No more deaths of tornado victims are reported, but additional calls for financial aid have come forth. Crook Town is net one of the smitten places to join in this request, however; it says it needs no outside aid. The relief work is progressing with gratifying results and Omaha is lending its assistance generously.

The Bellevue relief committee compiled the items of immediate need and decided to make a formal request for $15,000. This amount is far from the sum necessary to bring about complete relief, but is the smallest sum which will meet the imperative necessities. In order to raise this sum quickly the mayors of Omaha and South Omaha were appealed to in the following communication presented Friday morning:

The Bellevue relief committee has after a personal examination, made a careful and conservative estimate of the needs of the recent tornado sufferers of this community. In this estimate Bellevue colleges and the two churches are omitted, as well as all insured property holders, those who are fully able to take care of themselves or whose friends are assisting them sufficiently.

To meet the immediate demands $15,000 is imperatively needed.

We believe, with your kind assistance, the people of our two neighboring cities would gladly co-operate in securing this relief.

Oscar Keyser is treasurer of the committee, to whom all funds may be sent, or to some member of the undersigned:

CARE OF RESOURCES

Report Unanimously Adopted.

Governor Folk took occasion to express the benefit he had received from the conference and said he believed it had accomplished lots of good. At this point Governor Glenn arose and acting, as he said, upon the suggestion of the governor of Kentucky, whom he had found to be a very wise man, wanted to withdraw his motion amending the declaration. He added:

"Probably we will never have a little man for president." This created delight among the governors.

President Roosevelt before putting the declaration to a vote said he thought that any president needed only the information that a conference of governors would be agreeable to the governors as an inspiration to call one. The report was then adopted, no dissenting voices being heard. The full text of this declaration of principles is as follows:

Valuable Asset in Water.

We recognize in our waters a most valuable asset of the people of the United States and we recommend the enactment of laws looking to the conservation of water resources for irrigation, water supply, power and navigation, to the end that navigable and source streams may be brought under complete control and fully utilized for every purpose. We especially urge upon the federal congress the immediate adoption of a wise, active and thorough waterway policy providing for the prompt improvement of our streams and conservation of their water sheds required for the use of commerce and the protection of the interests of our people.

Speech of Mr. Bryan.

Mr. Bryan acknowledged his obligations to the president for the opportunity of participating in an historic event of this magnitude. The discussion has already, he said, helped define the proper sphere of national and state control. He said he was jealous of any encroachment upon the rights of the state, but it was entirely consistent with his imperative that the general government should discharge the duties delegated to it as it was that the state should air the powers reserved to them.

Questions of Vital Importance.

We declare our firm conviction that this conservation of the great natural resources of the nation, which should engage unremittingly the attention of the nation, and the interests of the present and future generations. These natural resources include the land on which we live and which yields our food, the waters which fertilize the soil, supply power and form great avenues of commerce, the forests which prevent erosion of the soil and conserve the navigation and other uses of our streams, and the minerals which form the basis of our industrial life and supply us with fuel, iron and power.

President Roosevelt Commended.

We recommended the wise foresight of the president in sounding the note of warning as to the waste and exhaustion of the great resources of the country and signify our appreciation of his action of calling this conference to consider the same, and to seek through the cooperation of the nation and the states.

A TREACHEROUS TROUBLE

The headaches and dizzy feelings that trouble so many persons are often but symptoms of kidney complaint. Kidney diseases are very treacherous. They come on silently, gain ground rapidly, and cause thousands of deaths that could have been prevented by treatment in the beginning. Nature gives early warnings of every disease if you would but note and heed them. Backache, twinges of pain when stooping or lifting, headaches, faint spells and urinary disorders are among the first warnings of kidney trouble.

If these signals are unheeded, there comes a steady, dull, heavy aching in the back and loins, a noticeable weakness and loss of flesh, rheumatic attacks, weakening of the sight, irregular heart action, languor, attacks of gravel, irregular passages of the kidney secretions, sediment, painful, scalding sensation, dropsical bloating, etc.

