KANSAS CITY, July 20 .- Both the Misourl and the Kaw rivers at Kansas City continue to come up and added reports of lamage came in this morning. The Misouri has risen half a foot since yesterday, reaching the 23.5-foot mark this morning. In the wholesale district in the west bot toms here the water has encroached a little farther inland this morning and basements on Union avenue were filled with water. In the east bottoms the water reached the floor of the new boat line warehouses at the foot of Main street, making it necessary to remove a quantity floated down the stream and the ferryboat was forced to stop running because of the strong current. Back water reached the homes of a hun dred truck farmers living in the lowlands of Quindaro, Kan., two miles northwest of Kansas City, and drove them to higher grounds. At Kaw Point and other low lying places within thirty miles cest and west of Kansas City, people have been forced to leave their homes and farms have been inundated. The Missouri is backing the Kaw and that stream is bank full and rising slowly. There is no current along this river, howver, and no damage has resulted. Weather Observer Connor today predicted that the Missouri would become stationary tonight after reaching close to the twenty-four-foot stage and that it would remain stationary until about Sunday night, when there would be a tendency to recede.

TROOPS DISPERSE THE MOB

Men Who Sought to Hang Convicted Italians Are Driven Away with Ease.

militiamen faced a mob of 100 would-be lynchers here early today and without firing a shot sent them peaceably back to New Orleans. Control over the meb was gained at the moment when an unequal fight threatened by a remark drawled in soft southern accent by a militiaman, who asked: "Any of you fellows got a cigarette?"

A laugh breezed over the crowd and with this break in the tension an ugiy altuation cleared.

The posse had arrived at Hahnville on a freight train. Rumors that a mob was coming had occasioned placing of extra sentries by the militia. The posse jumped from the freight at the railroad station. which is over a mile from the jail, covered two telegraph operators there with revolvers in order to prevent an alarm and then started for the jail.

A short distance from the sailroad station the lynchers suddenly were confronted by Major Wheat and a handful of his men. With the militiamen's guns leveled at their waists, the mob haited, revolvers and clubs held in menacing positions. Scarcely a man moved and not a word was spoken for nearly a minute and then the militiaman with the happy inspiration recalled the comradeship of both sides of his homely request for a smoke. Immediately a leader in the mob spoke up: "We want just a word with the cantain." Major Wheat replied that there would be no talking; that unless the mob marched he would give the order to fire.

This appeared to be what the mob had were crowded on a low trestle to jump into a creek. No one was hurt and the empty special was reloaded with the mob members and sent to New Orleans.

MAN TAKES WIFE AND CHILD

Marne, In., in Aroused Over Peculiar Departure of Mrs. Fred Hill.

ATLANTIC, In., July 20 .- (Special.) -- The town of Marno just west of here, is excited over what appears to have been a kidnaping or a very mysterious elopement of man the close friendship that existed between and wife after a separation of some weeks. A daughter of G. Hill of that place was married to Fred Hill some years ago, and ferences that came with free sliver and the two went to Nebraska to live. A child the Bryan leadership in 1896. When silver of goods stored there. Heavy driftwood was born to them, and they lived in happiness, until a few weeks after when Mrs. Hill, in looking over some old papers of her husband, discovered that he had been married before she became his wife and that the first wife was still living, though divorce had been secured. This legal formality had not been taken until after he had married Miss Graham and this made the second Mrs. Hill angry. She at once filed information against him for bigamy and came back to Marne to live with her parents bringing her child with her. As soon as the husband could secure bonds he followed her to Marne, arriving there last Sunday. He spent the entire day at the Graham place, in an apparent fruitless attempt at reconcilliation. About night, he came to the house again in a buggy, got his child beside him and either forced or induced his wife to get in the buggy with them, when they drove away and have not been heard of since. A war rant charging him with kidnaping has been sworn out, as parties who saw them drive away, declare that he forced his wife to get in the buggy with bim despite her

Owing to the vast number of friends left him in life, the family has consented to J. Cox of Montgomery City, Mo., the only sister of Mr. Paxton, who arrived Saturday Mrs. W. A. Paxton, jr., of Cleveland, O.; of the family. Many others are expected on the morning trains Sunday.

