

TIME SOLUTION OF PROBLEM

Only Way of Adjusting Conditions in Philippines, Says Colonel Taylor.

GOOD WORK BEING DONE IN THE ISLANDS

President and Secretary of War Contrasting Toward Material Advancement of People and Conditions Over There.

"The problem of the Philippines is one which only time can solve," said Colonel W. C. Taylor, who is at his father's home, 2112 Hurst street, on a short leave from his duties in the islands, having come on the sad mission of burying his wife and baby. Colonel Taylor is stationed in the Third district, which comprises the islands of Samar, Leyte, Cebu, Negros, Panay and Bohol, all south of the equator.

"The work of the president and secretary of war in the islands during the last few years has done much toward advancing them," said Colonel Taylor. "True, the outbreaks usually arise because of a disagreement between native officials under the United States regime and natives. The latter are often jealous of the advancement of their fellows. They come into town and in some manner manage to pick a quarrel with the native officials. Having done so, they go out into the backwoods, where they air their grievances and readily find some who are ready to espouse their cause, often at the price of their lives. They, of course, are the government has to back up its officials."

"The last disturbance was six months ago in the island of Leyte. The natives there fight with no other weapon than the bolo and with a fanatical frenzy that is marvelous. The bolo is a heavy knife something on the order of a corn knife here in Nebraska, except that it is bigger, sharper, more highly tempered and much heavier. The handle is usually elaborately carved with some god's head or an inscription in which the owner of the bolo has faith. The bolos are of all shapes and range from two to three feet in length of blade. Some of them are wavy like ones of these new bread knives."

How the Natives Fight.
The natives usually fight by means of surprise or ambush. They rush out of the brush or high grass. Their leaders insist that they must run with their hands down as not to see the soldiers, for if they see men with guns they become frightened. They also carry pieces of paper in their mouths sometimes, this being done to keep them from yelling. Then when they are up against the soldiers, some of them have not been shot down swing those heavy, sharp bolos and do terrible execution. One blow is enough to cleave a man's head open if it strikes him fairly.

"The loneliness of the islands and the lack of diversion for the Americans are two of the chief objections to life there. Still where a few Americans or English get together they manage to get a fair amount of diversion."

"Railroads are now being built throughout the islands. Mr. Swift of Detroit, who is president of the company which is building in my district, is very well pleased with the prospect there. He believes it is a very paying investment. He also praises the Filipino laborer, who has been very much maligned. The Filipino laborer is as good as any other laborer. Of course, he doesn't sail in and wear himself out at the first effort, but he is a steady toiler and a great factor for the development of the islands under proper direction.

"The development of the hemp industry offers a good opening for Americans in the islands now. The best hemp in the world grows in the soil of the islands and, in fact, good hemp cannot be grown elsewhere."

ALL BOOST STREETS OF PARIS

Women as Well as Men of Omaha Are Working for the Great Auditorium.

"The women of Omaha are taking hold of the streets of Paris with a vim and the success of the undertaking is assured," said H. J. Foster, chairman of the board of directors of the association which is putting on the big show for the benefit of the Auditorium fund.

"St. Paul should be held up to Omaha as a shining example of what business men can do when they work together," said W. L. Yetter, another member of the committee. While the first horse show was being given at the Auditorium a committee of business men from St. Paul visited Omaha to inspect this Auditorium. They returned home and started a campaign of building; now theirs is complete in every particular. They have lounging rooms and smoking rooms for the men and parlors for the women, and the contrast with the Omaha Auditorium is too noticeable. The Streets of Paris will solve the problem, for all seem to be taking hold with the right spirit."

Many high class amusement features have been secured by the management for the entertainment of the patrons of the "Streets," chief among which is the Eton Polo troupe of New York, a famous company of aerial artists, which has performed at Madison Square garden and at the amusement places near New York. This troupe will give free performances within the Auditorium every afternoon and evening during the carnival.

