

VIOLA ALLEN AS IMOGEN

"Cymbeline" Given Delightful Presentation by Clever Actress.

COMPANY GOOD AND PERFORMANCE FINE

Charming Star is Beautiful as a Bride and Bewitching as a Boy. White Her Support is Excellent.

Viola Allen and company in "Cymbeline," a romantic drama by William Shakespeare, in four acts and twelve scenes, under management of Charles W. Allen, at the Boyd theatre. The cast:

- Cymbeline, king of Britain... Myron Calico
Cloten, son to the queen... Sidney Herbert
Posthumus Leonatus, husband to Imogen... Myron Calico

Calpurnia, general of the Roman forces... Leopold Lane
First Roman captain... E. M. Dooliver
Second Roman captain... P. C. Hartigan
Queen, wife to Cymbeline... Myron Calico
Helen, a lady attending on Imogen... Myron Calico
First lady... Myron Calico
Imogen, daughter to Cymbeline... Myron Calico

After seeing "Cymbeline" the wonder grows why it is not more often acted. It lacks to some extent the great literary merit that is a part of the Shakespearean dramas more frequently offered, and its moving action may be less worthy, but none have more beautiful poetry, nor does any contain in greater degree what is termed in modern cant "heart interest." The fortunate scenes are followed with closest sympathy from the first, especially as she is known to be the victim of a scurvy piece of treachery. It affords excellent and many opportunities for the scene painter and the costumer, and it has through it a vein of tenderness that is in strange contrast to the general ruthlessness of its manners. And, above all, it yields so readily to the uses of skilled players that it seems it should be a favorite, except for the fact that its star role lacks some of the essential of Imogen.

Viola Allen's production of "Cymbeline" is artistic in every aspect. It is staged with great care and with as near approach to the day of its action as possible, its scenery and costumes being designed on historically accurate lines. And it is acted with intelligence, good taste and positive effect. More enjoyable acting than that which marked the third act, wherein Imogen first meets her brothers, is rarely seen. It was very nearly perfect. Other scenes were made impressive and effective, but none reached the mark of this for general excellence. Another strong feature is the musical setting of the drama.

Miss Allen's share. Of Miss Allen's notion of Imogen little need be said beyond the statement that it is of a piece with all her work. She enters upon it with care and much painstaking, giving attention to the little points that round out the picture. Her wonderful voice stands her in stead, and its music is heard in merry note or sorrowful with equal charm. She is strikingly handsome as a princess and bewitching as a boy. It is no marvel that the disguised princess fell in love with her on sight; if they had not, it would have marked them as changelings and no true sons of their father. The character sounds no depths and ascends no heights, and Miss Allen aspires to none. Imogen was a girl, placed in a very awkward predicament through no fault of her own, and this is the picture presented.

Her company is in many ways the strongest Miss Allen has had with her in several seasons. While the audience last night was far from taxing the capacity of the theatre, it was large enough to evince a lingering interest in the classic drama locally and sufficiently appreciative to applaud the actors most enthusiastically. This was especially true of the third act, when several calls were given, and while Miss Allen declined to step out of the character, the closing tableau of the act was offered. Many missed the final tableau of the evening, a beautiful picture showing the reunited husband and wife alone.

Task for This Afternoon. This afternoon Miss Allen will essay an unusual undertaking, that of four heroines at one matinee. She will play Rosalind in the wedding scene from "As You Like It," Lady Teazle in the scene from "School for Scandal," Imogen in the trial scene from "The Merchant of Venice" and Juliet in the balcony scene from "Romeo and Juliet." For this evening "Twelfth Night" will be the offering, with Miss Allen as Viola.

BRIEF CITY NEWS.

Burglars in Meat Market—Burglars broke into the meat market of P. J. McNamara, 221 Leavenworth street, Friday night through a window and secured 25 cents.

Pleasures for Sick Ones—At 12:30 o'clock Sunday the Dahlman tubboy quartet, accompanied by the mayor, Dave O'Brien and Carl Reiter, visited St. Joseph's hospital, where the members sang to the patients. John J. Welch, who was specially favored, is getting along nicely.

To Be Deported—Immigrant Inspector W. R. Mansfield will go to Yankton next week to escort Mrs. Estie K. Peterson, an insane pauper, to New York, from where she will be deported to her old home in Denmark.

Check Up Rates—Freight officials of the various western roads centering in Omaha held an extended meeting Friday to check up the rates in accordance with the changes which were made by the legislature of Nebraska last winter.

