DON'TS

DQNT Select your brother's neck as your best means of obtaining success. This kind of success topples with the increased strength of the neck.

DONT try to force the world to your own way of thinking and acting. You may do a great injury thereby.

DONT be too eager to lead before you have first learned to follow. "He who would govern others must first be master of himself; which is our most difficult task."

DONT calculate on spending all you make before you die. You may live longer than you calculate. Then there is your posterity to whom you owe a debt.

DONT invest in an automobile when your most needed investment is in a home in which to sleep after the automobile outing. The top of the ladder cannot be reached until you have first touched the rounds below.

DONT aspire to gain influence by fooling your fellowmen. Hypocrisy is a very thin over-garment which is easily torn. When this happens, it will make more conspicuous the filth of the under-garment which will be to your great shame.

DONT get the "swell-head" thinking you know too much to learn more. When you have learned all about this planet, there are seven more about which you know nothing—and then some.

DONT content yourself with what your forefathers have accomplished. Your duty is not done until you yourself have achieved something.

KNOW THE CONSTITUTION

The Ten Original Amendments to the U. S. Constitution

Article I

CONGRESS shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion or prohibiting the free exercise thereof; or abridging the freedom of speech or the press; or the right of the people peaceably to assemble and to petition the government for redress of grievances.

Article II

A well regulated militia being necessary to the security of a free state, the right of the people to keep and bear arms shall not be infringed.

Article III

No soldier shall in time of peace be quartered in any house without the consent of the owner. Nor in war but in a manner to be prescribed by law.

Article IV

The right of the people to be secure in their persons, houses, papers and effects against unreasonable searches and seizures, shall not be violated, and no warrants shall issue but upon cause supported by oath or affirmation and particularly describing the place to be searched, and the person or thing to be seized.

Article V

No person shall be held to answer for a capital or other infamous crime unless on a presentment or indictment of a grand jury, except cases arising in the land or naval forces, or in the militia, when in actual service in time of war or public danger; nor shall any person for the same offence be twice put in jeopardy of life or limb; nor shall he be compelled in any criminal case to be a witness against himself, nor be deprived of life, liberty or property without due process of law; nor shall private property be taken for public use without just compensation.

Article VI

In all criminal prosecutions the accused shall enjoy the right to a speedy and public trial by an impartial jury of the state and district wherein the crime was committed, which districts shall have been previously ascertained by law, and be informed of the nature and cause of the accusation to be confronted with the witnesses against him; to have the assistance of counsel for his defense.

Article VII

In suits at common law, where the value in controversy shall exceed $20, the right of trial by jury shall be preserved, and no fact tried by a jury shall otherwise be re-examined in any other court of the United States than according to the rules of the common law.

Article VIII

Excessive bail shall not be required, nor excessive fines imposed, nor cruel and unusual punishment inflicted.

Article IX

The enumeration in the constitution of certain rights shall not be construed to deny or disparage others retained by the people.

Article X

The powers not delegated to the United States by the constitution, nor prohibited by it to the states, are reserved to the states respectively, or to the people.

The foregoing amendments are known as the original ten amendments and were proposed during the first session of the first congress, held in New York City, March 4, 1789. They were declared in force December 15, 1791.
