails to be his guardian until he sees the child safely home. He pays particular attention to country dogs when they are in town and the least bit of misbehavior on their part results in a severe chastisement, for he is somewhat of a fighter. It was the result of one of these mixups that caused Jack's name to be placed on the probate records with a snug sum to his credit in one of the banks. One Saturday he was around the market place preserving the peace among the country dogs when two of the more savage ones attacked him. It was a tight to the finish and Jack came out of the melee with a

JAIL FOR DERELICT LODGERS

All Cheap Rooming House Patrons Without Good Excuse to Go to Prison.

Police court was lengthened considerably beyond its usual time Saturday morning while the twenty-six men taken from cheap lodging houses on Douglas street Friday morning were given hearings on vacancy charges. Five were given five or ten-day sentences, but the rest were discharged with forcible admonitions to go to work immediately or get out of town. They were found in bed at a time of the morning when men with work would be up and doing, and those who were unable to explain why they lingered so long in bed or who could not satisfy his honor that they would go to work, were sent to jail.

DOG AND CHILDREN

One of the most interesting incidents of the week was the fight between a dog and a child.

A child was playing in a park when a dog attacked him. The child was severely injured and the dog was taken to a pound.

The dog was a large breed and was very fierce. It was taken to the pound and will be kept there for a few days.

The child's parents were notified and they are trying to raise money to pay for the child's treatment.

The child is now recovering from his injuries and will be discharged from the hospital soon.

broken leg, but his toes were vanquished. Jack's friends took charge of him and raised the sum of $30 to pay a surgeon to set the broken bones.

The surgeon would not accept the fee and the money collected to pay for the nursing and care of him was deposited in the Bank of Bloomfield to Jack's credit and the public administrator took charge of the estate. Judge Thomas Conley, at that time probate judge, issued the order for this action on the grounds that Jack could not speak the English language and was mentally incapable of managing his affairs. D. Wilcox, cashier of the Bloomington bank, was appointed guardian of Jack and curator of his estate. The papers were made out in regular form and are exactly as though they were made for the estate of a minor.

Since Jack never wants for the necessities of life the money will probably be used to erect a suitable monument over his grave when he is dead. His taxes are regularly paid and many a stranger who had not yet made the acquaintance of the dog had been fooled for mistaking him. For a common cur Jack shows a remarkable degree of intelligence and many stories are told of his deeds in protecting small children, in whose company he delights to be.—Kansas City Star.

A May party and dance will be given by the ladies of Holy Family Court, Women's Catholic order of Foresters, at Fraternal hall, Paterson block, Seventeenth and Farnam, Friday evening, May 24th, 1907.

As to Uncle Henry. "I tell you, Maria," said Farmer Heck, after the visitor from the city had retired for the night. "It's doing Uncle Henry a power of good to get away from the city and come out here where he can breathe the fresh air. He says it's all right to talk about the comforts and conveniences of city life, and all that, but you can't improve on nature."

"I'm glad he thinks so," said Mrs. Heck, with a smile. "He must have changed his mind since this morning, Johnny says he spent many a night near the window in front of the looking glass up in his room, trying to see what a goodly one he is."

DOCTORS FOR MEN

The Reliable Specialists Do You Lack Energy?

Some men are classed as lazy, shiftless, unreliable, careless; they lack ambition, energy and courage and are discouraged, who really can't help being tired, worn-out and a miserable failure. Many of these men are in failing health, unable to determine the nature of their ailments, and their condition baffles their physician, too. They never know the happiness of being in health, they have no energy, they are in a state of nervous debility. It is so essential to achieve a marked success in life. The sufferer may eat well, sleep well and possibly never complain, but an unaccountable languor clings to him which he cannot shake off, robbing him of all ambition for business or pleasure. Nervous Debility will account for this condition in a large majority of cases. Men who find that the condition we have described corresponds with the condition of their own health should consult the eminent specialists of the State Medical Institute without unnecessary delay. Come to our office and we will make a thorough, accurate, and scientific examination of your ailments free of charge, an examination that will disclose your true physical condition, without a knowledge of which your are groping in the dark and with no physician or specialist should treat you.

Don't allow disease or weakness to take away all the pleasure of living. You should not become discouraged and lose your energy on life because inferior and unreliable treatment has failed to benefit you. Our special treatment for this class of troubles, which is varied and modified to meet the requirements of each individual case, is a safe cure, which restores to men one of the surest health and happy condition in life.

We do not quote misleading prices in our advertisements. We make no misleading statements or deceptive, unbusinesslike representations of value at the lowest charges possible for skillful and successful services. We believe in fair dealings and honest methods.

We treat men only, and cure promptly, safely and thoroughly BRONCHITIS, CATARRH, NERVOUS DEBILITY, BLOOD POISON, SKIN DISEASES, KIDNEY AND BLADDER DISEASES and all SPECIAL diseases and their complications.