Ministerial Union Monday—A meeting of the Omaha Ministerial union will be held Monday at 10:30 at the First Congregational church. Rev. H. L. Mills will be leader of the quiet hour and Rev. L. O. Baird will read a paper on "The Theological Preparation for the City Ministry."

Bus for Sons of Finger—For the loss of the index finger of his left hand Benjamin F. Davis has begun suit in district court against Swift and Company for $200. He was lifting a boiler with a crowbar, and while he had his hand under it, the crowbar slipped crushing his finger. He says the crowbar was defective.

Farewell to Frank Richa—Tonight at Tel Jed Sokol hall on Thirteenth street the society will give a farewell reception to Frank J. Richa, a member who starts to Prague, Bohemia, Sunday to represent the Omaha society in the athletic contests which mark the meeting of the international societies of O. J. Richa, who will accompany Mr. Richa as far as New York City, also will be a guest of the society.

John Grant Pegg Gets Busy—A warrant was issued Saturday for the arrest of Samuel Wine, fuel and feed dealer at Thirteenth and Jackson streets, on a charge of giving short weight. The complaint was filed by City Inspector of Weights and Measures Pegg upon information that a man who asserted he had purchased 1,000 pounds of hay from Wine and when it had been delivered found it to be only 700 pounds.

Horse Injured in Runaway—A horse attached to R. E. Welch's grocery establishment ran away Saturday morning on Sixteenth street and came to the barn of the Omaha Transfer company near the corner of Harney street. A leg of one of the transfer company's horses was badly cut and lacerated by the collision and the horse had to be taken from the team, probably permanently injured.

Furniture Dealers' Convention—The annual meeting of the Nebraska Association of Furniture Dealers and Undertakers will be held in Omaha June 13-14. The headquarters of the association will be at the Millard. The executive and local committees are arranging a fine program for the social as well as the business features of the gathering. The convention is expected to bring about 300 strangers and their families to the city for the two days.

"Political Trust" Suit Dismissed—An incident of the legislative campaign of last fall was recalled Friday, when the case of James N. Best, against the Fontanelle club came up before Judge Kennedy and was dismissed for want of prosecution. This was the suit brought by John O. Yeiser to enjoin the operation of an alleged political trust to secure the nomination of an alleged "state" on the legislative ticket. A modified restraining order was secured, but as its usefulness ended with the campaign the case was never prosecuted further.

Dr. Miller on Dog Muzzle—In a letter to the city council Dr. George L. Miller asks permission to address the council on a subject of great interest to the residents of Omaha. He says that before the dog-muzzling ordinance was enacted the duties as president of the State Historical society compelled his presence at Lincoln and for this reason he was not able to present his views at that time. The letter will be presented to the council at the meeting of the committee of the whole Monday afternoon.

Board of Equalization—The County Board of Equalization, which will hold its first session, probably will inaugurate a new custom of holding night sessions this year. Commissioner Trainor has a resolution ready to offer at the first meeting providing that two night sessions a week be held to enable laboring men who are employed all day to appear before the board. Heretofore all sessions have been held in the day time and for this reason many persons having a small amount of property are unable to take time to appear to make complaints.

Postmasters' Convention—The Interstate convention of the Nebraska and Iowa postmasters will be held in Omaha June 25-26. The executive committee is getting busy preparing for the event and the convention program to be the biggest gathering of postmasters ever held in the west. First Assistant Postmaster General Hitchcock will be one of the principal speakers at the convention. An elaborate program of entertainment is being arranged, including automobile rides, banquets, theater parties and a good time generally as can be spared from the regular business session.

Wants $10,000 for Injuries—Suit for $10,000 has been started in district court against the Omaha Transfer company by Samuel G. Stevenson. In his petition Stevenson says November 30 he was driving along Sixteenth street near Farnam when a wagon belonging to the defendant company and driven at high rate of speed collided with him and threw him to the pavement. He says he is permanently injured. He charges the driver who collided with him with driving on the wrong side of the street.

Sale of House—Harry A. Pinkerton has sold his home and lot on the east side of Forty-first street, between Davenport and Dodge streets, for $4,100 to Mrs. Josie A. Hope, who will occupy the residence for a home. Mrs. Camilla Prugh has sold her house on Twenty-eighth street, between Burdette and Yates streets, to Mrs. L. Hodges for $3,700. The house is comparatively of recent construction and was bought by Mr. Hodges for a home. Frederick H. Cosgrove has sold his new house near the northwest corner of Thirty-fourth street and Lafayette avenue, in Bemis park, to Cornelia B. Christy for $3,000.

