REPUBLICAN COMMITTEE MEETING

Referee Sullivan Preparing to Take Up the Hearing of Express Rates in Nebraska -- Governor at Nehawka.

(From a Staff Correspondent.) LINCOLN, April 17 .- (Special.)-The report of the St. Joseph & Grand Island railroad of the value of its property, filed with the State Board of Assessment, shows this road has taken an entirely different tack from the Northwestern, which increased its valuation four fold, or the Missouri Pacific, which made about the same returns. This road decreased the value of its depots, stock yards, warehouses and property of a like character which are subject to taxation under the terminal tax law, and increased the value of its bridges, which in most instances escape the terminal tax law. The peculiar part of the report is that not one penny was spent for betterment or improvements during the year, while last year a total of $22,065.94 was expended for this purpose. The absence of a report on new bridges constructed makes the report of an increase in the value of bridges peculiar, while the falling off in the value of its local property is not explained. The following table shows the value of the bridges by counties for the two years:

Leopold Moller and others complained to the commission against the way in which the Burlington was constructing its bridge and roadbed across the Platte near Fremont. They alleged the shortening of the bridge would cause overflows and damage to their property. A hearing was had in the matter and Commissioner Clarke selected to write the decision of the commission. This he did this afternoon, holding as net out-above with the further provision that time alone would tell whether the provisions made by the Burlington were adequate. If not, he held, and the commission held with him, the complainants could secure relief in the courts, renew their application to the commission and secure speedy relief there. "Your malt whiskey has been in my home since my marriage, which is nearly four years, and has been termed by me "the family doctor."

My wife recently has been suffering with hypochondriacal mania and tried many doctors, who falled in their efforts to effect a cure. I suggested Duffy's Malt Whiskey and fresh air, which she tried, and am happy to say that she has entirely recovered, thanks self have both suffered from loss of appetite at different periods of married life, and a teaspoonful of your product in water before eating seemed to work wonders. I find also that when worn out and fatigued a little of your medicine (Mrs. Fath calls it beverage) is the very thing to make her feel right.

I cannot recommend your Malt Whiskey too highly, and shall continue its use, as it seems a household necessity."-EDWARD J. FATH, 674 10th Avenue, New York, Nov. 22d, 1907.

No one will know what a great medicine Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey is until it has been used in some serious case of debility, brain fag, indigestion, cough, cold, consumption or wasting disease.

Paid Firemen for Grand Island. GRAND ISLAND, Neb., April 17.—(Special.)—A joint committee of the fire department and of the Commercial club met had decided, without a Chaenting vote, to recommend back to the two uodies that the council provide a fire team and two paid men, a hose wagon (combination chemical), under the supervision of the present volunteer department. The men will be selected by the department just as the chief now is, for appointment by the mayor. It is believed that both of the bodies appointing the committee will approve the recommendation and that the city council will adopt it without a dissenting vote. The aim of the joint committee was to procure for the volunteer department better means for reaching fires quickly.
