The Board of Fire and Police commissioners took up the case of John Hannigan according to agreement Saturday afternoon on a motion of W. C. Lambert...

Joseph Urvik immediately asked that the board pass on his license, which had also been protested. The board agreed to fix a time when the hearing might be held.

Shotwell-Condon Wedding.

One of the most pretentious weddings of the season that of Abel S. Shotwell and Miss Hilda Condon, was solemnized last night at the First Presbyterian church...

At 8:10 the folding doors at the back were opened to admit the bridal party, for whom the groom was waiting at the altar, accompanied by his best man, Ralph Rainey of Omaha.

After the ceremony a wedding reception was given at the residence of W. C. Lambert, whose wife is a sister to Mrs. Shotwell.

The bride wore a gown of thin, pure white sheer material trimmed in val lace and Mechline embroidery, made up in a semi-princess style.

The bride and groom will attend a house party in the state and will be at home in Omaha in about two weeks.

LINE OPENED WITH SHOUTS

New Street Car Track to South Omaha Dedicated by Southwest Improvers.

With banners flying and the four corners of Twenty-fourth and Leavenworth streets radiant with flags and bunting, the formal opening of the South Twenty-fourth street car line was celebrated Saturday afternoon under the auspices of the South-west Improvement club, through whose persistent energy and agitation the new car line to South Omaha has become a realization.

A great throng of people of all ages and sexes assembled at Twenty-fourth and Leavenworth streets and a large banner was swung across Twenty-fourth street bearing the words, "Southwest Improvement Club Celebrating the Opening of South Twenty-fourth street."

Four special street cars were provided to take the club and its friends to the intersection of Twenty-fourth and Vinton streets and the quartet of cars, crowded to their utmost capacity, started shortly before 3 o'clock southward amid the cheers of the throng of spectators.

On two of the cars were banners similar to that which was swinging across Twenty-fourth street. With the excursionists were Mayor and Mrs. Dahlman, the officers of the club and about 100 members of the club, wearing red silk badges, on which were printed "1883, Southwest Improvement Club, 1907."

The run to South Omaha was made in about twenty minutes. A rope was stretched across the street at the end of the line, indicating the portals of South Omaha.

Mayor Dahlman then cut the rope with his knife, and remarked: "We will take our chances of Mayor Hoctor putting us in jail while we are here."

Mayor Hoctor of South Omaha was then introduced by President Scott, and said: "I feel it an especial pleasure to meet with you here today to celebrate this event, for which you have fought so long and hard."

The excursionists rode down through South Omaha and returning by way of Twenty-fourth street, took the North Twenty-fourth street line to Ames avenue and returned by way of Sherman avenue and finally disembarked again at Twenty-fourth and Leavenworth streets.

CUNNING CHINESE SMUGGLERS

"Ways that Are Dark" Shown by the Tribes in Monterey Bay.

A stupendous international swindle, in which a band of Chinese smugglers have for years been making fortunes by packing opium in the trunks of Chinese immigrants and shipping it into the orient without paying heavy import duties, has just been uncovered at Monterey, Cal.

The remarkable feature of the graft is that several hundred Chinese have participated in it. They do not even know that they are smuggling opium, but they are getting rich as high as $15 and $20 a day. So close-mouthed are the smugglers that the whole scheme has gone on for years undetected.

Some years ago the people of Monterey noticed a small colony of Chinese which had established itself on the beach just outside the town. All through the dark hours of the night these Chinese men, women and children could be seen fishing in Monterey bay. Each little boat was provided with a torch, the light of which cast weird shadows in the gloom of the night. This colony became world-famous and every tourist doing California was taken down to see the midnight fishing scene.

It was soon found that the Chinese were catching a small fish which came to the surface of the bay only at night. It is considered when dried a great delicacy for the Chinese palate. Apparently the fishermen in the Monterey colony were very humble followers of the sea, but further investigation proved that a drop scheme to defraud the Chinese government was at the bottom of their industry.

In some parts of China the duty on salt is so high as to make the importing of it prohibitive. To get around this law, the Chinese smugglers of Monterey shipped thousands upon thousands of pounds every year in barrels, one layer of solid and four layers of salt. In this way not only did the importer in the far orient receive a valuable consignment of salt, but also an invaluable consignment of salt, which passed in free from the enormous duty.