The main attraction promised for the opening of the carnival next Monday evening is the May pole dance and festival to be given by the young members of the dancing class of W. E. Chambers. The children have been drilled for some time by Mr. Chambers in fancy dances and evolutions and will give a representation of the "Budding of the Queen," which will be the initial performance leading to the crowning of the May queen during the second week of the carnival.

A scenic reproduction of the "Latin Quarter," which has been made famous in Paris as the home of many American students, will be produced on the stage of the Auditorium, to which access will be gained by a broad flight of stairs leading from the main floor of the Auditorium. The "Old Red Mill," which is well known to visitors of Paris, will be in full blast in the "Latin Quarter."

The first appearance in Omaha of the moving pictures depicting the "Thaw Sensation" will be produced at every performance by the kindrome and will show the scenes of that famous case from the time of the shooting of Stanford White to the trial of Thaw.

Doc Breed has secured a troupe of Parisian dancing girls from Chicago, which will give terpsichorean performances at each performance, and a "Wiggle-Waggle" house, which will give the patrons many novel sensations, will be maintained in the files of the Auditorium stage.

OLDEST OF CATTLE MEN
Uncle Zed Goodwin at Eighty-Six is Still Active in the Business.

"Uncle Zed" Goodwin of Alliance, aged 86, the oldest cattle buyer and seller in the state, if not in the United States, returned home Saturday afternoon after spending a few days in Omaha. "Uncle Zed" has not been feeling well during his visit and failed to visit a number of the friends he hoped to see.

Mr. Goodwin is undoubtedly the dean of the cattle buying corps of the west. He started to buying and shipping cattle in Indiana before there was a road in the state. Cincinnati was then called "Polio-polis" and all of the meat consumed by the cotton and sugar planters of the south was shipped by boat from that place. Cattle were driven many miles to market and it was in his ability to judge the shrinkage of stock during one of these drives that marked the successful buyer. With the advent of the railroads Mr. Goodwin sought market for stock in New York and while deals were not always successful the result was always so much in doubt as to make them interesting.

Leaving Indiana Mr. Goodwin came to South Platte in 1871 and for several years bought from western Iowa farmers, selling to Omaha buyers generally. Then he went west and was the first man to ship stock from the station at Alliance, which place he has made his home for several years. He has recently disposed of his ranch, but will continue to buy stock.

At the solicitation of friends Mr. Goodwin last year published a biography, in which he traced the development of the cattle trade in the west and his experiences in buying and selling stock. The small volume is popular with the friends of the veteran, who are pleased to have a true account of his life.

WIFE GOES BACK TO OWN RACE
Divorce Suit Follows Marriage of Jew with Negro Woman.

Alleging that she has left him and gone back to people of her own race, Mike Antokai has begun suit for divorce from Nettie Antokai. The two were married last July and after the marriage Antokai, who is a Jew, discovered his bride has negro blood in her veins. In his petition filed Friday afternoon he says she has gone back to living with the colored people. He says she was arrested with a negro and told the officers she was his wife. Mrs. Antokai was one of the star witnesses in the Harrison Clark murder case and it was to her Clark gave the money he secured in the slown holdups on the night he and his companions killed Edward Flury, the street car conductor.

ITALY IS SEEKING NO AID

Will Excavate the Ruins at Herculeanum Without Other Assistance.

SOCIALISTS HAVE MANY DISSENTIONS

Rival Newspapers Are Started and Troubles Increase—Prince of Montenegro Insults King Victor.

ROME, May 18.—(Special.)—The Italian Chamber has finally decided to refuse any international assistance in the excavation of Herculeanum except such as may be given by archaeologists and scholars. The Germans, it will be remembered, had proposed the creation of an international board to carry on the work, but the Italians with their historic eye for the weaknesses of human nature foresaw in this arrangement rivalries and quarrels and so decided to undertake the excavation of Herculeanum themselves. The town, it will be remembered, was overwhelmed by the same eruption of Mount Vesuvius which in A. D. 79 submerged Pompeii. The latter, however, was covered with lava which could be removed with comparative ease, whereas the crust which hides Herculeanum is of a much tougher material. Experts, however, declare that the excavation of Herculeanum presents no superhuman obstacles.

