Among other questions to be considered during the convention will be that of the relation of brewers as owners of saloon locations to the operators of the saloons and the question of license and responsibility. Another important feature to be considered is that which by recent legislation prohibits the retailer from doing a wholesale or storage business, particularly of malt goods. Many of the retailers throughout the state are agents of foreign | 14 to be Flag day and asked for a general brewery companies and wholesaled from their storage plants heretofore. The new law prohibits this practice, but requires the retailer to buy direct from the whole saler and brewer in quantities as needed for their retail trade. The retailers hold that this law is unjust, especially in the smaller towns, as it involves extra freight bills, and deprives them of the profit of Friday evening. The university has had buying liquors in quantities, but at the same time gives the wholesaler the right reaching a higher number each year. There to do a retail business

Clash Between Counsel. Hawley spoke for nearly an hour and a half to a court room crowded, but silent; to a jury which, sitting upright, watched for every word; to a prisoner who, with his family around him, was several times moved to deep emotion as the prosecutor pronounced the charges. Counsel for the defense opened fire before the statement had proceeded ten minutes, and the repetition of objetions from them led to three or four sharp exchanges. They protested against the charge that the federation was guilty of "scores of murders" and the assertion that the conspiracy extended back to the first trouble in north Idaho, which was years before the accused was a mem-Mr. Hawley of arguing the case in an Alvordopening statement. Bit of History of the Case.

When it came to the appointment of appraisers the Omaha Water company appointed George H. Bezenberg, and the city, represented by the Water board, named John W. Alvord, and these two selected Daniel W. Mead (three civil engineers). The first meeting of the appraisers was held in Omaha on July 30, 1903. At that meeting the board organized by electing Mr. Mend chairman and Mr. Alvord secretary. The board began taking testimony and concluded its series of sessions on December 31, 1904. At this time attorneys for both sides made oral statements and submitted printed briefs. These matters were taken under consideration by the ap# praisers.

It was July 7, 1906, that the appraisal was determined and signed by Mr. Mead ber of the organization, and they accused and Mr. Bezenberg and disapproved by Mr.
