to Wallace, Idaho, where Orchard decided to get rid of the Peabody bomb. Simpson had said it was a dangerous thing to be around, and he thought it had better be thrown away. Orchard said he gave the bomb to a friend named Cunningham to dispose of in the river.

Arrested at Caldwell for a second time, Orchard said he registered himself as Hogan and Simpson as Simmons. Orchard identified his writing in the Pacific hotel register introduced in evidence yesterday.

Steuernberg Is Killed. "We tried to locate Governor Steuernberg at once," said Orchard, "but could not. We went to his residence several times and then finally saw him in the Saratoga hotel one Sunday evening. In the meantime we had fixed up the bomb, so Simpson and I took the bomb out at once and set it under the sidewalk with a string stretched across the walk so that he struck it. It would open the bottle of sulphuric acid. We went back to the hotel to wait, but heard nothing. After two or three hours we went out and got the bomb. We found some one had broken the string, but had not used the bottle. We hid the bomb in some weeds. The bomb was made in a wooden box just big enough to hold ten pounds of powder.

"Next day Simpson concluded he had better not stay around any longer for he had seen several persons who knew him. He thought it might be hard with me if I was caught in his company. He said I had better remain in the hotel and wait until I finally located Governor Steuernberg on Christmas night, 1906, and taking the sawed-off pump shotgun Pettibone had given me, I went out to his house. I heard the governor coming and tried to get the two parts of the gun together, but had not succeeded before he entered the house. I then went down town again.

"The next time I saw the governor he was sitting in the Saratoga hotel. I went up to my room and got the bomb and hurried out to the Steuernberg house and started back to the hotel. When about two blocks away I met Steuernberg on his way home. I ran as fast as I could toward the hotel, but had not reached it when the explosion occurred. I remained at the hotel until Monday, when I was arrested."

"Monday, when I was arrested," Orchard said, "I was taken to the jail and held there until Tuesday. Then for the first time the witness came to the Steuernberg case.

Reach Steuernberg Plot. "Haywood suggested," he said, "that we ought to get ex-Governor Steuernberg, who knew too much about the independence depot affair and was demanding money, said Orchard. Then for the first time the witness came to the Steuernberg case.

"I told him jokingly that it was a bomb and I was going to put it under Peabody if I got a chance," Orchard went on. "But when I reported this conversation to Pettibone he told me I had better not try it on Peabody at that time. He said, however, that he wanted something pulled off before the convention for the money would spend."

"Pettibone and I then went to work on preparing a bomb for Judge Gabbert. We made it out of a half gallon apron case, using ten pounds of giant powder.

Innocent Man Killed. "Pettibone and I planted the bomb on a vacant lot, which Judge Gabbert crossed on his way home. We left a wire out of the bomb and to this we intended fastening a pocketbook, the idea being that Judge Gabbert would pick up the purse and thus use the bottle of sulphuric acid inside the purse. But Judge Gabbert came too fast and we had to leave it alone.

"Pettibone had to go next day to Salt Lake to attend the convention of the Western Federation of Miners, leaving me to attend to Judge Gabbert. He said we must certainly do something before the convention. I was afraid to touch the old bomb, so I prepared a new one. As Judge Gabbert started out the next morning I rode ahead of him on a bicycle and fastened the pocketbook to the wire. I rode off down town and did not hear an explosion until an hour afterward. A man named Wally had picked up the pocketbook and was killed. Judge Gabbert had passed without noticing it."

Sherman Bell Was Marked. "When he reported the result to Pettibone the latter said it was 'hard luck.' Orchard told the details of his movements almost day by day, stretching his narrative out to great length. He said he had selected for attack was Sherman Bell, former adjutant general of Colorado, who had been instrumental in breaking up a strike. Orchard said it was decided to buy a rig and drive out to Bell's house. He took Haywood with him and then bought it for $115. The bill of sale was made out in Pettibone's name. He and Pettibone drove out to Bell's house several nights in succession. About this time Meyer returned to Colorado, and when he found out what was going on ordered it stopped. Meyer, Orchard declared, said he did not want anything pulled off in Denver while he was there, as he would surely be come to Boise whenever desired. It was something of a hardship to come just at this time, as our convention meets June 10 and I should be at Denver at that time. I am ready to take the stand any time. I had intended coming back as a witness for the defense anyway."