But the salt colony in Monterey increased and multiplied at such a rate and the stench arising from the fish which half the time were not shipped, until it became so unbearable that the Chinese population was so terrible that the whole town rose up in rebellion. An investigation resulted in an exposure of the smuggling, the facts of which were furnished the Chinese government, with the result that the picturesque little fishing village will soon be a thing of the past.—San Francisco Chronicle.

Memberships in Y. M. C. A. OMAHA, June 23.—To the Editor of The Bee: In this morning's Bee appears a question regarding active membership in the Young Men's Christian association.

The inquirer asks: "Can a Catholic, a Jew, or a Unitarian hold active membership in the Young Men's Christian association?" You are "inasmuch as both Jews and Catholics are members at present, it is quite likely that a Unitarian can join, and it may be that some members of that faith are enrolled. Some of the members make no profession of religion. The organization is strictly non-sectarian."

Your answer does not square with the constitution of the Young Men's Christian association, as published by the international committee of Young Men's Christian association, dated 1883. Just to keep the record straight, I quote section 1, article II, entitled "Membership," as follows: "The members shall consist of young men, and shall be divided into two classes, viz: active and associate. Only young men over 18 years of age, who are members in good standing of Evangelical churches (the word Evangelical is to be understood as defined by the international convention at Portland in 1883) shall be eligible to active membership; but any young man over 18 years of age, of good moral character, may be elected an associate member. Both classes shall carry like privileges, except that voting and holding office shall be conferred to active members."

HAGUE DELEGATES AT WORK

Machinery of Convention is Moving with Greatest Satisfaction.

ADDRESS BY M. BOURGEOIS

President of First Committee Reviews Results of First Treaty and Pleads for Wider Arbitration Agreement.

THE HAGUE, June 23.—A leading plenipotentiary, speaking tonight on the situation at the peace conference, said to the Associated Press: "The machinery is now moving to the greatest satisfaction, as all the countries are sincerely animated by a desire for a reciprocal understanding which will avoid irritating questions, tending for each problem a formula beforehand acceptable to all. Thus the discussions will certainly be attended by earnest endeavor without disagreeable incidents."

"The success of this system has been rendered easier by the delegations being entrusted to the most tactful and most distinguished men. Therefore the American proposition, relating to contracted debts, which contemplates only those between private citizens of one country and the government of another, it is predicted, will be adopted with a few slight amendments."

M. Bourgeois, president of the first committee, delivered an eloquent speech today in favor of the principle of arbitration and produced an excellent impression. He gave a detailed survey of the arbitration convention of 1889, which has been recently adhered to by seventeen additional nations. He expressed gratitude to Andrew Carnegie for his donation of the peace palace and said since the opening of the arbitration court the experience of all nations had shown that the working of arbitration might become daily more simple. As a natural result of it, he said, justice had entered the domain of practical reality. Public opinion of nations had quickly grasped it and governments had become accustomed to it.

The results of the establishment of the court were seen in the thirty-third arbitration which had been concluded since 1899 and a series of incidents which M. Bourgeois recounted. The North sea incident and the Venezuela affair, he pointed out, were along the cases dealt with by the Hague court.

M. Bourgeois paid a graceful compliment to the United States and President Roosevelt for their part in settling in motion the new jurisdiction. Regarding the task before the commission of perfecting the rules of 1899 he observed that the rules of 1899 might be defined to a kind of summary of procedure.

Second Committee Divided. The second committee was divided into two subcommittees. One, presided over by M. Bernaert, will deal with the amelioration of the rules of land warfare. The other, presided over by M. Asser, will deal with the rights and duties of neutral powers in times of war and also with the opening of hostilities.

In the first committee M. De La Barra, minister of Mexico to Belgium, read an important statement on the subject of inventions for compulsory arbitration which was received with general applause.

The German and English delegations presented separate propositions on the subject of the proposed international prize and the French delegation presented a project on the subject of arbitration.

The first committee was also divided into two subcommittees, both presided over by M. Bourgeois, one on arbitration and the other on the peaceful settlement of disputes. In the second committee the English delegation announced the presentation of two projects, one referring to the rights and duties of neutral powers and the other to the opening of hostilities.

