DISTINGUISHED OUT-OF-TOWN VISITORS AT THE MONITOR OFFICE THIS WEEK

Fred D. McCracken

Fred D. McCracken, field agent of the home registration bureau of U. S. department of labor, under direct supervision of Dr. George E. Haynes, dropped into Omaha and incidentally The Monitor office. When asked why he came here, he said, came in search of a situation—racial, of course—and find you have none.

The conditions here, except your housing, are all that could be expected. You have a strike here in which your people are playing only a small part. Many changes in the history of the communities, states and countries have been wrought over night, such happened when over 2,000,000 souls rose up as by one impulse down in old Dixieland and decided to move to the north side of the Mason and Dixon line. In the congested industrial districts of the north and east that migration has developed a problem, the housing condition being one. It is a well known fact that the contented workman must live in a comfortable home to properly rear his family, the immediate environments must be pleasant and uplifting. Seventy-five per cent of the evils our people are heir to can be traced to the unsanitary illly situated homes. Mr. Haynes has done wonderful work and is still doing much to alleviate these conditions in many of the large congested industrial centers. The northwest must be congratulated for the manner in which the old residents have met and accepted into their communities, church, fraternity, social circle, thereby adjusting at the outset a condition that has proven profitable to both.

Mr. McCracken spent several days in Omaha investigating everything in the province of his work, and making The Monitor office his headquarters. He left Sunday for Chicago, Cleveland and other points east.

Judge R. D. Evans

The Monitor office was treated to a pleasant surprise by a visitor whom we immediately recognized as a son of the sunny southland by the leisurely manner in which he strode into our office, and when he spoke in his simple southern manner in answer to our most pleasant "good morning," it was the usual laconic, "howdy." We recognized our old friend Judge R. D. Evans of Waco, Tex., who in traveling west on business dropped off in Omaha to visit us and get further acquainted. As he leisurely took his seat and patiently awaited the putting away of business he hummed a bar from that once popular song, "Gee Ain't It Great to Meet a Friend From Your Old Home Town," and the echo in my soul said, "It sho' is."

The judge, a graduate of Howard university of law class of 1912, is a prominent figure in his home state, being the attorney for the K. of P. and Courts of Calantha. He enjoys a lucrative practice in McClellan county, which has a population of 32,000 of his race.

The folks down there say that the judge is a most persuasive man, that is they have said so since the trial of young Editor Smith some two years ago, who unfortunately transgressed the law as well as the dignity of the "white folks" in the vicinity when he to their distaste too graphically described the burning of one of his race. The judge who defended Smith in a most eloquent but simple plea on the basis of truth changed the sentiment and the cry from the howl of the mob, "Convict him or we will lynch him," to an "Oh, well, give him a chance."

Those who keep up with the press dispatches will remember that in last February he again took up the cudgles in behalf of his people by succeeding in injoining that most unfair and dominant political machine, "the white man's or democratic party," and after a short yet sensational legal battle was rewarded by Judge Clark and endowed with a decision making the injunction permanent and today for the first time in twenty years the men and women of our race enjoy the right of the ballot in the state of Texas.

It was a real pleasure to us to introduce him to all of our leading business and professional men and he leaves us with pleasant memories of this great growing city of Omaha. He is a Monitor enthusiast and says the food for the mind distributed in the form of constructive editorials is always eagerly awaited for by the hungry intelligent of the southland.

Prominent Press Correspondent Visits City.

Sgt. Major Harrison M. Gillian, 350th machine gun battalion, en route from Camp Grant, Ill., to his home in Dennison, Tex., was a welcome visitor at The Monitor office this week. Sgt. Gillian was formerly second vice president of the National Negro Press association, and at present is general manager of the Standard Life Insurance company's Texas agency, as well as president of the Chisolm News association.

Sgt. Gillian was the guest of Geo. P. Johnson, being in the city on business relative to the Lincoln Motion Picture Co., Inc.

Mr. William Haynes returned to Omaha Saturday. Mr. Haynes, whose marriage was recently celebrated in Philadelphia, returns to his duties here.

Mrs. J. W. Anderson, 1516 North 24th street.; Mrs. O. Banks, 1709 North 26th street, and Mrs. Anna McCowan left last Tuesday for a ten days' trip to Atchison, Kas., St. Joe and Kansas City, Mo.

MRS. RUTH WALLACE ENTERTAINS 1919 GRADUATES

A very delightful party was given on last Saturday night by Mrs. Ruth Wallace of 2004 North 28th street, for the two 1919 graduates of the Omaha Central High school, the Misses Ozelia Dunning and Pearl Ray. In the receiving line with the hostess and the graduates were Mrs. Frances Peoples, the guardian of the Camp Fire girls, and Mrs. Mary Harold, the president of the Phi Delta sorority. After every one had met the graduates a short talk was given by Miss Madre Penn in which she welcomed, congratulated and encouraged the graduates. The grand march was led by Mrs. Wallace and little Miss Sylvia Adams. The rest of the evening was spent in music and dancing.

Mrs. Wallace, who is a very gracious hostess, was assisted by the Camp Fire Girls and the Phi Delta sorority. Mrs. Alley Lewis and Mrs. E. R. West were at the punch bowl.

Nearly a hundred guests were present and all enjoyed themselves thoroughly. It was without doubt one of the prettiest parties of the season.

THE N. A. A. C. P.

Sunday the National Association held a very interesting meeting at St. John's A. M. E. church. Reports of the chairman of the grievance committee followed; an animated discussion ensued.

During the absence of the president and secretary at the Cleveland convention Vice President Lawyer Scruggs and Miss Myrtle Hayden served.