DENVER, June 6.—"Nothing to which Harry Orchard may testify will surprise us," said C. E. Mahoney, acting president of the Western Federation of Miners, today. "He probably has committed all the crimes to which he lays claim, but neither he nor the state will be able to implicate the Western Federation or its officers in any way, being connected with his criminal acts."

Noran Enters Denial. CHETENNE, Wyo., June 6.—Pat Moran, the Cheyenne saloon keeper mentioned in Harry Orchard's testimony at Boise yesterday as having gone to Denver to get $500 from Pettibone for Orchard and Neville, denied in an interview that he ever saw Orchard or ever went to Denver for him or any one else on such an errand.

THIEF CAUGHT IN WOLF TRAP. Boy Makes Confession to Having Perpetrated Number of Robberies.

MITCHELL, S. D., June 6.—(Special Telegram.)—Walter Vandenberg, a lad 13 years old, was arrested this afternoon on the charge of burglary, after evading the officers since last night. A dozen small burglaries have been pulled off in the last two weeks and no clue could be found. Last night four wolf traps were placed behind a meat market, which had been robbed three times since Sunday, and Vandenberg made his fourth attempt to rob the market. While crawling on his hands and knees his hand struck and sprung one of the traps, catching his fingers.

He had robbed another meat market three times, aside from two hardware stores. The boy made a confession when arrested, implicating another boy and a man.

By the agreement, the men will resume work at a wage of $15 per day of eight hours, working under the conditions for ninety days, at the end of which the wage of $15 and an eight-hour day will be granted them.

DAINTY FOOD. Turns Pale Checks to Pink. Our best physicians of the present day seek to cure patients by the use of food, rather than drugs, and this is the true method, for all physicians agree that only from food can the body be rebuilt.

Many people fail to give their physicians credit, for after living on poorly selected or badly cooked food for a long time, perhaps, and when their ailments become chronic, they expect the doctor, with some magic potency, to instantly rebuild them. This is not possible. The only true method is to turn as quickly as can be, to proper food. A Cincinnati, O., man says: 'I was variously treated for my nerves, muscles, lungs, etc., but the treatment gave me no relief from my ails. Finally, my appetite failed completely and I began to have sinking spells similar to fainting. I took all manner of tonics and stimulants, but they were no effect. I had been brought to quit drinking coffee and taking Postum Food Coffee in its place, and gradually began to get a little better.'

"Someone suggested that if I found Postum so beneficial I had better use Grape-Nuts food, as they were both the children of one brain. I commenced using Grape-Nuts food for breakfast, having Postum with it. I found the food so dainty, delicious, and appetizing that I always looked forward to breakfast with pleasure. 'Shortly after commencing this diet, my weight began to increase, my nerves were healed, and now, I have gone entirely, also the sinking spells; in fact, my pale cheeks have changed to pink. I have gained back more than the twenty pounds I lost, and am thoroughly well in every way.' Read 'The Road to Wellville,' in pages 'There's a Reason.'

Kirwan at Boise. James Kirwan, acting secretary and treasurer of the Western Federation of Miners, during the enforced absence of Haywood, who still retains title to the position, arrived in Boise from Denver this morning. Kirwan came in response to a telegram from James H. Hawley, senior counsel for the state. Kirwan was served with telegraphic subpoenas some weeks ago, while returning to Denver from a trip to this city.

"I was advised," he said this morning, "that the service of such a subpoena was legal, but to show nothing to counsel. I informed the prosecution I would

HEARST AND THE FARMERS

Charley Walsh Attends Convention of Society of Equity.

