

SEATING PLANS AT DENVER

Fourteen Thousand People May Witness Democratic Convention.

ELABORATE TELEGRAPHIC PLANS

Immense Cables Run to Auditorium to Care for Newspaper Men.

Who Will Have Adequate Accommodations.

DENVER, Colo., April 25.—Plans for the seats in the new city auditorium, which is now nearing completion, have been sent by Secretary Mills of the Denver Chamber of Commerce and Convention League to Secretary Woodson of the democratic national committee, for his guidance in making the seating arrangements for the democratic national convention, which meets in Denver July 7.

This is a greater seating capacity than that of the Chicago Coliseum, Madison Square Garden, New York or the Mormon tabernacle in Salt Lake City. Mr. Woodson, whose home is in Owensboro, Ky., will be assisted in the work of arranging places for the various delegations by Colonel John I. Martin, secretary-at-large of the democratic national committee. An assistant, to have special charge of tickets for the press, is yet to be chosen.

On the first floor eight sections of seats, 2,000 in number, all within easy hearing distance of the speaker's platform, have been set aside for delegates and alternates, the number of which is estimated at 2,000. Odd numbered sections of this space will be occupied by the delegates and even numbered sections by the alternates.

On the platform, within plain sight and hearing of all parts of the immense structure, are reserved 100 seats for dignitaries. Immediately adjacent to the platform space is that reserved for the press, where 700 seats have been provided, with four desks for notetaking telegraph equipment.

In all, 2,100 seats have been provided for the general public, divided as follows: 700 on the first floor, 1,400 on the second and 300 in the gallery. Space has been provided for all telegraph companies and for private wires, which is easily reached from all parts of the press reservation. The Western Union and Postal companies drew lots for the space of vantage, and the Postal won, being assigned to the first reservation of 1,700 square feet. Other spaces in the line of reservation are then assigned as follows:

The Associated Press, 800 square feet; two other press associations, 800 square feet each, and the Western Newspaper Union, 1,300 square feet. Cables of immense size are being laid to connect with all public and private wires, and it is estimated that general telegraphic equipment will surpass anything that has been attempted by other cities where national conventions have been held.

The subcommittee of the democratic national committee in charge of the national convention, will meet in Denver May 6, to make the final arrangements for the gathering.