The Russian delegation presented a proposition on the subject of the opening of hostilities. The committee, evidently in order to avoid hurting the feelings of the Japanese, concluded that up to the present there is no existing international understanding on the subject of the opening of hostilities, holding that each country should settle its own rules in this connection is correct. The committee must therefore decide whether to maintain the status quo or establish international rules for the opening of hostilities.

The German delegation presented a proposition regarding the treatment of neutrals in the territory of belligerents. In the second committee General Horace Porter presented a proposition not to collect debts by force whenever the debtor nation expresses a wish to submit its obligations to arbitration.

German proposals in agreement to the rules of the conference of 1899 regarding the peaceful settlement of disputes. Baron D'Estournelles De Constant proposed an amendment to the rules of 1899 regarding commissions of inquiry and also recommended the simplification of the procedure.

Senator Barrs suggested that the resolutions of the conference held in Mexico in 1889 of the conference of Rio Janeiro of 1902 and the conventions existing between South American countries be utilized in drawing up a compulsory convention.

LAND FRAUDS IN COLORADO

Seventy Indictments Are Returned Against Prominent Men.

MISSOURIANS PLEAD GUILTY

Men Charged with Trying to Get Fraudulent Title to Rosebud Lands Fined and Sent to Jail.

DENVER, June 23.—As a result of the work of the special grand jury, which closed its session Saturday afternoon and reported to Judge Lewis, about seventy indictments against men prominent in Colorado, Nebraska, New Mexico, Nevada, and eastern states, were returned for coal and timber frauds, although a few alleged mining claims and a couple of cases of postoffice robberies were also included in the list.

As a result of the Rout county frauds, a coal mining company of Wisconsin will have to answer for alleged thefts on a wholesale basis, and a St. Louis corporation is said to be indicted for coal operations in Colorado. Other states also are represented in the list of indictments.

Missouri Men Plead Guilty. WASHINGTON, June 23.—Information was today received at the general land office that B. F. Jetter and C. E. Van Treas, who were indicted and pleaded guilty before the United States district court before the western district of Missouri, and have been fined $1,000 each and sentenced to four months in jail for conspiracy, under section 540 of the United States revised statutes.

The men in conjunction with one other person, all of Butler, Mo., at the time of the opening of the Rosebud Indian reservation in South Dakota, last year, secured a number of soldiers' declaratory statements, which, as agents of the soldiers they offered for filing. At the same time they secured promises of relinquishments from the soldiers in case the soldiers were lucky enough to draw a number, the idea being to secure purchasers for the soldiers' rights, and it was charged, defrauded the government by cutting out bona fide entrymen.

The land office has also been notified that there is a similar scheme in process of formation for the opening of the land to be made capable of irrigation under the Huntley project in the Billings, Mont., land district, which will soon be made available.

Charged with Illegal Fencing. LOS ANGELES, June 23.—E. M. Durant, a wealthy land owner of Tropic, and his foreman, William S. Doyle, were indicted yesterday, and arrested on the charge of the fencing 6,700 acres of the public domain.

SLEEPING IN THE OPEN AIR

Essential Part of Right Living the Basis of Health and Happiness.

Outdoor sleeping is today in its infancy. But if a prophetic word may be ventured, the time is coming in a few years hence when it will be regarded more favorably and will become an almost universal practice. Houses and living apartments will be planned and built with this end in view. Just as the more sanitary, better ventilated, and larger bed rooms of the present have been secured to and superseded the dark, curtained cubbyholes of our grandfathers.

Man is gradually awakening to the fact that an ounce of preventive medicine is worth several pounds of curative treatments. When he gets his eyes wide open to this fact, and has aroused himself from the lethargic condition which he maintains at present toward the startling mortality rate of easily eradicable diseases, we may expect to see some of the carelessness and indifference in regard to hygienic methods of right living give place to wisdom and common sense—thus materially prolonging life and making it more livable while it exists.

Then, like our hardy primeval ancestors, man more frequently will seek his rest beneath the blue-arched sky, where sleep is sweet and healthful and the lungs can refresh themselves with rejuvenating air.—Saturday Evening Post.