Accused Becomes Accuser—Depositions were taken in Omaha Saturday in the case of J. W. Zook of Tarkio, Mo., who is about to begin suit for damages against a large implement house at Kansas City. Zook was arrested by detectives as he stepped from a train at Union station January 22 upon request from Kansas City, where the firm in question had made complaint against him, charging him with embezzlement. The story of his arrest was published in the Omaha papers. Zook was not found guilty of the charges against him and now seeks reparation for the damage he alleges to have suffered from the publicity.

LETTERS FROM BEE READERS

Miss Tobitt Has Suggestion as to Heading Matter for the Blind.

Contributions on timely topics are invited. Write legibly on one side of a paper only, with name and address appended. On request name will not be used unless conditions will not be returned. Letters exceeding 300 words will be subject to being cut down at the discretion of the editor. Publication of views of correspondents does not commit The Bee to their endorsement.

Literature for the Blind. OMAHA, May 17.—To the Editor of The Bee: During the last few weeks the daily papers have devoted a good deal of space for the purpose of advertising the Magill-Ziegler Magazine for the Blind, a monthly magazine containing articles of current interest by some of our best writers and printed in "The York Point" and "Braille." I have recently communicated with the publishers of this magazine with the purpose of procuring a copy for the reading room, but they declined to send this as the only libraries which are on their mailing list are those which carry books for the blind. They requested me, however, to send them the names of any blind persons who can read either of these systems that the magazine might be forwarded to them. As it is much to be desired that this magazine should go to the homes of the blind than to be received here by the library, I will make no further effort to obtain a copy, but will gladly forward the names and address of those who would like to avail themselves of this opportunity.

In this connection may also be mentioned the fact that Mr. Thomson of the Philadelphia public library has offered to the blind, free of charge, to any blind person who makes the request, and as literature of this kind is sent through the mails free of charge the borrower is under no expense. EDITH TOBITT, Librarian.

FALL FATAL TO WILLIAMSON

Steps Into Elevator Shaft When Case Is Up and Goes to the Bottom. W. J. Williamson died Friday afternoon at St. Joseph's hospital from the effects of a fractured skull, sustained by falling down the elevator shaft at the Racine-Sattley Company building, Tenth and Jones street, Friday noon. He was an electrician, employed by the Omaha Electric works, and at the time of the accident was engaged in repairing the electrical apparatus of the elevator and stepped into the shaft when the car was not there and fell twelve feet. He roomed at 157 Capitol avenue, was 24 years old and his parents reside in Minneapolis, to which place his body was sent today at the request of his father. An inquest was held by Coroner Stralder Saturday afternoon, death by accident being the verdict.

Cures Woman's Weaknesses.

We refer to that boon to weak, nervous, suffering women known as Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. Dr. John E. Fife of the Editorial Staff of THE ELECTRIC MEDICAL REVIEW says of Unicorn root (Heliconia Diotica) which is one of the chief ingredients of the "Favorite Prescription": "A remedy which invariably acts as a uterine invigorator... makes for normal activity of the entire reproductive system. He continues: 'In Heliconia we have a medication which more fully answers the above purposes than any other drug with which I am acquainted. In the treatment of diseases peculiar to women it is seldom that a case is seen which does not present some indication for this remedial agent.' Dr. Fife further says: 'The following are among the leading indications for Heliconia (Unicorn root): Pain or aching in the back, with leucorrhoea; a general feeling of weakness and depression; irascibility, associated with chronic diseases of the reproductive organs of women; constant sensation of heat in the region of the kidneys; morbidly abundant, dusky or watery menses; or a general feeling of weakness, or a general feeling of depression or absent monthly periods; or a general feeling of weakness, or a general feeling of depression or absent monthly periods; or a general feeling of weakness, or a general feeling of depression or absent monthly periods.'

AFFAIRS AT SOUTH OMAHA

Conference Arranges the Details of the New Viaduct on West Q Street.

EVERYTHING READY FOR THE SIGNATURES. Burlington to Erect the Viaduct and City and County to Build the Approaches Under Terms of Agreement.