Mr. Paxton leaves a brother, Press Paxton at Montgomery City, Mo., but feeble health probably will prevent his attending the funeral.

Mr. Paxton's death deprives four large business enterprises in Omaha and South Omaha of presidents, the Union Stock Yards company, South Omaha; Paxton & Gallagher company, wholesale grocers: Paxton & Vierling Iron works and the Omaha Transfer company, Omaha. Though he had ceased much of his activity in the direction of all his business affairs he had not been able to divorce himself from them entirely and his associates depended vitally upon his keen business sense and judgment He was also director in other concerns

The directors of the Union Stock Yards company of South Omaha recognize William A. Paxton as the founder of the enterprise that has been of such material and lasting benefit to the city and state and record here in meeting assembled our appreciation of the earnest endeavor, intelligent management and unswerving devocition that ever characterized his action as the president of the corporation.

We sadly apread upon our record this tribute to his worth and extend to his widow and family our heartfelt sympathy in the affliction that has befallen them.

Paxton and Creighton. death of Mr. Paxton coming closely after that of Count Creighton calls to mind the two. This friendship was strong enough withstand the strain of political difbecame an issue Count Creighton sided with Bryan, while Mr. Paxton adhered firmly to the old faith and joined the gold democrats. Both were delegates to the Chicago convention in 1896, but they belonged to different delegations. Mr. Paxton was with the anti-Bryan crowd that was first given seats in the convention Count Creighton belonged to the contesting delegation The contest was the subject of consider able "joshing" between the two, Mr. Paxwho was in the convention offering mock sympathy to Count Creighton, who was trying to get in by throwing Mr. Paxton and his crowd out. When the convention finally seated the Creighton delegation, the tables were turned and Count Creighton then jokingly offered to furnish Mr. Paxton with seat tickets in the gallery Though afterward continued to affiliate with the opposing factions of the party, they remained the best of personal friends Smiles Calmly at the Panic.

Mr. Paxton suffered considerably under the stress of the "hard times" of 1810, but he took a philosophical view of the situation and hore up cheerfully in spite of conditions in the business and industrial world. One morning about 6:30, shortly after the crash, a young man who knew Mr. Paxton well, was coming from the depot, having just arrived in the city on an early train. He met Mr. Paxton, who accosted him.

"Well young man, what are you doing out so early?" he asked. "I just came in on an early train, but what are you doing out so early yourself?" "Oh, I have to get up early to hold onto what property I have left and to keep other people from getting it away from me," Mr. Paxton answered. Mr. Paxton's devotion to his cob pfpe, the friend of his youth, through all his years of prosperity was well-known his acquaintances. Thursday, the day of his death, he substituted for his old standby a beautifully carved pipe brought to him from England by C. N. Dietz, who returned from his trip abroad the day before. Mr. Dietz went to Mr. Paxton's home Thursday to make the presentation. Mr. Paxton was very much pleased that he had been reand filled the new pipe and had a smoke.

Courage When it Was Needed. Fearleseness was one of Mr. Faxton's characteristics, and it was to this quality be owed much of his success in early life. The ploneer days in Nebraska were such as tried the courage of the most hardy. Shooting scrapes were of frequent occurrence and the man who could be bluffed by show of firearms had no place in Omaha in its early years. Mr. Paxton, when in a remmiscent mood, could tell many interestadvertise it in The Bes Want Ad columns. ing stories of this period of his life. He enjoyed telling one incident which showed the sagacity of a large bound which used to be his constant companion and helper.

At that time Mr. Paxton had the contract for cutting timber for government road work and he got much of his material in the woods in what is now the Hanscom park district. The country around Omaha was terrorized by what was known as the "Claim club." a cotarie of man presulted to protect flings on government land which were not recognized by law. Some of the members had fictitious claims to the land from which Mr. Paxton was cutting his timber. One day when he took his gang to work he found the timbers they had cut the day before were all destroyed. In addition to this they were confronted by an irate claimant with a shotgun in his hands. The teamsters took to flight and left Mr. Paxton and his dog face to face with the man with the gun. Any attempt on the part of Mr. Paxton to draw his gun to protect himself would have resulted in a shooting scrape, so he stood still and silently signaled the dog. The huge animal walked slowly up to the claim owner, stood up on his hind legs placed his front feet on the man's shoulders and gave him a feroctous look. The man weakened and Mr. Paxton walked away afterward had to cut timber enough to replace what they had destroyed. Mr. Paxton, when he first came to Omaha, had offices in a little shack on Farnam street, where he laid the foundation for his fortune. He afterward lived on what is now the site of the city hall, having purchased it from Governor Saunders in the early 80's. He afterward constructed a model barn on the rear of his place, which was later removed to Twenty-eighth street, near Leavenworth, and was converted into a fire station by the city. One of his last acts was to assist James Paxton, a distant relative, into the position of manager of the Union Stock yards at South Omaha, to succeed W. J. C. Kenyon, Sorrow in Lincoln County.

