ALDRICH BILL UPON TABLE

House Committee on Banking Decides to Kill Measure.

NO REASONS GIVEN FOR ACTION

Vreeland Bill, introduced as substitute, will be considered in Republican caucus early next week.

WASHINGTON, April 17.—The house committee on banking and currency today voted unanimously to table the Aldrich financial bill. It also was decided to give a hearing tomorrow to Representative Vreeland of New York, who recently introduced a financial bill, which is looked upon as a substitute for the Aldrich measure.

The discussion in committee was brief. The only point debated was as to whether or not the committee should make a formal report giving its reasons to the house for its unfavorable action and the conclusion finally was reached that no reasons should be given. Consequently the committee's report will be a mere statement of the action of the committee.

Of the nineteen members of the committee thirteen were present at today's meeting. They were Messrs. Prince of Illinois, McMoran of Michigan, Waldo of New York, Hayes of Kentucky, Duffey of New York, Lewis of Georgia, Pajo of Louisiana, Glass of Virginia, Gillespie of Texas, Crawford of North Carolina, McHenry of Pennsylvania and Chairman Fowler.

The Vreeland bill introduced in the house last week as a substitute for the Aldrich bill and which, it is understood, is to be considered at a republican caucus to be held next week was not considered at today's meeting of the committee. It was decided, however, to give a hearing tomorrow to Representative Vreeland.

The bill introduced yesterday by Chairman Fowler providing for a currency commission also will be considered at the meeting of the committee tomorrow. The commission idea apparently has many friends in the committee.

Probable Future Action.

The tabling of the Aldrich bill will result in currency legislation being perfected by conference of the two branches of congress, if the house carries out the probable program of now passing the Vreeland bill. In that event the house measure would come to the senate, all after the enacting clause would be struck out and the provisions of the Aldrich bill substituted. The effect would be to put both the Vreeland and Aldrich bills into conference and from there a currency bill would be probably agreed upon.

The Vreeland bill is not fertile in character to the form of legislation provided by the bill which was passed by the senate, and therefore the action of the house committee on banking and currency, in the event its course is followed by a favorable report on the Vreeland bill as a substitute, does not indicate that there will be no currency legislation at this session of congress as the house probably will pass that measure.

Representative Vreeland, in drafting his bill, made provision for the use of commercial paper and all other securities held by national banks, under the national bank act, as an additional class of security upon which emergency currency notes may be issued. He eliminated certain amendments which were tacked on the Aldrich bill while it was under consideration in the senate, including the provision by Senator Johnston requiring national banks to keep three-fourths of their reserves in their own vaults, and the amendment by Senator La Follette prohibiting the loaning of money by any bank to a corporation the officers or directors of which are officers or directors of the corporation seeking the loan.

Fate of Amendments.

It is expected that the senate conferees will make a strong fight for the retention of the Johnston reserve feature, but there is little prospect that the option of the La Follette amendments. Representative Vreeland is not a member of the house committee on banking and currency, yet it is expected that if his bill is passed he will be one of the house conferees. It is not unlikely that Representative Burton would be another, and the democratic member a man who is favorable to legislation along the lines of the Aldrich-Vreeland proposition. Mr. Vreeland and many house leaders favor an amendment to his bill providing for a currency commission to report upon a general revision of the banking laws.

PROCEEDINGS OF THE HOUSE

Debate on Diplomatic and Consular Bill Takes Wide Range.

WASHINGTON, April 17.—The attitude of Emperor William and the Berlin court toward David Jayne Hill, named by the president to be ambassador at that capital, was subject of comment in the house of representatives today during the consideration of the diplomatic and consular bill. Mr. Perkins of New York and Mr. Slayden of Texas expressed the opinion that the objections to Mr. Hill were due to no other cause than that Mr. Hill was financially unable to maintain a certain standard of social representation. Each of them condemned the practice which they said had grown up of selecting men of great wealth for the diplomatic and consular representatives abroad and urged as a means of counteracting the effect of such a policy the housing of our diplomats in buildings owned by the government and the allowance to them of salaries sufficient to enable them to maintain the dignity of their high offices.

Under License of general debate Mr. Griggs of Georgia spoke in advocacy of the

STRONG AS A MULE

Farmer Gets Power From Food.

Any one can better his condition, if eating improper food, by changing to the right kind. It is becoming well known among all classes of people in this country, that strength of mind and body come from the nourishment that is taken into the system in the form of food. A cowboy whose stomach got all out of order on a ranch, went to farming and incidentally found the cause of his trouble and the way out of it. He writes: "I was raised on a cow ranch, living like the rest on beef and potatoes, often eating too much, until my stomach became so weak and I was so run down I had to quit the job. "Then I tried farming but did not get any better. My nerves were all unstrung and I could not sleep at night. A year ago I saw an ad about Grape-Nuts being such a wonderful food, and told my wife I was going to try it. "So I bought a box of Grape-Nuts and by the time I had used this food two weeks, the weakness began to leave my stomach. "Now I weigh 184 pounds, and am as strong as a mule. We eat Grape-Nuts for breakfast, and I also take some as a lunch between meals. I must say the Grape-Nuts is the best diet there is, and nearly everyone in town, seeing my improvement, has taken to eating it. "There's a Reason." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich. ### Limiting Federal Injunctions.

Senator Burkett, who has a bill pending before the judiciary committee, relative to limiting federal injunctions for state courts in the execution of state laws today in explanation of his bill said that it was a substitute for the bill introduced by Senator Overman. He stated that he was not opposed to the Overman bill, his object being to broaden the scope of the measure.

Gamble Bill Reported.

The Gamble bill, creating a new land district in South Dakota, was today favorably reported by the committee on public lands of the house. This measure, generally known as the Lemon land district bill, Senator Gamble put through the senate a week ago, and now with a favorable report from the house committee on public lands will go through the house and thence to the president at an early date.

Oscar E. Barnes of Mitchell, Neb., has been appointed clerk in the reclamation service located in Nebraska.

SENATE PASSES MEASURE GOVERNING MANNER OF THE ISSUANCE OF

WASHINGTON, April 17.—A bill regulating the granting by federal courts of temporary injunctions against state officers in the enforcement of state laws was considered by the senate today. Senator Overman, in calling up the measure explained that it prohibits the granting of injunctions except by a majority of three judges, two at least of which are required to be circuit and the third either a circuit or a district judge.

As Justice Harlan recently said in his dissenting opinion in the case of Attorney General Young of Minnesota, said Mr. Overman, "we have come to a pretty pass when one federal judge can enjoin an official of a state from the enforcement of a law passed by the legislature of the state."

Senator Burkett offered a substitute for the bill. Strong opposition was made by Mr. Heyburn of Idaho to the bill. The fact that the bill applies only to injunctions against the enforcement of state laws was made prominent by Senator Knox of Pennsylvania, who declared it would not endanger proper enforcement of the law under present methods.

After a brief discussion the Burkett substitute was disagreed to and the bill, as reported to the senate, was passed.