SAID TO BE IN EDITOR'S BEHALF

President Everett Denies that Independence League Man is Here to Organize His Association into Political Campaign Clubs.

The fact that Charles A. Walsh of Ottumwa, Ia., and New York City, has been attending the convention of the American Society of Equity, department of grain growers, at the Lyric theater has given rise to the rumor that the organization of farmers of which J. A. Everett of Indianapolis is the head, has a political significance and may be introduced at the proper time in the interests of W. R. Hearst. Mr. Walsh, secretary of the national democratic committee under James K. Jones, chairman, has for some time been traveling over the country. It is said, quietly organizing Independence League clubs, and William Randolph Hearst is the originator of the Independence League movement. Mr. Hearst is also a recognized aspirant for presidential honors.

Mr. Walsh kept his attendance upon the convention secret from the public. He came Tuesday and left early Thursday morning in response to a telegram, the news of which in his family. But President Everett emphatically denies Mr. Walsh was here to influence his organization politically.

"It is true," Mr. Everett was asked, "that Charley Walsh was out here to organize Hearst clubs in your association?" "Not a word of truth in it, sir," was Mr. Everett's unequivocal answer. "Mr. Walsh was here, but I understood he was representing a Chicago newspaper and that alone."

May Go Into Politics. While spurning the idea that the Society of Equity was a political organization, directly or indirectly, Mr. Everett acknowledged that "perhaps when this organization attains a membership of 1,000,000, as it will in time, it may have more or less power or influence in politics. Any body of 1,000,000 farmers would naturally be equipped with potential political power or power of any other sort in whatever direction it sought to use it. But don't get the idea that this is a Hearst organization, or any other one of the kind. It is a body of farmers working for the best interests of the farmer."

If, as is believed by some of Mr. Walsh's political friends here, his presence at the convention was in the Hearst interest, he succeeded in playing his final Italian hand in the smoothest fashion. For the convention delegates, many of whom now recall having conferred with him, appear utterly ignorant of his political mission.

Wendell Stirs Things. The convention proceedings became unusually animated just before the noon adjournment Thursday, when Delegate Wendell of Chicago, who has gained some fame recently by his economic writings, started for the platform. As if by instinct, the suspicion that he was about to inject politics into the meetings showed itself and, although the chairman, J. K. Kemper of Virginia, had announced there was still twenty-five minutes before adjournment and suggested Mr. Wendell speak, there was a mixture of cheers and yells of "no." The chairman himself was in doubt as to the sentiment of the body. Finally one big fellow said he wanted to hear him talk for twenty-five minutes. Some others who feared that Wendell was going to put something political into his address were quite willing to hold him down to the ten or fifteen minutes, which would be allowed him before adjournment time. The matter was finally settled by holding him off until afternoon.

President Everett Speaks. President Everett delivered his address Thursday morning. His talk was descriptive of the purposes of the society, which he held were to obtain fair and equitable prices for all the crops of the farm, orchard and garden, and particularly as regards the grain growers, whereby the producer should be in a position to control such crops and direct their pricing and marketing. He held the farmers are under no legal or moral obligation to feed the balance of the world at unfairly low prices. He urged the farmers should not dump their crops during the year 1907, nor plough them before they are grown to the speculators, but if they must plough them, to plough them to the American Society of Equity to direct the marketing, then only method, and the farmer should be satisfied when the society directs. If they must be tied up, tie the crops up on their farms or in elevators and warehouses, owned and controlled by the farmers.

The drafting of a constitution and by-laws took up the afternoon session of the convention until 6 o'clock, when the meeting adjourned. It will be called to order again at 8 o'clock Friday morning at the Lyric theater, and the matter of the constitution pushed through and voted on. Resolutions will also be drawn up before the close of the convention, which will be the remainder of the day.

This is the first gathering of the grain growers' branch of the National Equity society.
