NEW LONDON, Conn., June 27 .- Yale's varsity crew won a hard-rowed race against Harvard on the Thames river just as dusk was falling tonight by not much more than a length. The race apparently was won in the last half mile, in which the starters. Thirty-two professionals and nine the brawn in the Harvard boat. It was a amateurs were entered for the two days' grand race, rowed very fast for half the distance, when both crews began to slow up ner were paired and drove off promptly at from the effects of their exertions. The o'clock, being followed at brief intervals unofficial time for the four miles was: Yale, 21:10; Harvard, 21:13. Both crews finished in good condition and were able to pull over to their floats across sia and Baxter of La Grange, each making the river. The race was rowed up stream 78 for eighteen holes. Stewart Gardner after hours of delay owing to a gale of made 79, Simpson of Riverside 79, McLeod wind which finally died out with the sun. The 'varsity four-oared and freshman eight races have gone over until tomorrow.

NEW LONDON, Conn., June 27-A strong northwest breeze meeting the incoming tide on the Thames river caused a postponement of the morning events-the freshmen eights and 'varsity fours-until the afternoon tide, when they will be rowed immediately following the 'varsity eight event, which is scheduled for 1:30 p. m. The tidal conditions probably will compel the two crews to row down stream, as the 'varsity eight is scheduled to do. Over-night which had pulled in here before 10 o'clock have filled the city with a merry assemblage, which did not mind the postponement of the events when announcement was made. In hot, sultry weather the delays due to postponements have been distressing to personal comfort, but today's invigorating weather made everybody satisfied to while away the time by walking about the streets or taking trolley rides to nearby resorts. It was regarded as doubtful if the river would be quiet enough in the afternoon for any race. At Red Top Coach Wray had all the crews get ready for a morning paddle.

Will Race in Afternoon The announcement was made that the varsity eights would be called out at 1:30 and started as soon as possible after that time. At 3 o'clock, if possible, the freshmen eights would row from the upper mark to the navy yard and immediately following that race the 'varsity fours would start at the navy yard and finish at the bridge. Clear skies and a refreshing northwesterly breeze followed the storm of last night and early morning prospects for the annual races between Yale and Harvard universities were delightful, although some of the river men thought the breeze on the incoming tide might mean rather rough water on the upper reaches of the course, especially above the river bend at the navy yard. In the harbor the breeze made the bunting on the scores of yacht snap vigorously and the craft toss at their anchorages, but here the tow was rushing in strongly to lose its force a mile further up. In the city proper the wind was not strongly felt, but the carsmen in the rival camps, four miles above, shook their heads in some doubt as to the likelihood of rowing on the mountag tide

The freshmen eight event to start at the draw bridge and to finish at the navy yard two miles away was scheduled for 10 o'clock. A train load of spectators came into town almost before most Londoners had arisen. The early trains from New Haven brought the cohorts of Yale. Little Money on Outcome.

There was not a great deal doing in the betting line Harvard men had been looking for Yale money but after the shake-up in the varsity eight following the illness of Gordon Glass, even money offered by crimson was no particular inducement to Yale. The keeness of interest felt in the races by college men was shared by the people here for decorations of the store windows was more general than usual and street merchants peddled flags, balloons, horns, blue corn flowers and crimson carnations. The fleet of pleasure craft which included he Indian Harbor club of Greenwich did not appear as large as usual, yet the marine procession up through the drawbridge for about three hours was a grand spec tacle. The line of yachts extended from the bridge almost to the navy yard, all bright with moving color. At both the Yale and Harvard camps the night was restful and this morning the crews and their managers were equally confident of success. Harvard claimed and Yale conceded, that rough water would be a condition favoring the crimson in the eight oared varsity contest.

Assistant Manager Theodore Roosevelt jr., of Harvard, said the varsity men were full of fight and undismayed by the loss of Glass. It was recalled by a Yale expert that in surface roughness last year Yale's better form was unaviling because in the last half mile Harvard's strength overcame the choppy water. He thought the Yale four would win easily, the Harvard men would struggle through with a winning margin while the vareity race would depend on conditions.

REV. FRED T. ROUSE CALLED it in the For Exchange columns of The Wisconsin Man Asked to Accept Pulpit of First Congregational Church.

By a unalmous vote it was decided at a congregational meeting of the members of the First Congregational church Wednesday evening to extend a call to Rev. Fred crowds and the many heavily laden trains T. Rouse of Appleton, Wis., to fill the pastorate of the church, left vacant by the resignation of Rev. H. C. Herring. This decision was formally ratified in accordance with the rules of the church by the members of the church society, including all persons contributing to the support of the church and its work, and a formal call will be made immediately to Mr. Rouse, who has previously given an intimation that he will accept. The congregational meeting last evening at the church was largely attended, as it was realized that a crisis in the affairs of the church had been reached with the imminent selection of a new pastor. The meeting was presided over by Dr. A. B.

vacant pastorate and Mr. Rouse received the most favorable consideration from all concerned. He came to Omaha a few weeks ago and preached at two services. He is now pastor of the largest church in Wisconsin with regard to numbers and has a wide reputation as an organizer and able administrator of the business affairs of his pastorate. Considerable reputation has been acquired by Mr. Rouse as the organizar of Pourth.

"This bill." said the man of the house, angrily looking it over. "is two or three times as large as it ought to be."
"No, sir," insisted the paperhanger.
"That bill is exactly what it ought to be and exactly what it would have been if you had had these rooms decorated properly and in accordance with the scheme I submitted to you, sir. It isn't my fault that you turned it down and make me debase my art by doing a commonplace job. By the beard of the prophet, sir, I ought to have charged you four prices for having to do such a piece of botchwork as this!"

For, lo, has not a paperhanger as good a right as any other man to be the possessor of the artistic temperment!—Chicago Tribune.

You should not be deluded with the idea that diseases and allments of men will correct themselves—they seldom (if over) do. It is useless to worry about the past cause after the trouble becomes once established. The fact that it now exists makes it necessary that there should be no apathy, no delay, no experimenting, no deforring treatment will later on Special disparent. delay, no experimenting, no deferring treatment until later on. Special diseases and affections resulting therefrom should not
