BUSINESS MEN BOOST Y. M. C. A.

Mayor, P. E. Her, F. A. Nash, G. W. Wattles Pull for It. CARPENTER GIVES ONE THOUSAND Increases His Subscription to Building Fund and Says Directors Will Add Five Thousand Dollars.

Hundreds of the leading business men of Omaha gathered at the Young Men's Christian association building Tuesday noon, many remaining for lunch, to assist by their presence and money in the campaign for raising the $50,000 debt which remains on the association building. In the lunch room on the third floor fifty business men sat around three large tables and after the luncheon several impromptu speeches were made.

C. S. Ward, field secretary of the Young Men's Christian association, told of the campaign he had been in since the Omaha campaign two years ago. He assured the business men that the records of other cities showed a second campaign could be made a success. I. W. Carpenter acted as toastmaster and prefaced his remarks by saying he had decided to give another $1,000 to what he had already donated to the building fund. He also said the Young Men's Christian association directors had decided to give an additional $5,000. F. A. Nash spoke enthusiastically of the work of the Young Men's Christian association. "There is not one part of sentiment with me when I say I am for this institution," said Mr. Nash. "It is a cold-blooded business proposition. When the 150 young men who are in the building I know they are in the best of company. I have come to the conclusion it is a great benefit to my business. I know the corporations I represent will do their share in raising the debt, but what they will give I will have to announce later."

MILLION DOLLAR THEATER

Building to Be Erected by Klaw & Erlanger. SEVENTEENTH AND HARNEY SITE Marc Klaw of Big New York Theatrical Company, Now in Omaha, Makes This Announcement.

"We have practically settled upon building a $1,000,000 theater in Omaha," said Marc Klaw, Jr., of Klaw & Erlanger of New York, at noon Tuesday to a Bee reporter. "We are about concluding negotiations for the purchase of the property at the corner of Seventeenth and Harney streets, immediately across Harney street from the Boyd theater. The new theater will be one of the largest and best in the west and will be unequalled by any theater between Chicago and San Francisco. It will be built somewhat after the style of McVicker's theater in Chicago. The theater will be built by outside capital and is not a local matter, but a national one, and will be owned and controlled by the theatrical syndicate, of which Klaw & Erlanger, Frohman and others of that class in the theatrical and managerial world, are representatives. This does not, of course, include our friend Helmsco."

Will Consult Architect "I shall consult with architects with reference to the building of the new theater, but cannot say just when work will be started on it. Some details necessarily remain yet to be arranged, but the theater is going to be built and that very soon. "We have also just concluded arrangements to bring some of the best grades of New York shows to the Boyd the coming season. These will run from three days to a week at moderate prices, not to exceed $1.50, though we might have to go as high as $2 in some cases. We will also arrange to give Lincoln, Grand Island, Fremont and the other Nebraska towns as good shows as their patronage will warrant. "I expect to close negotiations for the new theater property Wednesday. Incidentally I might say that I have not seen Mr. Woodward of the Boyd, as he left Omaha before or about the time of my arrival."

GENERAL RAIN HELPS CROPS

Ample Moisture Over Burlington System Makes Conditions First-Class. Rainfall was general throughout Nebraska last week, according to the soil and crop report of the Burlington for the Nebraska district. The soil is in good condition in the entire district. The wheat crop has done remarkably well in Nebraska during the last week. The straw has very materially lengthened and the grain is beginning to ripen. Some of the early wheat probably will be out in about a week. The most serious damage to winter wheat in the Nebraska division occurred along the south end of the Concordia branch and the southern part of the Kansas branches on the McCook division. In some places on the Kansas division the crop may not be 100 per cent of a full crop. Elsewhere throughout the district the indications now are the yield will be fully as good as previously predicted; that is to say, the damage generally will range 10 to 15 per cent, based on prospects in early spring, which were the best in an average year. On the McCook division they are now estimating a yield of from fifteen to thirty-five bushels per acre.

The weather has been favorable for oats and the crop has improved very materially. Indications now are for one-half crop to a fair crop of oats in Nebraska. The last week has been real corn weather and corn has made a good growth. The soil was in such condition that it could be cultivated most of the time and there is no unfavorable comment to make on the prospects for corn except that it is possibly a little later than the average. The indications for a good potato crop are excellent. Whatever beets are planted are in fair condition. The first crop of alfalfa was cut during the week in many places and varies from a light to a fair crop. The strawberry crop turned out to be fairly good.

