made shore at Shelter Cove. It is probaable that these are the fifteen persons referred to in last night's disputches as being then on their way to Eureka and who the Pomona yenterday.

It is hoped that the loss of life will not be so heavy as at first reported. The Creek. exact number will not be known until complete accounts are brought in from Bryceland and Shelter Cove.

It is known that of 198 passengers reported by the company as sailing on the Columbia, ninety-seven were saved by the George W. Elder, which towed the San Pedro into Eureka.

Columbia and of these thirty-eight were lumbia. Their latest letters said they were on the Elder. Reports from Shelter Cove announced the arrival of one boat with fifteen more passengers and crew, leaving the total death roll at ninety-eight So far only one boat has arrived at Shelter Cove, although four were reported there. It was said that before the steamer sank four of her boats had been launched together with three life rafts. These have yet to be heard from and it is expected that steamers passing up and down the coast will succeed in picking them up with their living freight.

Explosion of Boilers Helped.

That so many escaped in accredited, strange to say, to the fact that the explosion of the bollers when the steamer was sinking, counteracted the tremendous suction and saved a lot of people who were in the water from being drawn into the vortex and down with the wreckage. The back wave from the sinking steamer threw many swimming for their lives back from the point of danger and gave them a chance to escape. Not a few of the passengers on board the Columbia were teachers and their friends who had been attending the National Educational assoctation in Los Angeles. Many of these have d and were among the arrivals

Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Winslow, who are among the missing, had been residents of Omaha for the last twenty years. They were alone on a pleasure trip, their one child, Mrs. Jessie A. Edwards, wife of George W. Edwards of 2432 Manderson street, remaining at home. Mr. Winslow was formerly a machinist, but had retired recently and was not active in any business. He was 57 years of age. Mrs. Edwards had heard no word from her parents Tuesday morning and the only information she had obtained was from the newspapers. Among those missing appears the names of J. E. Paul and Mrs. Paul. Mrs. Charles Hodder, 3317 Myrtle avenue, fears they may be her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. Paul, who are on the coast. She received a postal from them at Sesside, Ore., dated.

July 17, but in it they did not say anything of a trip to California, though when they left they contemplated one. Mr. Paul is an employe of the Union Pacific shops and lives at 325 Decatur street. He, however, has no middle initial "E."

MOTIVE OF ORCHARD

But nothing was done to Bell, nothing was done to General Burkeley Wells. Not even Orchard could testify to so much as an attempt on the life of the latter, who was prominent both in the militia and the Mine Owners' association. The attorney declared that Orchard had lugged into the case all the various attempts he said h had been hired to make, for the purpose of inflaming the minds of the jurors. Steunenberg Shining Mark. Mr. Richardson said that while every state is expected to take care of the crimes committed within its borders, Colorado had sent an "ocean of her dirty linen here for you gentlemen to wash." Coming again in the course of his argument to the death of Governor Steunenberg, Hay-

The estate of the late William A. Paxton will be divided equally between the widow. Mrs. Mary J. Paxton, and son, William A Paxton, jr., under the terms of the will. which was filed in the county court for probate Tuesday afternoon. The will was drawn by Mr. Paxton fifteen years ago, just before he started on a trip to Europe. It has not been altered since. There are no public bequests in the will, which is a short document of not more than 150 words. It requests that W. A. Paxton, jr., be appointed executor without bond. According to the estimate made in the application for the probate of the will the real and personal property belonging to the estate amounts to $200,000. The court is asked to appoint William A. Paxton. jr., as executor in Accordance to a request

In the will. The document is dated June 14. 1592, and is witnessed by Charles Dryden, Ansel S. Briggs, Guy W. Doane and Julius C. Sharp.

Practically all of the estate is in personal property. Some time ago Mr. Paxton put all of his real estate into the Paxton Real Estate company and its value is represented in the estate by stock in that company.

EARNINGS OF THE OVERLAND Results at End of Fiscal Year Show Union Pacific Still Pros-

That the Harrimon lines are earning real oney, despite all alleged adverse legislation, is shown by the report which is out for the year. The report shows the total gross receipts for the fiscal year ended June 30, for the Union Pacific and Southern Pacific were over $217,000,000. The surplus for dividends of the Union Pacific, ncluding its absolute ownership of 45 per cent of the earnings of the Southern Pacific, after all dividends, amounted to $41,567,275, or 21% per cent on Union Pacific mmon. While the divisible surplus of the Southern Pacific amounted to 12 per cent on its common stock, its real surplus carnings, including the amount which is usually credited to profit and loss from land sales, amounted to 1314 per cent of the common stock.

Watson, Berkeley, Cal.; Alma Osterboog, Zleveland, O.; Miss Stella Cannon, San was working in that maniacal mind th proposition of glutting his desire with the killing of Steunenberg. He wavered and went away to Portland, only to return later and accomplish his purpose, when the fires were fanned into a brighter flame." Richardson here took up the connection of Jack Simpkins with Harry Orchard. Orchard tells you that neither Haywood. Moyer nor Pettibone suggested that Simp kins should help in the crime. Jack Simp kins was a man who had been confined in the bull pen in the Coeur d'Alenes. Hawley has told you that he has fied from justice.

I am not here defending Jack Simpkins, but do not believe that one iota of guilt has been established against Jack Simpkins except that when he was making an official trip to the mines of southern Idaho in response to a letter from Haywood and a equest from the local union, he was inveigled off the train at Caldwell for a day or two by Harry Orchard to fasten suspicion upon him. Simpkins Acted Naturally.

"Now, I will say to you, gentlemen, that if I had been here in 1906; if I had been incarcerated in the Idaho bull pen in 1899; if I had suffered the indignities practiced upon the prisoners in that bull pen; if on December 20, 1996, Governor Steunenberg had been The following is the list of drowned or assassinated and I had connected with that fact the time I spent in the bull pen; if I had added the fact that I was a mem ber of the executive board of the Western Federation of Miners and added further the fact that I had been in Cuidwell with the man arrested for the crime, I would have done, and I believe you would have done, precisely that which was done by Jack Simpkins-would have fled to cover to preserve your liberty."

Motive for Deed. Orchard, said Mr. Richardson, was a demption prior to his leaving the Coeur d'Alenes or not. The thought was always going through his brain that he would have been a rich man if it had not been for Steunenberg. This thought was exgreased to many witnesses, and Richardson enled that these witnesses were lying or > but the absolute truth of their testimony. Richardson reviewed Orchard's movements just prior to the killing of Steunenberg and said his straightened financial condition when he was reduced to necessity of robbing a cash register, of burglarizing a rail. road station and borrowing money from a friend, gave the lie to the theory that the federation was paying for the crime and that he could get money whenever he dealred. Turning to Jack Simpkins, whose suffering of indignities in the buil pen might be urged as a motive for his alleged participation in the Steunenberg murder, Mr. Richardson, declared that a man's animosities did not increase with the passing of years, but generally died out. Simpkins had plenty of opportunity before the arrival of Orchard to kill Steunenberg had he so desired. As court took a receas at 11:30 o'clock until 6 p. m., Mr. Richardson announced. 'so the jury would not fall dead." that he would positively conclude tonight.
