GROUND BROKEN FOR PLEASANT GREEN BAPTIST CHURCH

Tuesday ground was broken for the Pleasant Green Baptist church at Twenty-second and Paul streets. Among the most enthusiastic workers in handling the shovel were: Mrs. John Costello, wife of the pastor; Mrs. Lena Coleman and Mrs. Mamie Byers. The structure is to be of brick, 36x72, and is to be erected on a lot 58x88. When funds will permit a parsonage will be added. The building will cost complete, if present plans are carried out, about $5,000.

A VISIT TO THE KELLOM SCHOOL

The editor is very much interested in the Kellom school and visits it quite often. Frequently he has been called into consultation by the energetic and efficient principal, Miss Reed, who has a big job on her hands in the management of all sorts and conditions of children in a school family of nearly 1,000 pupils.

Our most recent visit to the school was this week, when we spent nearly an hour in the manual training room, which is in charge of Miss Anna Myers and Miss Gertrude Ruhnk. A class of boys from the seventh grade, our own son being one of the number, were working in oak, making some small, substantial pieces of furniture. We were very much interested. We were shown many pieces of beautiful work and among it a great deal of Red Cross work.

Here is some of the work for the Red Cross that the pupils of Kellom school have recently completed: Bandages, four-tailed, 245; many-tailed, 125; 2x2 gauze wipers, 375; shot bags, 600; double bed socks, 30; hospital leggings, 36; surgeons' caps; comforts, 4; snippings, 4 boxes; knitted goods, 15 shawls and 80 pairs of baby booties. The shawls and baby booties are for Belgian babies.

How school work has grown and become diversified! And just think, great impetus has been given to manual and industrial training in the public school systems of the country by the late Booker T. Washington, an American of color.

It will do you good to visit the school in your neighborhood and get acquainted with the teachers of your children and with whom you ought to co-operate.

DOTSON THE STEPPER

Tangle-Footed Southern Boy Featured With "Step Lively, Girls."

"Step Lively, Girls," a burlesque show that found much favor with patrons of this form of amusement last season, is announced for the coming week at the popular Gayety commencing Saturday matinee, May 4. A new two-act travesty called "The Corset Shop" will be presented and it is said to embrace all the elements that go to make up a rattling good entertainment. Snappy dialogue, lively musical numbers, and novel vaudeville specialties constitute the principal elements of the performance and they are said to be given by a company of unusually talented entertainers. All of the important principals of last season's cast are in the organization, including Rich McAllister, Tiny Hemley, Harry T. Shannon and Dotson, "the midnight stepper." In addition to these are several men and women who have been engaged for their special fitness to the requirements of the new show, among them Raymond Paine, Rhea

Hess and Nettie Hyde. Also there is a large chorus of carefully selected girls, whose beauty and sprightliness will give charm and enjoyment to the long list of new and fetching musical numbers. Elaborate scenery and costumes are said to have been provided with a lavish hand and, according to all reports, the production in its entirety compares favorably with many of those that are seen at the higher priced theaters.

Edward Bower, well known as a producer of a high-class musical comedy, is responsible for the stage management, and Catherine Crawford, favorably known for her artistically presented vaudeville act called "The Fashion Parade," has designed the costumes.

Sunday's matinee starts at 3 o'clock. The final performance of the season occurs next Friday night, May 10, and beginning the following afternoon the Gayety will inaugurate its annual all-summer attraction, "The Dark Secret."