Call on Licensor Dealers P. E. Her recommended that a committee be appointed to call on members of the Wholesale and also the Retail Liquor Dealers' associations to get them to subscribe to the building fund. "They are interested in this building, for it is of benefit to their children, and their money is just as good in erecting a building like this as though it had been made by preaching." Mayor Dahman said: "As to raising that $50,000, there is nothing to it. The people of Omaha will raise it. I have become interested in this movement and am going to do my part." Mr. Dahman told of the Young Men's Christian association at Chadron, how it was first brought to his notice by General Manager Bidwell of the Northwestern giving money to help support it. He said he asked Mr. Bidwell why he gave his money to that organization and Mr. Bidwell told him that when the young men who ran on his road were around that building they were in good company and more apt to get in early at night and always able to take their trains out on time the next day. "The only thing they do is to go good," is what Mr. Bidwell told me," added the mayor. "The habit of saving is acquired by successful business men early in life," said G. W. Wattles. "The habit of spending is not acquired as easily as saving. I never have an extra cent. My motto is, 'ask man for money to assist in a public institution. These institutions are not for the boards of directors nor for the president, but for the benefit of all and for the future. What are we all going to do with this money in a few years—hand it over to some one else to spend and live? The men in any community who hold the most liberal hands are the most prosperous. Look at John A. Creighton. He was always giving, and did any citizen of Omaha prosper more than he? He could not touch a mine but what there was gold in it. Nothing does a man as much good as the realization he has done good."

TRIBUTES TO G. W. LININGER

Two Concerns Pass Resolutions on Death of Beloved Man. Three organizations of which the late George W. Lininger was a member met and adopted resolutions upon his death within the last two days. At a meeting of the directors of The Bee Publishing company the following was adopted: "By death on June 8, 1907, of Hon. George W. Lininger, our newspaper has lost not only the services of one of its directors and an able and energetic manager, but also the services of a man whose suggestions have always proved sound and valuable. One of the original incorporators of The Bee Publishing company and almost continuously a director or officer, he has just now, in a most unexpected manner, been called to his eternal rest. Resolved, That this minute be spread upon the records of this company a testimonial of our esteem for the deceased and of our sorrow at his sudden departure from the world, and that a copy be transmitted to the widow as a token of our sympathy. It was decided not to fill his place on the board just now. The Bee Building company adopted the following: "Whereas, On June 8, 1907, occurred the death of George W. Lininger, president of the Omaha and Council Bluffs street railway company, who for many years, both as director and officer of this company, has given the benefit of his services to the city of Omaha by his experience and faithful service, of the greatest value in the management of its affairs; Resolved, That the board of directors extend to the family an expression of their sincere sympathy and respect. Resolved, That these resolutions be spread upon the minutes of this company and a copy sent to his bereaved family. WORK AT EAST END OF BRIDGE

Contract Let for Filling In of Embankments on Douglas Street. Lamereaux & Peterson have secured the contract from the Omaha and Council Bluffs Street Railway company for filling in the two embankments at the east end of the Douglas county bridge. The problem confronted the bridge company of rebuilding the trestle work on the east approach to the bridge or filling up with dirt and making it permanent. The latter course was chosen and work will begin at once. A new runway for the cars will be built as a cut-off from the end of the bridge proper to a point near the little station constructed for the benefit of the members of the Omaha Gun club. This will do away with the rails as they run down Broadway and around the curve. The present approach will be filled for the use of wagons and Broadway will be paved. An agreement has been reached between Council Bluffs and the Omaha and Council Bluffs Street Railway company whereby the city is to pave Broadway as far west as Thirty-seventh street and the street railway company will fill in the present bridge over the slough and pay for the paving from Thirty-seventh street to the slough bridge. The city will also be paving the street railway company will pay for it. This news will be welcome to automobilists and horse owners of Omaha and Council Bluffs as it will give a good roadway for driving between the two cities.