SUTHERLAND, July 20.-(Special.)-The news of the sudden death of William A. Paxton, ar., was received here yesterday morning with profound sorrow, for the early history and subsequent development of Lincoln county is closely allied with the name of William A. Paxton, who has done more to develop the agricultural and stock interests of the county than any one other man. BOISE, July 20.-Continuing his argument and analysis of the evidence in the Haywood case today, J. H. Hawley took up to Orchard story of his experiences and criss inal record in Colorado, his trip to Wyoming and the attempt on the life of Fred Bradley of San Francisco.

With the utmost deliberation the leading counsel for the state charged wilful perjury against several witnesses. He argued the truth of Orchard's story and said that two men in particular might have been without further trouble. The claimants brought to contradict him, but that the defense was afraid to produce either Pettibone or Adams, and he said Adams had been brought to Boise from jail in Shoshone, county in order that the defense might use > him as a witness. White to the lips, Clarence Darrow sprang into action. "The statement is false and counsel knows it," he shouted. Hawley took a step closer to the defend table and, shaking his finger close to Dan-

The atmosphere here was charged with danger. Sheriff Hodgins stood up alert and his deputies drew closer in, but Judge Wood, with a sharp command and insistent warning, patched up a temporary

Bold Denunciation of Counsel. Mr. Hawley's argument this morning was lacking in all attempts at oratory. It was a dispassionate review of the evidence, with bold denunciation of the method of counsel and testimony of witnesses for the de-

Mr. Hawley first devoted his attention to the alleged attempt to wreck a train on the Florence & Cripple Creek railroad, This was one of the incidents of the Colorade labor troubles testified to by Harry

"This matter came out in Orchard's testmeny," said Mr. Hawley, "but it was absolutely immaterial to the issue here involved. But the defense has taken this incident and has tried to build up out of it a conspiracy on the part of the mine owners against the Western Federation of Miners. Orchard admitted that he had reported the alleged "Bill" Paxton as he was familiarly known, attempt to detectives in the employ of the mine owners association and to the railroad. The defense has brought two women witnesses here to testify that they saw Orchard in one of the detectives room on town and one of Lincoln county's most many occasions. These women saw this man, but casually over five years ago, but they come here and swear positively as to his visits. Such evidence as this speaks for itself.

No Palliation for Orchard.

Orchard evidently was trying to secure noney from all the sources he could and I am not going to defend him for his double dealing in taking money from both the Western Federation of Miners and the railroad company. I am not here to paint Harry Orchard in anything but his colors. There is but one claim we make for him and that is that he has told you the truth. This fact has been indelibily fixed by all the circumstances in the case,

Mr. Hawley said immediately after the Taking up the matter of the attempted assassination of Governor Peabody, Mr. several questions growing out of the recent Hawley repeated much of the testimony of Orchard as to the plans he and Steve Adams laid to kill the governor. Orchard's testimony was amply corroborated, council declared, Mrs. Peabody herself taking the mission, but Judge Harlan was the only stand to testify to one of the most important incidents.

> The particular element which produces the feeling of strength is the delicate particles of Phosphate of Potash, not the phosphate of the drug-store, but that which is prepared by Nature and furnished in the field grains. This delicate element, not observed by the taste, is used by Nature in connection with the albumen of food, to rebuild the gray matter in the nerva brain and solar-plexus, so that one thus nourished and rebuilt is very sure to feel the effects of this rebuilding within a week or ten days, and this feeling grows and becomes fixed as one becomes a steady, every-day user of Grapo-Nuts.