The public constabulary which has just taken place is one of the most beautiful of the papal ceremonies which the tourist can see. The coming of the pontiff in the Sala Regia during the reign of Leo XIII was a scene of great charm in fact. He was borne on the Sedia Gestatoria; the ambassadors and ministers and statesmen, wearing their orders and stars and decorations—representatives of the nations—bowed down to receive the blessing of the feeble old man who represented the great moral force of the world. The floor and other galleries were thronged with a varied gathering of monks and missionaries, nuns and members of many orders and laymen, some of whom had grown old in the service of the church, others ardent to begin their career.

Pope in the Procession.
Pope X, walking in procession rather than used the Sedia Gestatoria and he is surrounded by guards and monks and consequently he is not seen to such an advantage as Leo XIII was. Many of those who stand upon the floor of the Sala Regia are quite unaware of the passing of the pope from the Sala Regia to the Sala Terrena. The ceremony of imposing the hat on each new cardinal is extremely beautiful and interesting. And the surroundings of the chief act—the walls of the hall covered with frescoes recording several of the triumphs of the church over those who would subjugate it, and the neighboring Sistine chapel, where the walls and the ceiling relate in pictures of marvelous power and sublime art the religious work of the world. All of these things tend to enhance in one's imagination the importance of the act which the pope performs here, when he places the red hat on the head of each cardinal. He warns each one of the duty involved in the cardinalate of defending the rights of the church, even to the shedding of blood. And it is needless to add that there are few places in the world more suggestive of the price, which may be exacted through the centuries than this same Sistine chapel.

The socialist party is again torn by internal dissensions, which threaten to weaken it still farther as a political force. The congress held last year left the party divided into two groups. The largest of these, the Intergruppi, fell under the leadership of Enrico Ferri, who retaining possession of the party determined to get a hearing for their ideas and started a rival newspaper, the "Azione." This enterprise was naturally displeasing to the directors and supporters of the Avanti and an attempt was made to crush the new journal by an insinuation that it owed its existence to funds provided by the minister of the Interior and its real object was the disintegration of the socialist party. The Azione in answer offered to give the names of the private individuals, who financed the paper, and the leadership of Enrico Ferri, who retained possession of the party, determined to get a hearing for their ideas and started a rival newspaper, the "Azione." This enterprise was naturally displeasing to the directors and supporters of the Avanti and an attempt was made to crush the new journal by an insinuation that it owed its existence to funds provided by the minister of the Interior and its real object was the disintegration of the socialist party.

Start Rival Newspaper.
The Socialists, who represented the extreme revolutionaries of the party determined to get a hearing for their ideas and started a rival newspaper, the "Azione." This enterprise was naturally displeasing to the directors and supporters of the Avanti and an attempt was made to crush the new journal by an insinuation that it owed its existence to funds provided by the minister of the Interior and its real object was the disintegration of the socialist party.

It matters very little where the Azione obtained the funds for its existence. It was hardly known to be living until the Avanti denounced it. It is probable that it would not have lived long in any case. What is of importance, however, to the socialists party is the revelation made on both newspapers of the seamy side of its organization. The Socialists in their last manifesto accuse their rivals of hurrying a dying man to an honored grave. The Socialists deny that their party is a decadent party, but there is little doubt, but that its hold on the Italian working classes has notably weakened during the last year.

Although Queen Elena's absence from the launch of the new Italian warship at Spezia was said to be due to slight indisposition, the Tribune is authority for the statement that a domestic quarrel is responsible.

King Victor Has Guests.
Prince Danilo of Montenegro, the queen's brother, and his mother were recently the guests of King Victor at the Quirinal. Last month a political dissension arose in which the prince greatly differed from the king, and, carried away by his excitable temperament, he seems to have treated the latter rather rudely. The king resented the behavior of the prince to such an extent as to ask when he intended to leave Italy. Next morning the prince and his mother returned to Montenegro.