WILSON SAYS NOT JUST NOW

Secretary of Agriculture Discourages Laboratory for Omaha for the Present. The establishment of a chemical laboratory of the Department of Agriculture in Omaha for the analysis of food products under the pure food law is being vigorously pushed by the Nebraska representatives in congress, but has met with a temporary rebuff by Secretary Wilson of the department, who has notified the Nebraskians that no laboratory will be established at this time. Senator Norris Brown and Elmer Burkett, together with Representative Pollard and ex-Senator Millard, have strenuously urged upon the secretary the necessity of such a laboratory in Omaha, which would be of inestimable value toward the speedy administration of the pure food law in this commercial center. The movement originated with G. W. Hoobler of the Porter-Ryerson-Hoobler company and has been given support by the Omaha Commercial club. Telegrams and letters have been freely sent to the department for the establishment of the laboratory in Omaha, but in a letter to ex-Senator Millard, dated June 11, Secretary Wilson said: "I shall be glad to consider the advisability of establishing a laboratory in Omaha at some future time. For the present I can only say that we have as many laboratories in operation as we can handle and it is necessary to increase the number of laboratories when our work is more thoroughly organized. Senator Norris Brown has been advised of the position of Secretary Wilson in the premises and has promised that the matter will have his constant attention in the future."

MONEY TO PUSH NEW ROAD

Financial Backing Received for Omaha, Beatrice and Lincoln Interurban. New financial support with ample capital has been received from Chicago and Cleveland capitalists for completing the new interurban railroad, known as the Omaha, Beatrice & Lincoln company, from Omaha to Lincoln and Beatrice. When the former president of the company, Henry Robinson, died several months ago work on the new electric line was suspended, as the principal financial support came from Mr. Robinson. It is reported the Chicago and Cleveland capitalists have taken over the entire interests of Mr. Robinson in the company and that the new road will be pushed to completion as rapidly as possible. Roadway has been made and ties laid as far as Barry Mills from Omaha and several miles of track have been made from the Lincoln end, where the work stopped upon the death of the president. New supplies are now being obtained for beginning work again from the Barry Mills end. In the event the workmen have been engaged to prosecute the work at that place. The new road will have an unusually direct route to Lincoln, with mileage of only fifty-five miles, and the Beatrice extension will not be begun until the line from Omaha to Lincoln is completed. The estimated cost of the road plan to spend about $2,000,000 on the railroad, which will be operated entirely by electric power.

CASES IN FEDERAL COURT

New Suits Filed for Trial Involve Alleged Damages Against Railroads. These cases were filed in the United States court Tuesday morning: Joseph Accardo against the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific railway company, $10,000 damages for personal injuries; Joseph F. Murphy, administrator of the estate of Bernard Baumister, against the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific railway company for $10,000 damages caused by the death of Baumister at some point in Kansas by a collision. These two cases are transferred from the district court of Douglas county. Two other cases were filed: H. A. Ensign of New Jersey against school district No. 11 Dakota county, suit to recover $300 school district bonds owned by plaintiff; the Union Pacific Railroad company against Edgar H. Scott and others, suit in forcible entry and detainer, and for ejectment from two lots on Seward street in block L, the plaintiffs holding that they are the owners of the property and that the defendants refuse to surrender possession.

FIVE HUNDRED PER MONTH

Amount Named by Mrs. Pratt to Maintain Equilibrium in Social Scale. Mrs. Julia Montgomery Pratt, who recently returned from Boston to Omaha to prosecute her divorce case against Colonel James H. Pratt, has filed an affidavit in the district court declaring it will take $500 a month to support her in the manner in which she has been accustomed to live. The affidavit was filed in support of her motion for alimony, pending the trial of the case. She says while she was living with her husband her living expenses amounted to about $10,000 a year and she cannot live according to her station on less than $500. She says Colonel Pratt has never told her anything about his business affairs, but she estimates he is worth about $25,000. Since the separation she says she has been forced to borrow money and rent her house for means upon which to live. D. M. Vinaster of C. B. Cruise also filed affidavits saying it would cost $1,000 for attorney fees and court costs to prosecute the suit. The hearing on the motion for alimony has been set for Thursday morning in case Judge Kennedy is not otherwise engaged then. Have Root printed.