An important committee meeting was held in the Douglas county court house yesterday morning concerning the viaduct over the Burlington tracks on West Q street. Attorneys English, Fidelity and Kelly and County Commissioner Trainor and A. L. Spearman of the West Side club were in the conference and came to an agreement on the details of the viaduct. This agreement only needs the signatures of the railway officials and the city officers to make it binding. It is proposed to build a viaduct 87 feet long over the tracks at Forty-fourth street. The railroad constructs the spans of the viaduct and the city and the county the approaches. The viaduct is to be forty feet wide. All the details of the work contemplated were discussed in a mass meeting at the Maccares hall at Thirty-sixth and Q streets last Wednesday evening. The representatives of the road were there and the county attorney, as well as County Commissioner P. J. Trainor and the city officials, including Mayor Hoctor. This viaduct is to be one of the finest structures in the city and will require several months for its completion.

The preliminary work of appraising damages and securing valuers is now practically completed. The height of the viaduct will require rather long approaches and some grading. For this reason an ordinance was introduced two weeks ago to change the grade of West Q street. The viaduct between Twenty-sixth and Twenty-seventh streets was assured several weeks ago and the material is now expected to arrive at any time.

Sidewalk Notices Served. The city clerk sent out a number of notices yesterday to various citizens affected by the ordinance to put in permanent sidewalks. These notices place a limit of thirty days for the construction of the walks. The city may then proceed to lay the walks and assess the cost of the same upon the property abutting. There were a hundred or more of the notices.

Sunday Services. "The Fact or God" will be the topic of Rev. H. H. Millard at the First Methodist church Sunday morning. In the evening the Epworth league will have charge of the service. Dr. Wheeler's topic at the First Presbyterian church will be "Without God." In the evening his subject will be "Why I Joined the Eagles."

Frederick August Gerst will have charge of the services at Lefter Memorial church Sunday evening. The quarterly conference will be held Saturday afternoon. The regular service is announced for the morning. Rev. Hillers will preach.

The topic of Rev. Andrew Renwick at the United Presbyterian church Sunday morning is "The General Assembly." The evening topic is "The Lord is My Light." "Tried by Fire" is the subject of the morning address at the First Baptist church. The evening topic is "Better Than Gold."

The English Lutheran church has enjoyed the sessions of the North Platte conference in its semi-annual meeting. Y. M. C. A. Notes. There will be no Sunday afternoon men's meeting.

The Leinads and their friends will hold their usual Sunday afternoon meeting at 3 o'clock. Mrs. E. B. Towle will speak to the boys. "Almost a Man" will be her subject. The Leinads are expecting a large audience.

The secretary, Mrs. Copper, president of the Ladies' auxiliary, and the E. A. L. N. quartet will conduct an association meeting at the Methodist church Sunday evening. This meeting is for the purpose of strengthening the auxiliary and explaining the work of the association.

The base ball team is doing good practice work, considering the inclemency of the weather. It will play the second game of a double-header at Duffy's park Saturday. The game is scheduled with the Overlands, which is considered a strong aggregation.

No branch of the association work is giving better satisfaction than that of the Leinads. This organization is increasing in numbers and the interest shown is great. Attorney Ringer has this work in charge and deserves great credit for the success of the organization. The Leinads now number more than twenty-five and form the working force of the boys' department.

Their work is broad in its scope, embracing outdoor games and agricultural work, indoor athletics and religious services for boys, which are given Sunday afternoons. That the base ball team has the right material in it is shown by the way other teams come to it for players. Two of the players have been loaned to the Country club for their Saturday afternoon game.

Magie City Gossip. Mrs. Robert Anderson of Malvern, Ia., is in town. Frank Stephens of South Omaha, Ia., is to be married to Emma Rothman of Plattsmouth.

Alfred McRann of London, Can., is in the city paying a visit to his brother, Samuel McRann. Phil Kearney post of the Grand Army of the Republic and the Women's Relief corps met Saturday, May 18. All members are expected to be present.

Mrs. A. Fodick, 164 South Twentieth street, was taken to the hospital in Council Bluffs yesterday. Mrs. J. Duff is still very weak and her recovery is slow. She has been ill for two months or more. Michael J. McDonald of South Omaha and Mabel E. Sandy of Gretna have been granted a marriage license.

The Modern Brotherhood of America had a most pleasant entertainment in Woodmen hall last night. Ice cream was served. The Ladies' Aid society of Lefter Memorial church will meet Wednesday evening for the coming week. Harry Hirst, Twenty-eighth and 24 streets, reports the birth of son, Jerome West, 338 South Eighteenth, has a daughter. E. H. Opeuhelmer of the Rock Island corps of engineers has been in the city several days working on the plans for the U street viaduct.