Queen Elena, according to the reports, was so vexed with the incident that she begged the king to excuse her from attending the ceremonies attendant upon the launching of the new warship. The king reports are correct as far as they go and to this royal quarrel, it must have taken a great deal to disturb his equanimity.

Owing to the crowds of visitors in Rome during the winter season the prices of commodities have trebled in recent years. Rents even have reached an exorbitant figure. A mass meeting has just been held to protest against the high cost of living, which has caused those with small wages and salaries—the bulk of the inhabitants, especially government clerks—to suffer severely.

NO ROUTE AROUND RECORDS
Peculiar Dilemma Parisian Swain Found When He Tried to Make One.

PARIS, May 18.—(Special.)—The banns were published a month ago at the church of Malherbe in the Faubourg and the wedding was to have come off forthwith. Cousins came from the country round to stop at the house of the bride's father on the eve of the marriage. But at 11 o'clock at night an unbidden guest knocked at the door. It was the schoolmaster, breathless, who is also clerk of the registry. He was agitated and seemed to have run some distance. "I forbid the banns," he gasped "or rather I don't think so. For his part he could but continue to abide by the law."

The register of births said she was boy and a boy, she remained administratively. In fact she would be called up for military service this year. The young couple, their parents and their cousins thought the joke had lasted long enough, but it was no joke and it is not yet over. Two days have been spent in fruitless efforts to get round the registry clerk. The sworn evidence of the father and mother are of no avail. The girl is a boy in the books, and cannot be married to a party of the same legal sex as herself. The mayor acknowledges that on the face of it a mistake seems to have been made when her or his birth was registered. But it is exceedingly difficult to correct an official error. Until that is done there can be no wedding, at least administratively of the lady and the man. It follows that she could legally be married to another lady without any possible objection from the registry clerk. Another feature is that if she does not soon disentangle herself from the middle she will soon be captured by the conscription.

Going--Going--Gone!

A Parable

THERE was once a Bright Looking Suit that was the pride of its Maker—
It certainly was a Swell Looker—was that Suit—and the part that tickled its Maker almost to a Finish was the Fact that it didn't Cost a great deal to Make.

The Tailoring part had been practically nothing at all—but of course, when the Suit had Come from the Mill it was a Shame—
But that was only for a Brief Moment—Old Dr. Goose soon put it to Rights and then very Properly Claimed all the Credit for Himself.

But alas, our Fine Looking Suit did not retain its Correct Appearance for long—
For you see, Dr. Goose's work was Lacking in Permanence—it Could not be expected that a Mere Dressing would overcome Actual Defects in Workmanship, you know——And what, as Dr. Goose's Horror when he found, at the end of a Couple of Weeks, that his fine looking Suit was surely on the Blink.

And when still Later it became very, very Bad—why the old Plat In turned very, very Tracks and fled indignantly—(what-ever that is).

Now the Moral to this little tale is plain as the Nose on your Face.
You Can't expect a poorly Made Suit to hold its Shape, no matter how Expert the Hot Pressing Iron—
For the only way to put Shape Permanence into a Suit is to Build it Right—
There are a Few Suits Built Right—
About twenty per cent—that's all—
And among these Rightly Built Suits, Standing "way up at the Top, are "Sincerity" Suits.

"Sincerity" Suits have the Right kind of Cutting—
"Sincerity" Suits are cut to insure Fit—Style and Shape Permanence.
Then "Sincerity" Suits are made by Expert Needleworkers—who see intelligently to insure Fit—Style and Shape Permanence.
—That's why Old Dr. Goose's work is not necessary in "Sincerity" Suits.
And that's why "Sincerity" Suits hold their Shape and look Good until you're anxious to buy a new suit.

See "Sincerity" Suits at your highest-class ready-to-put-on Clothing Dealer's for yourself—You don't have to buy if you don't want to—Be sure the label below in each Coat—It insures Style, Service and Satisfaction.