But there is no need to suffer long. Doan's Kidney Pills cure all kidney troubles. This remedy has made a reputation for quick relief and lasting Every Picture Tells a Story.

It is a simple compound of pure roots and herbs that have a direct action on the kidneys. It was the secret 76 years ago of an old Quaker lady. It was given to the public by James Doan, a druggist, and is now known and recommended the whole world over.

Home cures prove the value of Doan's Kidney Pills to our readers.

OMAHA PROOF:

Mrs. Bohmann, 1913 Oak St., Omaha, Neb., says: "Since Doan's Kidney Pills cured me of kidney trouble several years ago there has never been a return of the complaint. A severe cold which I contracted settled in my kidneys and caused these organs to become diseased. My back ached a great deal and at times passed my condition became more serious. I was suffering severely when Doan's Kidney Pills were brought to my attention and believing that they might help me, I started their use. They promptly eliminated the trouble. In my estimation this is the most reliable proof that could be given in showing their curative power."

tribe expressing sympathy and offering aid. Among the telegrams and letters were communications from A. D. Nesbit, Tekamah; Theo. Morine, Independence, La.; Rev. W. Rowland Williams, Thornton, Ind.; J. C. Robinson, Waterloo; Dr. H. R. Ward, University of Nebraska; W. T. Graham, Omaha; C. E. Starz, South Omaha; David R. Kerr, Westminster college, Mo.; President Lowell M. McAfee, Park college, Parkville, Mo. The above and many others have promised generous contributions.

Fraternal messages of sympathy were received from the alumni of Occidental college, J. Willis Baer of Occidental college, Tarkio; Cotner university, Fremont; Unlaha college, Taber, and Peru normal.

Much Not Covered.

President Wadsworth said: "I believe in strict justice to the school I represent. The public should be informed that although the damage to the college buildings is partly covered by insurance, we have been subjected to many incidental losses which will not be met by the insurance on the buildings. Our furniture was not covered. The college lost two houses in the village, the boiler house in part and the college barn. The loss will be several thousand dollars, which the insurance will not touch."

Right to Haul Carcasses.

Grave Legal Problem is Once More in the Balance of the Courts.

The right to haul away the carcasses of dead animals in Omaha is again to be reviewed by the courts. James Whelan Friday asked the district court for an injunction to prevent Charles Daniels and the City Garbage company from "cutting in" on what he claims is his exclusive right to the bodies of all dead animals in the city not killed for food.

Fort Helps Crook Town.

A meeting of the village board of Crook Town was held Thursday, when it was decided that no outside aid was needed. The firm of Stukler & Katskee and Mrs. Estelle Rubart, postmaster of the village, are leading in the movement of caring for all necessary cases. The village board takes this opportunity of expressing gratitude for the assistance to the village from the military post of Fort Crook. The soldiers have policed the town since the visitation of the tornado. The officers and especially Captains Crisman, Crimmins and Hall, have been very generous in their assistance. They offered their own private residence for the assistance and shelter of sufferers. Twenty or more carpenters are working in the city and the work of repair is well advanced. All of the buildings which were left erect have been repaired.

judge has decided the ordinance under which the contract was made is invalid and will not act under it. He asks the injunction be kept in force until 1909, when his contract expires. Practically the same litigation was gone through with a year ago in district court and at the close of the trial the case was transferred to the federal court. The value of the bodies of dead animals in Omaha is said to be several thousand dollars a year, making the exclusive right to haul and dispose of them a valuable one.

WOLFE GETS SOME BOOSTING

City Inspector Secures Co-Operation of Local Bodies to Bring Boiler-makers' Convention.

City Boiler Inspector Wolfe has interested the Commercial club and the Real Estate exchange in his campaign to secure the next convention of the International Association of Master Boiler-makers for Omaha, and is now preparing a plea for assistance to the mayor and council. The boiler inspector wants the council to make a small appropriation to assist in defraying his expenses at the coming convention that he may present the claims of Omaha, and he has asked the Commercial club and the Real Estate exchange for advertising booklets to give the delegates.
